Nation's Chief Declares War Not Inevitable

Red-Ruled People Anxious For Peace

HONOLULU, Oct. 13 (AP) — Bound for an historic meeting with Gen. MacArthur on Wake Island, President Truman said today "the people behind the iron curtain are as anxious as we are to have world peace and to avoid another war."

The President, speaking at a luncheon in Honolulu en route to Wake, said: "We have to get the truth to them, and we are going to get it to them.

"I am not one of those people who think another war is inevitable."

Leaving Honolulu shortly before midnight tonight (5 a. m. Saturday, EST), to meet MacArthur, the presidential party will arrive about 6:30 a. m., Sunday, Wake Island time," (2:30 p. m., Saturday, EST) after a 2,300-mile flight of eight to ten hours.

MacArthur Takes Off

Gen. MacArthur took off on his 1,985-mile flight of seven or eight hours to Wake at 7:06 a. m., Saturday, Tokyo time,)5:06 p. m., Friday, EST). He thus will arrive on Wake several hours ahead of the President.

Wake Island was first blazed into America's memory by a gallant Marine garrison which withstood for 14 days an overwhelming attack by Japanese invasion forces at the start of World War II. The garrison capitulated Dec. 24, 1941.

There was no indication of the agenda to be followed in the conference between the President and the United Nations military commander.

Gen. MacArthur took only two advisers with him, John J. Muccio, U. S. Ambassador to Korea, and Brig. Gen. Courtney Whitney, head of MacArthur's occupation government section in Japan.

The General will carry detailed information on subjects ranging from the Korean military campaign to economic statistics about Japan and all of East Asia.

Brief Conference Seen

Gen. MacArthur's aides expected talks would cover the full range of matters comprising American foreign policy in the Far East in the less than eight hours Mr. Truman and the General will have together.

In a speech at Pearl Harbor at noon, the President made no mention of the matters to be discussed but talked of the problems of world peace.

He said he would make the United

Occupation Plan For North Korea Proposed By U. S.

South Korea Assails Commission Decision

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 13 (AP)—The United States proposed today an occupation plan for Gen. Douglas MacArthur to govern North Korea until an all-Korean regime is established.

The Americans also suggested to the U. N. Commission on Korea that GIs be pulled out of occupation duty as quickly as possible, with other U. N. forces taking up that task; that war criminals be tried, and that there be no reprisals against North Korean soldiers and ordinary, rank-and-file Communists in the north.

Finally, the Americans were reported to have agreed with a commission decision, transmitted late yesterday to MacArthur, that the authority of President Syngman Rhee, of the U. N.-sponsored Republic of Korea, be limited to South Korea at least until all problems on unifying the country are settled.

Rhee Assails Plan

It was indicated here these ideas would be among those subjects to be discussed by President Truman and MacArthur at their coming Pacific conference.

In Seoul today Rhee and cabinet members expressed disbelief at the Korea commission's decision to limit his government's immediate control to South Korea. That would make the plan impossible "for the Korean people to accept," Rhee said.

The Americans were reported to be favoring elections only in North Korea, with vacancies in the present republican (South Korea) congress to be filled by these elections. They were said to be opposed to general, all-Korean elections on the grounds that the republic was elected by a U. N. supervised vote and it is not necessary to have another ballot.

All-Korean Vote Backed

Australia, a member of the Korean commission, is ready to demand an all-Korean vote before the unified government is formed. Britain is said to be backing the Australian view. A decision on elections must be made by the U. N. commission.

The U. S. ocupation plan calls for:

Initial occupation to be from the time the fighting is almost over until internal security is established in the greater part of North Korea. MacArthur would be the supreme authority.

The second phase would continue until elections are held in North Korea which would enable a national government to assume responsibility.

France Seeks Over 3 Billions In Military Aid

U. S. Arms Will Be Sped To Indochina

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—France was reported to have asked the United States today to provide a total of $3,170,000,000 in military aid for the French armed forces during 1951.

American officials said France was told the request is too big but that some money will be allocated almost immediately.

The French also were given formal assurances that the United States is making every effort to speed the delivery of fighting equipment to Indochina, where French forces are striving to hold off advancing Communists.

Secretary of Defense Marshall gave these latter assurances in conferences with two French cabinet officers, Defense Minister Jules Moch and Finance Minister Maurice Petsche.

Officials said Moch made the $3,170,000,000 request in a meeting with Marshall, Secretary of State Acheson and Treasury Secretary Snyder.

$2,400,000,000 In Arms

Moch suggested that the $3,170,000,000 be allocated as follows:

1. About $2,100,000,000 in finished American military equipment such as guns, tanks, and planes which would be sent to France.

2. About $300,000,000 worth of additional military supplies to be allocated to French troops in Indochina.

3. About $770,000,000 in direct dollar assistance to the French treasury to help it withstand the impact of a stepped up rearmament program.

Officials who attended the meeting at the State Department said Moch also presented plans for boosting France's present armed strength in Europe from ten to 20 divisions at the end of 1953 with the hope this might rise to 28 divisions.

Moch proposed, it was said, that three new divisions be added to the seven divisions France now has mobilized at home and in Western Germany.

"Flaws" Pointed Out

During today's meetings, officials said American leaders pointed out what they considered to be these flaws in the French proposals:

1. The United States is opposed to France's spending money to construct three light aircraft carriers, one escort carrier and carrier fighters. The American view is the naval program could better be handled by Britain or some other Atlantic pact nation.

2. France is "optimistic" when it believes it can begin fullscale production of many military items in French factories by early December, providing it gets a substantial allocation of funds by November 1.

3. American military authorities doubt the wisdom of rushing large scale production of a new-type 13-ton tank destroyer which the French want to produce by the thousands.

4. The French government can reduce the amount of funds earmarked for public improvement projects, such as housing, factory reconstruction to find funds to meet the rearmament deficit.

5. French treasury authorities appear to have underestimated the amount of taxes that can be collected and to have underestimated the effects of increasing prices on their program.

Tightening Of Curbs On Credit Ordered, Effective On Monday

Payoff Time On Autos Cut From 21 To 15 Months

Down Payment On Appliances Jumped

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—The Federal Reserve Board tonight ordered a sharp tightening, effective Monday, of the consumer credit curbs it laid down less than a month ago.

The tightening up order:

Cuts the payoff limit on installment purchases of automobiles from 21 to 15 months, while leaving the cash down payment at one-third of the price. The new rules equal the stiffest World War II terms on automobiles.

Jumps the down payment on television sets, radios and major household appliances from 15 to 25 per cent and cuts the payoff time from 18 months to 15.

Furniture Terms Stiffer

Raises the down payment on furniture from 10 to 15 per cent, and cuts the payoff limit from 18 months to 15.

In addition, the board applied the down payment requirements to all regulated articles costing $50 or more. The initial terms, fixed Sept. 18, had exempted articles costing up to $100.

The board also required that installment loans granted to purchase any of the articles subject to controls be subjected to the same limits as applied to installment sales of those articles.

Further, it reduced the payoff limit from 18 to 15 months for installment loans granted to purchase articles not subject to controls.

Terms on goods other than automobiles will still be below the wartime maximums, which called for a 12-month payoff and down payments of 20 per cent on furniture and one-third on the other articles.

Price Increase Cited

One requirement of the earlier regulation was left untouched. This set the down payment on home improvement credits at 10 per cent and the payoff limit at 30 months.

Reserve Board Chairman Thomas B. McCabe said the action was based upon consideration of reports from "all parts of the country" showing x x x "continued upward pressures on prices in the five weeks" since the board announced that credit controls were to be reimposed Sept. 18.

German Reds Close Door To Opposition In Election

BERLIN, Oct. 13 (AP)—Communist-ruled East Germany, closing the door to all opposition in carrying out its one-ticket election Sunday, tonight barred even residents of Soviet-occupied East Berlin from entering the eastern zone over the wekend.

East Berlin is not participating in the election under a 1945 four-power agreement. The city is divided into four sectors, of which the Soviet sector is one. The other three divisions are the American, British and French sectors, constituting West Berlin.

In addition to imposing the travel ban, Russian-backed East Germany ordered the East Berliners to do a "volunteer" day's work on election day. This is expected to keep them busy and prevent any possible dissidents from entering the east zone to interfere with plans for a unanimous endorsement of the pro-Red, handpicked slate.

The extent of anti-Red feeling in East Berlin was indicated to some degree in the recent "ration card plebiscite" held by West Berlin city officials. A total of 375,712 residents of the eastern sector mailed their old ration cards to West Berlin in response to a call for them to show in this way their opposition to Communism. The latest population count (1946) listed 1,174,582 residents of East Berlin.

The Communists went ahead with harsh measures and unabashed threats to force a unanimous east zone turnout.

By radio, newspaper and word-of-mouth warnings, the Communist rulers of the east zone "German People's Democratic Republic" make it plain that all 13,000,000 East German voters must turn out — or else. The voters have no choice but to cast ballots for the "national front" ticket, which is 70 per cent Communist.

It seemed certain that the Communists would get 95 per cent of the East German voters to the polls. It would be too dangerous for the voters to resist.

Philly Racket Links Reported

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 13 (AP) — Senate crime probers have been told that Philadelphia's "substantial" numbers racket is operated in conjunction with a national syndicate, Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) said today.

Kefauver, opening hearings here as another step in a nationwide investigation by a special Senate subcommittee, said that in testimony this morning Harry Stromberg, New York, known here as Nig Rosen, was named as the head of the Philadelphia operation.

The Senator said this testimony was given by Assistant Superintendent of Police George F. Richardson, who added that Stromberg maintains close tie-ins with key racketeers in other cities.

Among the people with whom Rosen has been closely associated, Richardson told the committee, are Frank Costello and Myer Lansky of New York, Herman Taylor, Philadelphia, and Jimmy La Fontaine, of Maryland.

Richardson was one of a number of witnesses called before the committee this morning in a closed session.

The Senator told reporters later: "The testimony was that there is a substantial numbers operation in Philadelphia."

Five Men Killed In Plane Crash

ALMELUND, Minn., Oct. 13 (INS)—A Northwest Airlines plane crashed in a field today near Almelund, Minn., killing five men and seriously injuring a sixth man.

The airlines company identified the dead as:

Capt. Raymond Francis Render, 34, Minneapolis; Capt. John R. Galt, 37, St. Paul, Minn.; William Solomon, Minneapolis, inspector for the Civil Aeronautics Authority; Everett Bergstrom, St. Paul, an air control tower man, and Robert H. Olsen, Rice Lake, Wis., also an air control tower man.

The lone survivor, Bruce Erickson, Minneapolis, was taken to a hospital in St. Croix Falls, Wis. where physicians said his condition is serious.

The airlines office in Minneapolis said the plane, of the Martin 537 type, was on "a routine personnel check flight" when it crashed on the farm of Waldo McKinney. Almelund is about 50 miles south of Minneapolis.

A routine personnel check flight is a refresher course taken periodically by airlines pilots.

U.N. Continues Sea-Air Blows On East Coast

U. S. Troops Reach Town Of Kumchon

TOKYO, Saturday, Oct. 14 (AP)—Mighty Allied sea-air power slashed at the Red Korean east coast supply line almost to the Siberian border Friday as American infantrymen carved into 20,000 Reds trapped on the road to the Red capital of Pyongyang.

Thirty-seven warships led by the battleship Missouri bombarded ports, rail lines and other communications facilities along a 130-mile strip of coast from Songjin northward through falling Chongjin, 140 miles southwest of Soviet Vladivostok.

Fighters and bombers of the U. S. Far East Air Forces ranged up and down the area at the same time, rocketing and bombing bridges, marshalling yards, warehouses, docks and wharfs.

Unsupported speculation continued as to whether this second straight day of east coastal blasting was the prelude to an Allied amphibious landing or a feint to draw Red attention from a landing in the west.

No Evidence Of Landing

There was no evidence of a new Allied landing anywhere on North Korean shores, and there was no comment on the possibility from anyone in Gen. MacArthur's Tokyo headquarters.

A spearhead of the U. S. First Cavalry Division snared the estimated 20,000 Reds when it swung in behind them Friday and seized the road junction town of Hanpo, 65 air miles southeast of Pyongyang.

A spokesman for Gen. MacArthur said American infantrymen were "cleaning up" on the pocketed troops. He said the fighting was fierce but that the foot cavalrymen had the upper hand.

Another First Cavalry column striking from the east reached the town of Kumchon, eight miles south of Hanpo, a division spokesman announced. The column had traveled 20 miles north from the border city of Kaesong.

A third column of the First Cavalry was advancing slowly up the main road from Kaesong towards Kumchon, clearing Communist-planted mines as it moved. This column knocked out three Red tanks during the night of Thursday-Friday, and was last reported four miles south of Kumchon.

Reds Speed Toward Kumchon

Two Red divisions were reported racing towards Kumchon from the Ongjin Peninsula on the west coast 50 miles distant.

East of the U. S. First Cavalry and British commonwealth troops, the South Korean Fifth Division was striking towards Hanpo to complete the lock on the trapped Communist troops.

At the right of the fifth, the South Korean Eighth Division advanced north of Pyonggang, one-time Red defense center 90 miles southeast of Pyongyang.

On the far northeast end of the advancing Allied front, elements of the South Korean Third and Capital Divisions unexpectedly rolled three miles north of captured Wonsan port.

Earlier they were reported three miles west of the big port city and heading west for Pyongyang.

6 Die In Crash Near Altoona, Pa.

ALTOONA, Pa., Oct. 13 (AP) — A terrific headon collision between a truck and auto killed all six occupants of the auto today on Route 22 a few miles east of Altoona.

State Police Sergeant Edward J. Fox said the victims were Pennsylvania Railroad employes returning home from work at Altoona.

Fox said the truck driver, Joseph Wright, of Ellerbee (Richmond County), N. C., escaped injury.

The auto was crushed like an accordion.

The auto had to be torn apart to remove the bodies of the men who only a few minutes before had ended their day's labor at the huge Pennsylvania Railroad shops.

The men were all residents of Cresson, Pa., about 22 miles from Altoona.

Sgt. Fox, who said ages of the men were not immediately available, identified them as: Norman N. Schenk, Richard Tubbs, William J. Mulhern, Leonard Scott, Jr., R. J. McCartney, Jr., and Edward J. Burns.

Hiss' Attorney Raps Conviction

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP)—Alger Hiss' attorney today branded Hiss' perjury conviction the result of a pack of psychopathic lies by Whittaker Chambers, former Communist spy ring courier.

But the government retorted that the jury which convicted Hiss already had heard such arguments and decided it was Hiss—not "Rumpelstiltskin" — who passed secret government papers to Chambers.

(Rumpelstiltskin was a kind, helpful dwarf of German legend and fairy tale.)

Hiss was indicted for perjury when he denied passing the papers to Chambers, and claimed he never saw Chambers after Jan. 1, 1937.

The arguments today were made in a three-hour session before a three-judge U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals. The court withheld an immediate decision.

Hiss, former high State Department official and once a top adviser to President Roosevelt, has been free in $10,000 bail since his federal court conviction last January.

Tariff On Dried Eggs From China Boosted

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—The tariff on dried eggs from China goes up to 27 cents a pound under a proclamation issued by the White House today. It has been 17 cents under a 1947 trade agreement made before the Communists took control.

The change comes in the midst of a furore over shipments of such eggs from the Oriental nation. The eggs are reported piled up in a Seattle warehouse and Rep. Mitchell (D-Wash) has demanded an investigation of the imports.

Jury Decides $4,500 Worth Of Pearls Eaten By Horse

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 13 (AP) — By a simple matter of arithmetic a jury decided today the horse that ate the necklace consumed a $4,500 tid-bit.

And the horse, who did not figure in the trial, was owned by Mrs. Gearhard's sister.

But the pearls were insured by the Boston (Mass.) Insurance Co. for $5,000 and Mrs. Gearhard sued the company when it failed to honor her claim for $4,400.

Mrs. Gearhard said the horse ate 69 pearls, the biggest and most valuable on the strand. She got 262 back when she struggled with the horse and broke the necklace.

The jury pondered an hour and a half today and then brought back answers to three questions put to it in court:

1. Can the necklace be reconstructed in its original appearance and form. No, said the jury.

2. What is the value of the 262 pearls retrieved? Five hundred dollars figured the jury.

3. What was the actual value of the necklace before it was damaged by the horse. The jury penciled $5,000.

Korean Reds Slew 500 Prisoners In Wonsan

WONSAN, Korea, Oct. 13 (AP) — North Korean Communist police killed at least 500 political prisoners in the last days of Red rule in Wonsan, some of those who escaped the slaughter said today.

The prisoners were taken from Wonsan penitentiary just before South Korean troops liberated this east coast port.

About 300 were shot in a cave on a hillside above the prison. Two hundred others were trucked to the seashore, shot and thrown into the surf.

18 Men En Route To Struck Plant Wounded In Ambush

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 13 (AP)—A truck loaded with 35 negro workmen, en route to a struck lumber plant, was fired on from ambush today and 18 were wounded.

Twelve were in a hospital tonight and doctors said they had from 50 to 75 shotgun pellets imbedded deeply in their bodies. Two may lose the sight of an eye.

Detective Chief John McCarthy said 35 negro strikers were jailed tonight for investigation on charges of assault with intent to murder.

Police said two or more men laid in wait for the truck and blasted away with shotguns. Frank Smith, riding in a car escorting the truck said he fired twice at two men who shot at the truck.

The Reynolds and Manley Lumber Company plant, where the strike is underway, obtained a temporary injunction late today to prevent further violence and mass picketing.

J. T. Mooney, international representative of the union, said in a statement: "I understand they have all the men who were anywhere near the union strike building in jail. For that reason I haven't been able to find out anything more than I see in the newspapers about what happened. It is difficult for me to believe any of our members were connected with the shooting. If any were involved, their actions certainly were against the policy of the union."

This is expected to keep them busy and prevent any possible dissidents from entering the east zone to interfere with plans for a unanimous endorsement of the pro-Red, handpicked slate.

The extent of anti-Red feeling in East Berlin was indicated to some degree in the recent "ration card plebiscite" held by West Berlin city officials. A total of 375,712 residents of the eastern sector mailed their old ration cards to West Berlin in response to a call for them to show in this way their opposition to Communism. The latest population count (1946) listed 1,174,582 residents of East Berlin.

The Communists went ahead with harsh measures and unabashed threats to force a unanimous east zone turnout.

By radio, newspaper and word-of-mouth warnings, the Communist rulers of the east zone "German People's Democratic Republic" make it plain that all 13,000,000 East German voters must turn out — or else. The voters have no choice but to cast ballots for the "national front" ticket, which is 70 per cent Communist.

It seemed certain that the Communists would get 95 per cent of the East German voters to the polls. It would be too dangerous for the voters to resist.

Philly Racket Links Reported

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 13 (AP) — Senate crime probers have been told that Philadelphia's "substantial" numbers racket is operated in conjunction with a national syndicate, Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) said today.

Kefauver, opening hearings here as another step in a nationwide investigation by a special Senate subcommittee, said that in testimony this morning Harry Stromberg, New York, known here as Nig Rosen, was named as the head of the Philadelphia operation.

The Senator said this testimony was given by Assistant Superintendent of Police George F. Richardson, who added that Stromberg maintains close tie-ins with key racketeers in other cities.

Among the people with whom Rosen has been closely associated, Richardson told the committee, are Frank Costello and Myer Lansky of New York, Herman Taylor, Philadelphia, and Jimmy La Fontaine of Maryland.

Richardson was one of a number of witnesses called before the committee this morning in a closed session.

The Senator told reporters later: "The testimony was that there is a substantial numbers operation in Philadelphia."

Capt. Raymond Francis Render, 34, Minneapolis; Capt. John R. Galt, 37, St. Paul, Minn.; William Solomon, Minneapolis, inspector for the Civil Aeronautics Authority; Everett Bergstrom, St. Paul, an air control tower man, and Robert H. Olsen, Rice Lake, Wis., also an air control tower man.

The lone survivor, Bruce Erickson, Minneapolis, was taken to a hospital in St. Croix Falls, Wis. where physicians said his condition is serious.

The airlines office in Minneapolis said the plane, of the Martin 537 type, was on "a routine personnel check flight" when it crashed on the farm of Waldo McKinney. Almelund is about 50 miles south of Minneapolis.

Payoff Time On Autos Cut From 21 To 15 Months

Down Payment On Appliances Jumped

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—The Federal Reserve Board tonight ordered a sharp tightening, effective Monday, of the consumer credit curbs it laid down less than a month ago.

The tightening up order:

Cuts the payoff limit on installment purchases of automobiles from 21 to 15 months, while leaving the cash down payment at one-third of the price. The new rules equal the stiffest World War II terms on automobiles.

Jumps the down payment on television sets, radios and major household appliances from 15 to 25 per cent and cuts the payoff time from 18 months to 15.

Furniture Terms Stiffer

Raises the down payment on furniture from 10 to 15 per cent, and cuts the payoff limit from 18 months to 15.

In addition, the board applied the down payment requirements to all regulated articles costing $50 or more. The initial terms, fixed Sept. 18, had exempted articles costing up to $100.

The board also required that installment loans granted to purchase any of the articles subject to controls be subjected to the same limits as applied to installment sales of those articles.

Further, it reduced the payoff limit from 18 to 15 months for installment loans granted to purchase articles not subject to controls.

Terms on goods other than automobiles will still be below the wartime maximums, which called for a 12-month payoff and down payments of 20 per cent on furniture and one-third on the other articles.

Price Increase Cited

One requirement of the earlier regulation was left untouched. This set the down payment on home improvement credits at 10 per cent and the payoff limit at 30 months.

Reserve Board Chairman Thomas B. McCabe said the action was based upon consideration of reports from "all parts of the country" showing x x x "continued upward pressures on prices in the five weeks" since the board announced that credit controls were to be reimposed Sept. 18.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 13 (AP) — Whew!

It hit 104 degrees in downtown Los Angeles today—the hottest October day on record.

What's to blame? Florida, the man said.

Chief Forecaster A. K. Showalter of the Weather Bureau, said a six-day flow of Florida air, complete with thunderstorms, finally built up into today's sizzler.

He even called it a "Florida-style" pattern.

U.N. Continues Sea-Air Blows On East Coast

U. S. Troops Reach Town Of Kumchon

TOKYO, Saturday, Oct. 14 (AP)—Mighty Allied sea-air power slashed at the Red Korean east coast supply line almost to the Siberian border Friday as American infantrymen carved into 20,000 Reds trapped on the road to the Red capital of Pyongyang.

Thirty-seven warships led by the battleship Missouri bombarded ports, rail lines and other communications facilities along a 130-mile strip of coast from Songjin northward through falling Chongjin, 140 miles southwest of Soviet Vladivostok.

Fighters and bombers of the U. S. Far East Air Forces ranged up and down the area at the same time, rocketing and bombing bridges, marshalling yards, warehouses, docks and wharfs.

Unsupported speculation continued as to whether this second straight day of east coastal blasting was the prelude to an Allied amphibious landing or a feint to draw Red attention from a landing in the west.

No Evidence Of Landing

There was no evidence of a new Allied landing anywhere on North Korean shores, and there was no comment on the possibility from anyone in Gen. MacArthur's Tokyo headquarters.

A spearhead of the U. S. First Cavalry Division snared the estimated 20,000 Reds when it swung in behind them Friday and seized the road junction town of Hanpo, 65 air miles southeast of Pyongyang.

A spokesman for Gen. MacArthur said American infantrymen were "cleaning up" on the pocketed troops. He said the fighting was fierce but that the foot cavalrymen had the upper hand.

Another First Cavalry column striking from the east reached the town of Kumchon, eight miles south of Hanpo, a division spokesman announced. The column had traveled 20 miles north from the border city of Kaesong.

A third column of the First Cavalry was advancing slowly up the main road from Kaesong towards Kumchon, clearing Communist-planted mines as it moved. This column knocked out three Red tanks during the night of Thursday-Friday, and was last reported four miles south of Kumchon.

Reds Speed Toward Kumchon

Two Red divisions were reported racing towards Kumchon from the Ongjin Peninsula on the west coast 50 miles distant.

East of the U. S. First Cavalry and British commonwealth troops, the South Korean Fifth Division was striking towards Hanpo to complete the lock on the trapped Communist troops.

At the right of the fifth, the South Korean Eighth Division advanced north of Pyonggang, one-time Red defense center 90 miles southeast of Pyongyang.

On the far northeast end of the advancing Allied front, elements of the South Korean Third and Capital Divisions unexpectedly rolled three miles north of captured Wonsan port.

Earlier they were reported three miles west of the big port city and heading west for Pyongyang.

6 Die In Crash Near Altoona, Pa.

ALTOONA, Pa., Oct. 13 (AP) — A terrific headon collision between a truck and auto killed all six occupants of the auto today on Route 22 a few miles east of Altoona.

State Police Sergeant Edward J. Fox said the victims were Pennsylvania Railroad employes returning home from work at Altoona.

Fox said the truck driver, Joseph Wright, of Ellerbee (Richmond County), N. C., escaped injury.

The auto was crushed like an accordion.

The auto had to be torn apart to remove the bodies of the men who only a few minutes before had ended their day's labor at the huge Pennsylvania Railroad shops.

The men were all residents of Cresson, Pa., about 22 miles from Altoona.

Sgt. Fox, who said ages of the men were not immediately available, identified them as: Norman N. Schenk, Richard Tubbs, William J. Mulhern, Leonard Scott, Jr., R. J. McCartney, Jr., and Edward J. Burns.

Hiss' Attorney Raps Conviction

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP)—Alger Hiss' attorney today branded Hiss' perjury conviction the result of a pack of psychopathic lies by Whittaker Chambers, former Communist spy ring courier.

But the government retorted that the jury which convicted Hiss already had heard such arguments and decided it was Hiss—not "Rumpelstiltskin" — who passed secret government papers to Chambers.

(Rumpelstiltskin was a kind, helpful dwarf of German legend and fairy tale.)

Hiss was indicted for perjury when he denied passing the papers to Chambers, and claimed he never saw Chambers after Jan. 1, 1937.

The arguments today were made in a three-hour session before a three-judge U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals. The court withheld an immediate decision.

Hiss, former high State Department official and once a top adviser to President Roosevelt, has been free in $10,000 bail since his federal court conviction last January.

Tariff On Dried Eggs From China Boosted

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—The tariff on dried eggs from China goes up to 27 cents a pound under a proclamation issued by the White House today. It has been 17 cents under a 1947 trade agreement made before the Communists took control.

The change comes in the midst of a furore over shipments of such eggs from the Oriental nation. The eggs are reported piled up in a Seattle warehouse and Rep. Mitchell (D-Wash) has demanded an investigation of the imports.

Jury Decides $4,500 Worth Of Pearls Eaten By Horse

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 13 (AP) — By a simple matter of arithmetic a jury decided today the horse that ate the necklace consumed a $4,500 tid-bit.

And the horse, who did not figure in the trial, was owned by Mrs. Gearhard's sister.

But the pearls were insured by the Boston (Mass.) Insurance Co. for $5,000 and Mrs. Gearhard sued the company when it failed to honor her claim for $4,400.

Mrs. Gearhard said the horse ate 69 pearls, the biggest and most valuable on the strand. She got 262 back when she struggled with the horse and broke the necklace.

The jury pondered an hour and a half today and then brought back answers to three questions put to it in court:

1. Can the necklace be reconstructed in its original appearance and form. No, said the jury.

2. What is the value of the 262 pearls retrieved? Five hundred dollars figured the jury.

3. What was the actual value of the necklace before it was damaged by the horse. The jury penciled $5,000.

Korean Reds Slew 500 Prisoners In Wonsan

WONSAN, Korea, Oct. 13 (AP) — North Korean Communist police killed at least 500 political prisoners in the last days of Red rule in Wonsan, some of those who escaped the slaughter said today.

About 300 were shot in a cave on a hillside above the prison. Two hundred others were trucked to the seashore, shot and thrown into the surf.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13 (AP)—The Navy announced today that planes from the U. S. Carrier Valley Forge sank a North Korean destroyer escort yesterday near liberated Wonsan on the east coast of Red Korea.

18 Men En Route To Struck Plant Wounded In Ambush

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 13 (AP)—A truck loaded with 35 negro workmen, en route to a struck lumber plant, was fired on from ambush today and 18 were wounded.

Twelve were in a hospital tonight and doctors said they had from 50 to 75 shotgun pellets imbedded deeply in their bodies. Two may lose the sight of an eye.

Detective Chief John McCarthy said 35 negro strikers were jailed tonight for investigation on charges of assault with intent to murder.

Police said two or more men laid in wait for the truck and blasted away with shotguns. Frank Smith, riding in a car escorting the truck said he fired twice at two men who shot at the truck.

The Reynolds and Manley Lumber Company plant, where the strike is underway, obtained a temporary injunction late today to prevent further violence and mass picketing.

J. T. Mooney, international representative of the union, said in a statement: "I understand they have all the men who were anywhere near the union strike building in jail. For that reason I haven't been able to find out anything more than I see in the newspapers about what happened. It is difficult for me to believe any of our members were connected with the shooting. If any were involved, their actions certainly were against the policy of the union."

"Black Friday" For Many Caught In Visa Freeze

LONDON, Oct. 13 (AP) — It was black Friday the thirteenth today for hundreds of Germans, Austrians and Italians caught in the United States visa freeze.

The State Department order cancelling all visas issued by embassies abroad up to Oct. 12, and requiring their re-validation, hit thousands of Europeans headed for the United States.

For some of them, there were no serious consequences. U. S. consulates in a dozen major cities merely stamped their already visaed passports and they were free to sail or fly at once.

It was different for nations of former enemy countries whose possible past connections with Communist, Nazi or Fascist organizations makes them targets of the new American anti-spy law.

In Frankfurt, Germany, Pan American World Airways reported that 144 bookings to the United States had been cancelled during the past six days in the confusion over interpretation of the new law.

Of these, 67 were emigrants, left almost penniless because they had sold their remaining belongings to get the money needed to start a new life in America. Most appealed to charitable organizations for help to tide them over.

The remainder were students or other Germans approved by the U. S. high commission to visit the U. S. under cultural exchange programs.

Vote Suit's Dismissal Requested By Ennis

BALTIMORE, Oct. 13 (AP)—Dismissal was asked today of the suit against Maryland's unique unit vote system.

Mahoney subsequently gave up his efforts to snatch the nomination from Gov. Lane but the suit against the system which lost him the election is still in the works.

Asking for dismissal of the action was Robert B. Ennis, chairman of the Democratic state central committee. He contended he is the wrong person; that he should never have been named a co-defendant.

The action named Ennis and Secretary of State Vivian V. Simpson as being responsible for certifying the names of successful candidates. Ennis said the law gives that job to Miss Simpson and State Sen. Harold Sothoron, who presided at the Democratic convention.

Miners' Benefits Are Expanded

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—Benefits for disabled soft coal miners and for the families of deceased coal diggers were announced today by the United Mine Workers welfare and retirement fund.

Industry sources estimated the cost at $2,000,000 a month. This is in addition to other benefits previously resumed after the payment stoppage that accompanied last spring's contract dispute.

The new commitments, announced in the UMW Journal and further explained to newsmen by Val Mitch, general counsel of the fund:

1. For miners' widows more than 50 years old—$30 a month with $10 additional for each dependent child under 18 years old or incapacitated.

2. For widows and dependent children of deceased miners—the same hospital and medical service already provided for UMW members, their wives and children under 18.

3. For adult dependents of living miners—hospital service limited to 60 days a year.

4. For disabled miners 45 to 60 years old, and younger men disabled for at least five years—$30 a month with $10 more for each dependent child under 18 or incapacitated person living with the miners.

More Scrap Rubber Moving To Red China

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13 (AP) — Scrap rubber is moving in increasing volume through San Francisco to Communist China.

Reports to the U. S. Department of Commerce showed today that 2,000 tons moved through the port in September. This was 20 times July's volume, and equalled the total for all of last year.

A consignment of 300 tons of rubber scrap was being assembled here for loading Monday on the Norwegian freighter Lisholt. It is destined for Taku Bar and Tsingtao.

The customs service said such shipments are not subject to export license; that common rubber scrap can be sent to any place except North Korea.

Appeal Planned By Progressives

BALTIMORE, Oct. 13 (AP)—Progressive Party members considered an appeal today in their battle against Maryland's anti-subversive law but figured they had scored "a major victory" on one front.

They lokked upon the exemption of congressional candidates from the loyalty oath clause of the so-called Ober law as a scor for their side. They said it will help beat the Ober law at the polls.

The Maryland Court of Appeals held that congressional candidates don't have to take the oath but that candidates for the governorship do.

The court was unanimous yesterday in the decision involving congressional candidates but split 3-2 on the gubernatorial ruling.

The Progressives are fighting the Ober law on the ground that it is unconstitutional.

Thelma Gerende and Louis Shub, two Progressives affected by the ruling, said in a joint statement today that the "three-to-two split x x x reveals the doubt of the court as to the constitutionality of the oath."

As a result of the decision, Miss Gerende will be on the ballot as a candidate for Congress from the Second District. Shub must sign the oath before he can be listed as a gubernatorial candidate.

Progressive Party lawyers indicated that an appeal in Shub's case may be made to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Sailor Held In Theft Of King's Dispatch Box

LONDON, Oct. 13 (INS)—King George's diplomatic dispatch box containing official papers was stolen from Buckingham Palace early today in a sensational theft which police charged to a young sailor.

The box, which officially was said to contain "only correspondence," was recovered later in a trash can near the palace. Its contents were intact.

Douglas Monro, 26-year-old seaman from Scotland, will appear in Bow Street magistrate's court tomorrow. Police said they caught him when he tried to escape over a heavily-guarded palace wall.

Motorist Won't Dim Lights? Then Use "Diverter Lamp"

BALTIMORE, Oct. 13 (AP) — The Maryland Department of Motor Vehicles thinks a Baltimore inventor has come up with a good defense against drivers who won't dim their lights.

The inventor is Charles Adler, Jr., already credited with devising a way of grinding designs into the lenses of traffic lights so color-blind drivers can tell whether they show red or green.

Adler has what he calls a "diverter lamp." It's something like a fog light which many motorists install on their cars.

Bride Comes Home From Honeymoon In 'Lung' On Truck

WEST BEND, Wis., Oct. 13 (AP)—Mrs. Lydia Kasper, 28, came home from her honeymoon today in an iron lung.

She was married to Emanuel Kasper at Thienxville Aug. 6. They went to Minocqua for their honeymoon. Five days later Mrs. Kasper was striken with polio, rushed to the isolation hospital at Wausau and placed in an iron lung.

Although she has made some gains, physicians thought her progress toward recovery would be hastened if she could be moved nearer her family and friends. She made the 165-mile trip to the hospital at West Bend today in an iron lung transported in a specially eqipped truck.

Miners' Benefits Are Expanded

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—Benefits for disabled soft coal miners and for the families of deceased coal diggers were announced today by the United Mine Workers welfare and retirement fund.

Industry sources estimated the cost at $2,000,000 a month. This is in addition to other benefits previously resumed after the payment stoppage that accompanied last spring's contract dispute.

The new commitments, announced in the UMW Journal and further explained to newsmen by Val Mitch, general counsel of the fund:

1. For miners' widows more than 50 years old—$30 a month with $10 additional for each dependent child under 18 years old or incapacitated.

2. For widows and dependent children of deceased miners—the same hospital and medical service already provided for UMW members, their wives and children under 18.

3. For adult dependents of living miners—hospital service limited to 60 days a year.

4. For disabled miners 45 to 60 years old, and younger men disabled for at least five years—$30 a month with $10 more for each dependent child under 18 or incapacitated person living with the miners.

More Scrap Rubber Moving To Red China

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13 (AP) — Scrap rubber is moving in increasing volume through San Francisco to Communist China.

Reports to the U. S. Department of Commerce showed today that 2,000 tons moved through the port in September. This was 20 times July's volume, and equalled the total for all of last year.

A consignment of 300 tons of rubber scrap was being assembled here for loading Monday on the Norwegian freighter Lisholt. It is destined for Taku Bar and Tsingtao.

The customs service said such shipments are not subject to export license; that common rubber scrap can be sent to any place except North Korea.

Appeal Planned By Progressives

BALTIMORE, Oct. 13 (AP)—Progressive Party members considered an appeal today in their battle against Maryland's anti-subversive law but figured they had scored "a major victory" on one front.

They lokked upon the exemption of congressional candidates from the loyalty oath clause of the so-called Ober law as a scor for their side. They said it will help beat the Ober law at the polls.

The Maryland Court of Appeals held that congressional candidates don't have to take the oath but that candidates for the governorship do.

The court was unanimous yesterday in the decision involving congressional candidates but split 3-2 on the gubernatorial ruling.

The Progressives are fighting the Ober law on the ground that it is unconstitutional.

Thelma Gerende and Louis Shub, two Progressives affected by the ruling, said in a joint statement today that the "three-to-two split x x x reveals the doubt of the court as to the constitutionality of the oath."

As a result of the decision, Miss Gerende will be on the ballot as a candidate for Congress from the Second District. Shub must sign the oath before he can be listed as a gubernatorial candidate.

Progressive Party lawyers indicated that an appeal in Shub's case may be made to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Sailor Held In Theft Of King's Dispatch Box

LONDON, Oct. 13 (INS)—King George's diplomatic dispatch box containing official papers was stolen from Buckingham Palace early today in a sensational theft which police charged to a young sailor.

The box, which officially was said to contain "only correspondence," was recovered later in a trash can near the palace. Its contents were intact.

Douglas Monro, 26-year-old seaman from Scotland, will appear in Bow Street magistrate's court tomorrow. Police said they caught him when he tried to escape over a heavily-guarded palace wall.

Motorist Won't Dim Lights? Then Use "Diverter Lamp"

BALTIMORE, Oct. 13 (AP) — The Maryland Department of Motor Vehicles thinks a Baltimore inventor has come up with a good defense against drivers who won't dim their lights.

The inventor is Charles Adler, Jr., already credited with devising a way of grinding designs into the lenses of traffic lights so color-blind drivers can tell whether they show red or green.

Adler has what he calls a "diverter lamp." It's something like a fog light which many motorists install on their cars.

Bride Comes Home From Honeymoon In 'Lung' On Truck

WEST BEND, Wis., Oct. 13 (AP)—Mrs. Lydia Kasper, 28, came home from her honeymoon today in an iron lung.

She was married to Emanuel Kasper at Thienxville Aug. 6. They went to Minocqua for their honeymoon. Five days later Mrs. Kasper was striken with polio, rushed to the isolation hospital at Wausau and placed in an iron lung.

Although she has made some gains, physicians thought her progress toward recovery would be hastened if she could be moved nearer her family and friends. She made the 165-mile trip to the hospital at West Bend today in an iron lung transported in a specially eqipped truck.

World peace cannot be maintained with "sticks and stones," the President said. He said he hoped "I can drive this message home to the Congress and the people in the United States.

He said if he had been able to drive home the defense needs of the nation, in 1948, the world "would not be threatened as it is today."

Phosphorous Blast Burns 9 Stevedores

BALTIMORE, Oct. 13 (AP) — A drum of red phosphorous exploded in the hold of a freighter today and nine stevedores were burned when they darted out through the flames.

Only one man was seriously hurt and his condition was not considered critical. The others were treated at a hospital for burns on the arms, legs, and face and released.

The ship was the Cape Nome, operated under the Greek flag by Isbrandtsen Lines. It had put in here earlier today from Norfolk to load general cargo and was bound for Hamburg, Germany.

Truman, MacArthur Meet On Wake Today

Red-Ruled People Anxious For Peace

HONOLULU, Oct. 13 (AP) — Bound for an historic meeting with Gen. MacArthur on Wake Island, President Truman said today "the people behind the iron curtain are as anxious as we are to have world peace and to avoid another war."

The President, speaking at a luncheon in Honolulu en route to Wake, said: "We have to get the truth to them, and we are going to get it to them.

"I am not one of those people who think another war is inevitable."

Leaving Honolulu shortly before midnight tonight (5 a. m. Saturday, EST), to meet MacArthur, the presidential party will arrive about 6:30 a. m., Sunday, Wake Island time," (2:30 p. m., Saturday, EST) after a 2,300-mile flight of eight to ten hours.

MacArthur Takes Off

Gen. MacArthur took off on his 1,985-mile flight of seven or eight hours to Wake at 7:06 a. m., Saturday, Tokyo time,)5:06 p. m., Friday, EST). He thus will arrive on Wake several hours ahead of the President.

Wake Island was first blazed into America's memory by a gallant Marine garrison which withstood for 14 days an overwhelming attack by Japanese invasion forces at the start of World War II. The garrison capitulated Dec. 24, 1941.

There was no indication of the agenda to be followed in the conference between the President and the United Nations military commander.

Gen. MacArthur took only two advisers with him, John J. Muccio, U. S. Ambassador to Korea, and Brig. Gen. Courtney Whitney, head of MacArthur's occupation government section in Japan.

The General will carry detailed information on subjects ranging from the Korean military campaign to economic statistics about Japan and all of East Asia.

Brief Conference Seen

Gen. MacArthur's aides expected talks would cover the full range of matters comprising American foreign policy in the Far East in the less than eight hours Mr. Truman and the General will have together.

In a speech at Pearl Harbor at noon, the President made no mention of the matters to be discussed but talked of the problems of world peace.

He said he would make the United

Occupation Plan For North Korea Proposed By U. S.

South Korea Assails Commission Decision

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 13 (AP)—The United States proposed today an occupation plan for Gen. Douglas MacArthur to govern North Korea until an all-Korean regime is established.

The Americans also suggested to the U. N. Commission on Korea that GIs be pulled out of occupation duty as quickly as possible, with other U. N. forces taking up that task; that war criminals be tried, and that there be no reprisals against North Korean soldiers and ordinary, rank-and-file Communists in the north.

Finally, the Americans were reported to have agreed with a commission decision, transmitted late yesterday to MacArthur, that the authority of President Syngman Rhee, of the U. N.-sponsored Republic of Korea, be limited to South Korea at least until all problems on unifying the country are settled.

Rhee Assails Plan

It was indicated here these ideas would be among those subjects to be discussed by President Truman and MacArthur at their coming Pacific conference.

In Seoul today Rhee and cabinet members expressed disbelief at the Korea commission's decision to limit his government's immediate control to South Korea. That would make the plan impossible "for the Korean people to accept," Rhee said.

The Americans were reported to be favoring elections only in North Korea, with vacancies in the present republican (South Korea) congress to be filled by these elections. They were said to be opposed to general, all-Korean elections on the grounds that the republic was elected by a U. N. supervised vote and it is not necessary to have another ballot.

All-Korean Vote Backed

Australia, a member of the Korean commission, is ready to demand an all-Korean vote before the unified government is formed. Britain is said to be backing the Australian view. A decision on elections must be made by the U. N. commission.

The U. S. ocupation plan calls for:

Initial occupation to be from the time the fighting is almost over until internal security is established in the greater part of North Korea. MacArthur would be the supreme authority.

The second phase would continue until elections are held in North Korea which would enable a national government to assume responsibility.

France Seeks Over 3 Billions In Military Aid

U. S. Arms Will Be Sped To Indochina

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—France was reported to have asked the United States today to provide a total of $3,170,000,000 in military aid for the French armed forces during 1951.

American officials said France was told the request is too big but that some money will be allocated almost immediately.

The French also were given formal assurances that the United States is making every effort to speed the delivery of fighting equipment to Indochina, where French forces are striving to hold off advancing Communists.

Secretary of Defense Marshall gave these latter assurances in conferences with two French cabinet officers, Defense Minister Jules Moch and Finance Minister Maurice Petsche.

Officials said Moch made the $3,170,000,000 request in a meeting with Marshall, Secretary of State Acheson and Treasury Secretary Snyder.

$2,400,000,000 In Arms

Moch suggested that the $3,170,000,000 be allocated as follows:

1. About $2,100,000,000 in finished American military equipment such as guns, tanks, and planes which would be sent to France.

2. About $300,000,000 worth of additional military supplies to be allocated to French troops in Indochina.

3. About $770,000,000 in direct dollar assistance to the French treasury to help it withstand the impact of a stepped up rearmament program.

Officials who attended the meeting at the State Department said Moch also presented plans for boosting France's present armed strength in Europe from ten to 20 divisions at the end of 1953 with the hope this might rise to 28 divisions.

Moch proposed, it was said, that three new divisions be added to the seven divisions France now has mobilized at home and in Western Germany.

"Flaws" Pointed Out

During today's meetings, officials said American leaders pointed out what they considered to be these flaws in the French proposals:

1. The United States is opposed to France's spending money to construct three light aircraft carriers, one escort carrier and carrier fighters. The American view is the naval program could better be handled by Britain or some other Atlantic pact nation.

2. France is "optimistic" when it believes it can begin fullscale production of many military items in French factories by early December, providing it gets a substantial allocation of funds by November 1.

3. American military authorities doubt the wisdom of rushing large scale production of a new-type 13-ton tank destroyer which the French want to produce by the thousands.

4. The French government can reduce the amount of funds earmarked for public improvement projects, such as housing, factory reconstruction to find funds to meet the rearmament deficit.

5. French treasury authorities appear to have underestimated the amount of taxes that can be collected and to have underestimated the effects of increasing prices on their program.

German Reds Close Door To Opposition In Election

BERLIN, Oct. 13 (AP)—Communist-ruled East Germany, closing the door to all opposition in carrying out its one-ticket election Sunday, tonight barred even residents of Soviet-occupied East Berlin from entering the eastern zone over the wekend.

East Berlin is not participating in the election under a 1945 four-power agreement. The city is divided into four sectors, of which the Soviet sector is one. The other three divisions are the American, British and French sectors, constituting West Berlin.

In addition to imposing the travel ban, Russian-backed East Germany ordered the East Berliners to do a "volunteer" day's work on election day. This is expected to keep them busy and prevent any possible dissidents from entering the east zone to interfere with plans for a unanimous endorsement of the pro-Red, handpicked slate.

The extent of anti-Red feeling in East Berlin was indicated to some degree in the recent "ration card plebiscite" held by West Berlin city officials. A total of 375,712 residents of the eastern sector mailed their old ration cards to West Berlin in response to a call for them to show in this way their opposition to Communism. The latest population count (1946) listed 1,174,582 residents of East Berlin.

The Communists went ahead with harsh measures and unabashed threats to force a unanimous east zone turnout.

By radio, newspaper and word-of-mouth warnings, the Communist rulers of the east zone "German People's Democratic Republic" make it plain that all 13,000,000 East German voters must turn out — or else. The voters have no choice but to cast ballots for the "national front" ticket, which is 70 per cent Communist.

It seemed certain that the Communists would get 95 per cent of the East German voters to the polls. It would be too dangerous for the voters to resist.

Philly Racket Links Reported

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 13 (AP) — Senate crime probers have been told that Philadelphia's "substantial" numbers racket is operated in conjunction with a national syndicate, Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) said today.

Kefauver, opening hearings here as another step in a nationwide investigation by a special Senate subcommittee, said that in testimony this morning Harry Stromberg, New York, known here as Nig Rosen, was named as the head of the Philadelphia operation.

The Senator said this testimony was given by Assistant Superintendent of Police George F. Richardson, who added that Stromberg maintains close tie-ins with key racketeers in other cities.

Among the people with whom Rosen has been closely associated, Richardson told the committee, are Frank Costello and Myer Lansky of New York, Herman Taylor, Philadelphia, and Jimmy La Fontaine, of Maryland.

Richardson was one of a number of witnesses called before the committee this morning in a closed session.

Five Men Killed In Plane Crash

ALMELUND, Minn., Oct. 13 (INS)—A Northwest Airlines plane crashed in a field today near Almelund, Minn., killing five men and seriously injuring a sixth man.

The airlines company identified the dead as:

Capt. Raymond Francis Render, 34, Minneapolis; Capt. John R. Galt, 37, St. Paul, Minn.; William Solomon, Minneapolis, inspector for the Civil Aeronautics Authority; Everett Bergstrom, St. Paul, an air control tower man, and Robert H. Olsen, Rice Lake, Wis., also an air control tower man.

The lone survivor, Bruce Erickson, Minneapolis, was taken to a hospital in St. Croix Falls, Wis. where physicians said his condition is serious.

The airlines office in Minneapolis said the plane, of the Martin 537 type, was on "a routine personnel check flight" when it crashed on the farm of Waldo McKinney. Almelund is about 50 miles south of Minneapolis.

A routine personnel check flight is a refresher course taken periodically by airlines pilots.

Payoff Time On Autos Cut From 21 To 15 Months

Down Payment On Appliances Jumped

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—The Federal Reserve Board tonight ordered a sharp tightening, effective Monday, of the consumer credit curbs it laid down less than a month ago.

The tightening up order:

Cuts the payoff limit on installment purchases of automobiles from 21 to 15 months, while leaving the cash down payment at one-third of the price. The new rules equal the stiffest World War II terms on automobiles.

Jumps the down payment on television sets, radios and major household appliances from 15 to 25 per cent and cuts the payoff time from 18 months to 15.

Furniture Terms Stiffer

Raises the down payment on furniture from 10 to 15 per cent, and cuts the payoff limit from 18 months to 15.

In addition, the board applied the down payment requirements to all regulated articles costing $50 or more. The initial terms, fixed Sept. 18, had exempted articles costing up to $100.

The board also required that installment loans granted to purchase any of the articles subject to controls be subjected to the same limits as applied to installment sales of those articles.

Further, it reduced the payoff limit from 18 to 15 months for installment loans granted to purchase articles not subject to controls.

Terms on goods other than automobiles will still be below the wartime maximums, which called for a 12-month payoff and down payments of 20 per cent on furniture and one-third on the other articles.

Price Increase Cited

The household appliances affected are refrigerators, food freezers, phonographs, cooking stoves, ranges, dish washers, ironers, washing machines, clothes dryers, sewing machines, vacuum cleaners, air conditioners and dehumidifiers.

One requirement of the earlier regulation was left untouched. This set the down payment on home improvement credits at 10 per cent and the payoff limit at 30 months.

Reserve Board Chairman Thomas B. McCabe said the action was based upon consideration of reports from "all parts of the country" showing x x x "continued upward pressures on prices in the five weeks" since the board announced that credit controls were to be reimposed Sept. 18.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 13 (AP) — Whew!

It hit 104 degrees in downtown Los Angeles today—the hottest October day on record.

What's to blame? Florida, the man said.

U.N. Continues Sea-Air Blows On East Coast

U. S. Troops Reach Town Of Kumchon

TOKYO, Saturday, Oct. 14 (AP)—Mighty Allied sea-air power slashed at the Red Korean east coast supply line almost to the Siberian border Friday as American infantrymen carved into 20,000 Reds trapped on the road to the Red capital of Pyongyang.

Thirty-seven warships led by the battleship Missouri bombarded ports, rail lines and other communications facilities along a 130-mile strip of coast from Songjin northward through falling Chongjin, 140 miles southwest of Soviet Vladivostok.

Fighters and bombers of the U. S. Far East Air Forces ranged up and down the area at the same time, rocketing and bombing bridges, marshalling yards, warehouses, docks and wharfs.

Unsupported speculation continued as to whether this second straight day of east coastal blasting was the prelude to an Allied amphibious landing or a feint to draw Red attention from a landing in the west.

No Evidence Of Landing

There was no evidence of a new Allied landing anywhere on North Korean shores, and there was no comment on the possibility from anyone in Gen. MacArthur's Tokyo headquarters.

A spearhead of the U. S. First Cavalry Division snared the estimated 20,000 Reds when it swung in behind them Friday and seized the road junction town of Hanpo, 65 air miles southeast of Pyongyang.

A spokesman for Gen. MacArthur said American infantrymen were "cleaning up" on the pocketed troops. He said the fighting was fierce but that the foot cavalrymen had the upper hand.

Another First Cavalry column striking from the east reached the town of Kumchon, eight miles south of Hanpo, a division spokesman announced. The column had traveled 20 miles north from the border city of Kaesong.

A third column of the First Cavalry was advancing slowly up the main road from Kaesong towards Kumchon, clearing Communist-planted mines as it moved. This column knocked out three Red tanks during the night of Thursday-Friday, and was last reported four miles south of Kumchon.

Reds Speed Toward Kumchon

Two Red divisions were reported racing towards Kumchon from the Ongjin Peninsula on the west coast 50 miles distant.

East of the U. S. First Cavalry and British commonwealth troops, the South Korean Fifth Division was striking towards Hanpo to complete the lock on the trapped Communist troops.

At the right of the fifth, the South Korean Eighth Division advanced north of Pyonggang, one-time Red defense center 90 miles southeast of Pyongyang.

On the far northeast end of the advancing Allied front, elements of the South Korean Third and Capital Divisions unexpectedly rolled three miles north of captured Wonsan port.

Earlier they were reported three miles west of the big port city and heading west for Pyongyang.

6 Die In Crash Near Altoona, Pa.

ALTOONA, Pa., Oct. 13 (AP) — A terrific headon collision between a truck and auto killed all six occupants of the auto today on Route 22 a few miles east of Altoona.

State Police Sergeant Edward J. Fox said the victims were Pennsylvania Railroad employes returning home from work at Altoona.

Fox said the truck driver, Joseph Wright, of Ellerbee (Richmond County), N. C., escaped injury.

The auto was crushed like an accordion.

The auto had to be torn apart to remove the bodies of the men who only a few minutes before had ended their day's labor at the huge Pennsylvania Railroad shops.

The men were all residents of Cresson, Pa., about 22 miles from Altoona.

Sgt. Fox, who said ages of the men were not immediately available, identified them as: Norman N. Schenk, Richard Tubbs, William J. Mulhern, Leonard Scott, Jr., R. J. McCartney, Jr., and Edward J. Burns.

Hiss' Attorney Raps Conviction

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP)—Alger Hiss' attorney today branded Hiss' perjury conviction the result of a pack of psychopathic lies by Whittaker Chambers, former Communist spy ring courier.

But the government retorted that the jury which convicted Hiss already had heard such arguments and decided it was Hiss—not "Rumpelstiltskin" — who passed secret government papers to Chambers.

(Rumpelstiltskin was a kind, helpful dwarf of German legend and fairy tale.)

Hiss was indicted for perjury when he denied passing the papers to Chambers, and claimed he never saw Chambers after Jan. 1, 1937.

The arguments today were made in a three-hour session before a three-judge U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals. The court withheld an immediate decision.

Hiss, former high State Department official and once a top adviser to President Roosevelt, has been free in $10,000 bail since his federal court conviction last January.

Tariff On Dried Eggs From China Boosted

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—The tariff on dried eggs from China goes up to 27 cents a pound under a proclamation issued by the White House today. It has been 17 cents under a 1947 trade agreement made before the Communists took control.

The change comes in the midst of a furore over shipments of such eggs from the Oriental nation. The eggs are reported piled up in a Seattle warehouse and Rep. Mitchell (D-Wash) has demanded an investigation of the imports.

Jury Decides $4,500 Worth Of Pearls Eaten By Horse

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 13 (AP) — By a simple matter of arithmetic a jury decided today the horse that ate the necklace consumed a $4,500 tid-bit.

And the horse, who did not figure in the trial, was owned by Mrs. Gearhard's sister.

But the pearls were insured by the Boston (Mass.) Insurance Co. for $5,000 and Mrs. Gearhard sued the company when it failed to honor her claim for $4,400.

Mrs. Gearhard said the horse ate 69 pearls, the biggest and most valuable on the strand. She got 262 back when she struggled with the horse and broke the necklace.

The jury pondered an hour and a half today and then brought back answers to three questions put to it in court:

1. Can the necklace be reconstructed in its original appearance and form. No, said the jury.

2. What is the value of the 262 pearls retrieved? Five hundred dollars figured the jury.

3. What was the actual value of the necklace before it was damaged by the horse. The jury penciled $5,000.

Korean Reds Slew 500 Prisoners In Wonsan

WONSAN, Korea, Oct. 13 (AP) — North Korean Communist police killed at least 500 political prisoners in the last days of Red rule in Wonsan, some of those who escaped the slaughter said today.

The prisoners were taken from Wonsan penitentiary just before South Korean troops liberated this east coast port.

About 300 were shot in a cave on a hillside above the prison. Two hundred others were trucked to the seashore, shot and thrown into the surf.

Korean Red Ship Sunk

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13 (AP)—The Navy announced today that planes from the U. S. Carrier Valley Forge sank a North Korean destroyer escort yesterday near liberated Wonsan on the east coast of Red Korea.

18 Men En Route To Struck Plant Wounded In Ambush

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 13 (AP)—A truck loaded with 35 negro workmen, en route to a struck lumber plant, was fired on from ambush today and 18 were wounded.

Twelve were in a hospital tonight and doctors said they had from 50 to 75 shotgun pellets imbedded deeply in their bodies. Two may lose the sight of an eye.

Detective Chief John McCarthy said 35 negro strikers were jailed tonight for investigation on charges of assault with intent to murder.

Police said two or more men laid in wait for the truck and blasted away with shotguns. Frank Smith, riding in a car escorting the truck said he fired twice at two men who shot at the truck.

The Reynolds and Manley Lumber Company plant, where the strike is underway, obtained a temporary injunction late today to prevent further violence and mass picketing.

J. T. Mooney, international representative of the union, said in a statement: "I understand they have all the men who were anywhere near the union strike building in jail. For that reason I haven't been able to find out anything more than I see in the newspapers about what happened. It is difficult for me to believe any of our members were connected with the shooting. If any were involved, their actions certainly were against the policy of the union."

Girl With Life Like Fairy Tale To Wed In Nov.

Expects To Walk Within One Year

By BETTY PROSSER

CHICAGO, (AP) — A pretty 25-year-old blonde who was paralyzed in a fall eight years ago looked at the future and mused, "My whole life has been like a fairy story."

Bonnie Bonhiver's pluck drew to her the cast of characters who made the fairy tale come true. As a result, she expects to walk like other girls within a year—and she won't walk alone. A tall, handsome prince charming will become her husband on Thanksgiving Day.

Of course, since it's a fairy story, there's a fairy Godmother. For fairy Godfathers, there's the 89-man suburban Evanston Police Department. And there's a happy ending, like this:

Once upon a time —eight years ago to the prosaic — Bonnie was helping her mother entertain. She was about to sit down when her mother, not looking, lifted the chair to offer it to a guest. Bonnie fell, "and I fell wrong." From that day on, she was paralyzed.

Then began the battle to reeducate her muscles. When costs of medical care became too heavy, her widowed mother, Mrs. August Bonhiver, in desperation called the Evanston Police Department for suggestions.

The cops' suggestion was to "adopt" Bonnie. For the last five years, they've picked Bonnie up in squad cars, taking her to doctors and to a swimming pool, where she practiced using the long idle muscles. And they paid a heavy share of the bills.

Then one day, while she was at the pool, a woman came up to her. Bonnie tells it:

"She said, 'You know, darling, I was in the same position you are in right now. If you'll take the same treatment I did, I'll take over and pay for everything.' "

That, of course, was the fairy Godmother. Bonnie has kept her promise not to tell her name.

Gradually, Bonnie learned to walk with a cane. And then entered Prince Charming.

He's Jerold Mitchell, 25, also of Evanston, employed as an announcer by a Hammond, Ind., radio station (WJOB, WJIZ-FM). Jerry was assigned to interview Bonnie. He fell in love with her.

Since she met Jerry, Bonnie has learned to take two steps without the cane, and is able to cook, and do the washing, "and just everything."

Now she's getting the first floor of the Bonhiver house ready for private living quarters. After the wedding, with the entire Evanston Police Force as honor guests, Bonnie and Jerry will settle down there. That way, Bonnie's mother can help her until she's fully recovered. The physio therapist recommended by Godmother "Betty" predicts she'll be walking alone within a year.

Meanwhile, Bonnie and Jerry hope to write a book together.

"Jerry has a wonderful philosophy for a man of 26," she said. "We're going to do everything we can to make other people happier. He's working for brotherhood in the world, and we're going to do it together."

"I sit back every once in a while, as if I were on a star, and look at my life and think, "It's funny, and it's been pitiful in a way, but it's not any more—and it never will be again."

Girl With Life Like Fairy Tale To Wed In Nov.

Expects To Walk Within One Year

By BETTY PROSSER

CHICAGO, (AP) — A pretty 25-year-old blonde who was paralyzed in a fall eight years ago looked at the future and mused, "My whole life has been like a fairy story."

Bonnie Bonhiver's pluck drew to her the cast of characters who made the fairy tale come true. As a result, she expects to walk like other girls within a year—and she won't walk alone. A tall, handsome prince charming will become her husband on Thanksgiving Day.

"Black Friday" For Many Caught In Visa Freeze

LONDON, Oct. 13 (AP) — It was black Friday the thirteenth today for hundreds of Germans, Austrians and Italians caught in the United States visa freeze.

The State Department order cancelling all visas issued by embassies abroad up to Oct. 12, and requiring their re-validation, hit thousands of Europeans headed for the United States.

For some of them, there were no serious consequences. U. S. consulates in a dozen major cities merely stamped their already visaed passports and they were free to sail or fly at once.

It was different for nations of former enemy countries whose possible past connections with Communist, Nazi or Fascist organizations makes them targets of the new American anti-spy law.

In Frankfurt, Germany, Pan American World Airways reported that 144 bookings to the United States had been cancelled during the past six days in the confusion over interpretation of the new law.

Of these, 67 were emigrants, left almost penniless because they had sold their remaining belongings to get the money needed to start a new life in America. Most appealed to charitable organizations for help to tide them over.

The remainder were students or other Germans approved by the U. S. high commission to visit the U. S. under cultural exchange programs.

Vote Suit's Dismissal Requested By Ennis

BALTIMORE, Oct. 13 (AP)—Dismissal was asked today of the suit against Maryland's unique unit vote system.

Mahoney subsequently gave up his efforts to snatch the nomination from Gov. Lane but the suit against the system which lost him the election is still in the works.

Asking for dismissal of the action was Robert B. Ennis, chairman of the Democratic state central committee. He contended he is the wrong person; that he should never have been named a co-defendant.

The action named Ennis and Secretary of State Vivian V. Simpson as being responsible for certifying the names of successful candidates. Ennis said the law gives that job to Miss Simpson and State Sen. Harold Sothoron, who presided at the Democratic convention.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 13 (AP)—Miss Eleanor Kephart, 31-year-old Annapolis high school teacher, died suddenly from a streptococcic infection of the blood stream early this morning.

Miss Kephart, member of the D.A.R. and the executive committee of the Maryland State Teachers Association, was rushed to the general hospital last night after she had collapsed at her home here. She had left the high school earlier in the day because she felt badly.

Miners' Benefits Are Expanded

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—Benefits for disabled soft coal miners and for the families of deceased coal diggers were announced today by the United Mine Workers welfare and retirement fund.

Industry sources estimated the cost at $2,000,000 a month. This is in addition to other benefits previously resumed after the payment stoppage that accompanied last spring's contract dispute.

The new commitments, announced in the UMW Journal and further explained to newsmen by Val Mitch, general counsel of the fund:

1. For miners' widows more than 50 years old—$30 a month with $10 additional for each dependent child under 18 years old or incapacitated.

2. For widows and dependent children of deceased miners—the same hospital and medical service already provided for UMW members, their wives and children under 18.

3. For adult dependents of living miners—hospital service limited to 60 days a year.

4. For disabled miners 45 to 60 years old, and younger men disabled for at least five years—$30 a month with $10 more for each dependent child under 18 or incapacitated person living with the miners.

More Scrap Rubber Moving To Red China

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13 (AP) — Scrap rubber is moving in increasing volume through San Francisco to Communist China.

Reports to the U. S. Department of Commerce showed today that 2,000 tons moved through the port in September. This was 20 times July's volume, and equalled the total for all of last year.

A consignment of 300 tons of rubber scrap was being assembled here for loading Monday on the Norwegian freighter Lisholt. It is destined for Taku Bar and Tsingtao.

The customs service said such shipments are not subject to export license; that common rubber scrap can be sent to any place except North Korea.

Appeal Planned By Progressives

BALTIMORE, Oct. 13 (AP)—Progressive Party members considered an appeal today in their battle against Maryland's anti-subversive law but figured they had scored "a major victory" on one front.

They lokked upon the exemption of congressional candidates from the loyalty oath clause of the so-called Ober law as a scor for their side. They said it will help beat the Ober law at the polls.

The Maryland Court of Appeals held that congressional candidates don't have to take the oath but that candidates for the governorship do.

The court was unanimous yesterday in the decision involving congressional candidates but split 3-2 on the gubernatorial ruling.

The Progressives are fighting the Ober law on the ground that it is unconstitutional.

Thelma Gerende and Louis Shub, two Progressives affected by the ruling, said in a joint statement today that the "three-to-two split x x x reveals the doubt of the court as to the constitutionality of the oath."

As a result of the decision, Miss Gerende will be on the ballot as a candidate for Congress from the Second District. Shub must sign the oath before he can be listed as a gubernatorial candidate.

Progressive Party lawyers indicated that an appeal in Shub's case may be made to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Sailor Held In Theft Of King's Dispatch Box

LONDON, Oct. 13 (INS)—King George's diplomatic dispatch box containing official papers was stolen from Buckingham Palace early today in a sensational theft which police charged to a young sailor.

The box, which officially was said to contain "only correspondence," was recovered later in a trash can near the palace. Its contents were intact.

Douglas Monro, 26-year-old seaman from Scotland, will appear in Bow Street magistrate's court tomorrow. Police said they caught him when he tried to escape over a heavily-guarded palace wall.

Motorist Won't Dim Lights? Then Use "Diverter Lamp"

BALTIMORE, Oct. 13 (AP) — The Maryland Department of Motor Vehicles thinks a Baltimore inventor has come up with a good defense against drivers who won't dim their lights.

The inventor is Charles Adler, Jr., already credited with devising a way of grinding designs into the lenses of traffic lights so color-blind drivers can tell whether they show red or green.

Adler has what he calls a "diverter lamp." It's something like a fog light which many motorists install on their cars.

Bride Comes Home From Honeymoon In 'Lung' On Truck

WEST BEND, Wis., Oct. 13 (AP)—Mrs. Lydia Kasper, 28, came home from her honeymoon today in an iron lung.

She was married to Emanuel Kasper at Thienxville Aug. 6. They went to Minocqua for their honeymoon. Five days later Mrs. Kasper was striken with polio, rushed to the isolation hospital at Wausau and placed in an iron lung.

Although she has made some gains, physicians thought her progress toward recovery would be hastened if she could be moved nearer her family and friends. She made the 165-mile trip to the hospital at West Bend today in an iron lung transported in a specially eqipped truck.

Plugging The Rat Holes

Many Americans are quite curious about the mysterious "instruments" in little black valises which were carried aboard the Polish liner Batory when she hove to off New York harbor several days ago. While at anchor, U. S. customs men gave the liner as thorough and unhurried a going over as she has ever had. Only then was she permitted to dock with her passengers. Evidently customs agents found nothing very suspicious.

One can't help but be impressed by the new "tougher" attitude which is marking relations with the Soviet and her satellites wherever these contacts occur. Time was when a foreign nation could hold American vessels and American citizens with no question of retaliation by this government. The individual citizen, or relative of an American who had suffered loss of liberty or indignities in the hands of a foreign government, was left to stew in his own frustration.

Giving the Batory, which has earned the nickname "Commie Ferry" among waterfront reporters, a good combing over is quite within the letter and the spirit of the special laws enacted this year. These were set up to guard against sneak attacks on America's large coastal cities by apparently innocent vessels of foreign registry carrying an A-bomb in the bilge.

There are drawbacks. It loads a tremendous amount of work on the slim force of customs agents, and to a certain extent holds up the normal flow of ocean traffic. But no one can feel very sorry for the owners of foreign ships which have been put through the inspection mill. This type of search is perfectly legal under international law — trumpetings by the Daily Worker to the contrary notwithstanding.

There is hardly any question of "retaliation" from Soviet and satellite sources at all, since U. S. shipping for the most part is barred from Soviet ports. It is believed the great majority of Americans will applaud this screening of foreign ships. By keeping alert, gradually it may be possible to get most of the rat holes plugged.

Russian Massacre

The Department of Defense has released a memorandum on the 1943 Katyn massacre. During the war the Nazis claimed to have come upon the bodies of more than 10,000 Polish officers and men in a mass grave near Smolensk.

The Polish government-in-exile in London asked the International Red Cross to investigate, and the Red Cross said it was willing only if Russia agreed. Russia angrily retorted that the Nazis committed the massacre, but refused to permit any investigation.

Moscow used the incident, moreover, as a pretext for breaking off relations with the exile government—and later as an excuse for violating the Yalta agreement by refusing to let Free Polish leaders participate in the Lublin government.

The Defense Department memo reveals that the Nazis took one British and two American officers, then prisoners of war, to the Katyn forest and showed them the bodies. The British captain, a medical officer, estimated there were 11,000 bodies. The American colonel whose statement is contained in the memo states as his personal opinion, based on many minor details pointing in that direction, that the Russians perpetrated the massacre.

Russia, so avid for the punishment of Nazi war criminals, never consented to an investigation that might have exposed those responsible for this crime. The Reds did not try to explain how the Germans could have executed 10,000 or more Poles on Russian soil. The Russians, however, were holding large numbers of Polish prisoners of war.

The Russians permitted the non-Communist Polish underground in Warsaw to be destroyed by the Nazis when it rose up to support the Red army's attack on the city. The men who committed that unpunished war crime were capable of the Katyn massacre.

"Fix It Yourself"

"Drive-it-yourself" car rental establishments are familiar. Now comes the "Fix-it-yourself" garage, a Kansas City innovation. The owner drives his ailing car into one of a number of stalls, and is handed a kit containing the necessary tools. If he does not know what to do, he can get advice. If the garage attendants are not too busy, they will even help him. For all this he pays 74 cents an hour.

Thus American resourcefulness and handiness with tools have combined to make a new type of business, which is likely to spread. Conventional garage owners and their mechanics doubtless will not care for it at first. After a time, it is possible they might begin to get some of the kind of business a watchmaker gets from the home tinkerer.

Low Silhouette

In military tank construction there are two chief points of competition, for heavier guns to hit harder and for lower silhouettes to be harder to hit. Congressman Thurmond Chatham of North Carolina, returned from a secret trip to Europe, reports he saw new Russian tanks which were only about three feet high. As a rule reports of new secret weapons leave us relatively unmoved, but this time we are agog, not so much to see the tanks as to see the crews.

New York City property suffered $20,200,000 damage last year by fire. A fourth of the damage, says the American Public Works Association, was due to careless smokers who paid no attention to where their matches and cigarets went. Do you know what becomes of yours?

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Invalids Need Exercise

CALISTHENICS and other forms of setting-up exercises always have been part of the army and navy routine. They serve a purpose in keeping the men in good physical condition to withstand the rigors of combat. The maneuvers also might be of benefit to a great many of us who lead a sedentary existence.

In World War II a different type of exercise was introduced into some of the hospitals. In this new plan — rehabilitation — our soldiers and sailors were encouraged to exercise as soon as their condition permitted. It was not as vigorous as their buddies on the outside were receiving but was still exercise and helped to maintain strength. The day after an operation or as soon as fever subsided in pneumonia, for example, a trained technician came around and made the patients start to wiggle fingers or toes and raise and lower the head. The amount of exertion was increased as each day passed but was never done beyond the point of fatigue.

The patients also were asked to get out of bed as soon as possible. Subsequent studies have shown that this measure is valuable in reducing complications and lessening the period of disability. This is a far cry from the old idea that bed rest is our primary weapon in combating disease. In former times we heard how the sick pup lies down but no mention was made of the fact that the dog tries to stand from time to time and in this respect does not lie absolutely quiet. The answer depends upon the definition of bed rest. It is absolute only in a few cases such as where a person is comatose or suffering from a fractured spine or other injury. But most of us twist, squirm, and fret in bed. Children are worse and may expend more energy than when up and about.

There are some objections to remaining quiet in a recumbent position during illness. The circulation becomes sluggish, there is a noticeable loss of strength, and our muscles become flabbier and smaller. Furthermore, the body steps up the elimination of nitrogen, calcium, phosphorus, and other minerals. These factors tend to weaken the individual and prolong recovery.

But this is not all. Nursing an injury or illness too long is conducive to neurotic states. This is especially true when the accident or sickness occurred while at work or when the individual was on military duty. The matter of compensation plays strange tricks on the brain and now and then a few paltry dollars make the difference between healthy activity and chronic invalidism. The physician has seen this happen and it is no wonder that he often recommends a return to work as soon as possible even on a part time basis until recovery is complete. There are some illnesses in which bed rest is absolutely essential. These include heart cases and illnesses in which fever or hemorrhages are present.

DISCOLORED AREA

J. W. writes: Is there any way to make a black and blue mark disappear more quickly than letting nature take its course?

REPLY

Only by applying heat to speed up the circulation in an old lesion. The next time you injure yourself, apply an ice bag immediately after the accident to curtail bleeding. As a result, the black and blue spot will be smaller and heal more rapidly.

•—•—•

ABDOMINAL PAIN

B. R. writes: Why are doctors so insistent that purgatives should not be taken when abdominal pain is present?

REPLY

Because, if abdominal pain is due to appendicitis, a laxative may encourage rupture of the appendix, with subsequent peritonitis. This practice was more common in the past, when few laymen realized the danger.

•—•—•

NERVE DEGENERATION

H. E. writes: If an ear nerve is dead is there any way of regaining hearing on that side?

REPLY

This is doubtful, especially if the nerve has undergone complete degeneration. On the other hand, in a few cases, large doses of vitamin B might prove helpful. A hearing aid is of value if both sides are affected.

No. The blood group remains constant thruout life.

Truman Has Wanted To Visit MacArthur Since July; Wouldn't Be Talked Out Of It; Johnson Takes Firing From Defense Post In Stride

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Inside fact about the President's visit to MacArthur is that as early as last July he had a hankering to go to Korea. At that time, the Secret Service went into a tantrum even at the thought of such a trip and is still worried at the idea of the President's meeting MacArthur in mid-Pacific.

The plan of a trip to the Pacific was revived approximately a week ago in talks between Truman and Averell Harriman, who had already been to see MacArthur to smooth out the Formosa embroglio. Harriman advised the President that it would be an excellent idea for him to talk to MacArthur personally, and the President finally made his decision a week ago last Friday.

The decision was kept so secret, however, that at the Monday morning briefing which defense chiefs give the President every day, no word of the trip was mentioned. Only at the end of the meeting did the President ask the staff to leave and General Bradley to remain behind.

"General," Truman said, "I've been contemplating this trip for a few days. Do you see any reason why I shouldn't take it?"

"No, I would be one of the first to urge you to talk to MacArthur," Bradley replied.

Bradley went back to the Pentagon and suggested to his chief, Secretary of Defense Marshall, that he accompany the President on the Pacific trip. But Marshall said he was too new in his present job and not entirely familiar with the problems of the Pacific; therefore, that Bradley had better accompany the President.

The argument put forward by Harriman to Truman regarding the visit was that MacArthur had some excellent ideas on the rehabilitation and administration of Korea. This will be the main topic discussed by the the two men.

Differ On Occupying Korea

There has been a difference of opinion between the State and Defense departments over the future occupation of Korea, once the war is over. The national Defense Department wants to occupy the entire country with United Nations troops, thus permitting American troops to leave for use elsewhere. The State Department agrees that U. N. troops should be used to a considerable extent, but maintains that a certain number of American troops should remain in Korea. The State Department is anxious that the rehabilitation job be done with great care and thoroughness and believes that U. S. personnel must be largely responsible.

The State Department points out that one of the greatest losses of the Korean war has been the psychological effect upon Europe which has watched the bombing of helpless Korean cities. This has brought back in the minds of Western Europeans the realization that in case of war between the United States and Russia they too would be the object of intensive bombardment. Therefore, the State Department proposes to make an example of Korea and to show the world that if it is necessary to bomb a nation, we also will undertake to rehabilitate and rebuild it.

Harriman told Truman that Marshall has some good ideas on this whole question of a U. N. protectorate.

In talking to close friends, the President has said that he also wants to make it clear in MacArthur's mind as to who is the boss regarding Far Eastern policy. MacArthur not only let loose with his statement about Formosa, which brought a virtual reprimand from the White House, but MacArthur was also on intimate terms with Secretary of Defense Johnson, who vigorously disagreed with Truman regarding Formosa.

The President has confided to friends that he wants to make sure MacArthur realizes that over-all policy is being made at the White House, not in the Defense Department or in Tokyo.

Would Achieve Peace

Truman has also told friends that his greatest ambition is to establish peace in Korea; that we cannot afford to lose the peace as we have in the past; and that he believes a trip in which he can collect first-hand information from MacArthur will help achieve this goal.

The President confided to one friend that he was sorry he had let his associates talk him out of having Chief Justice Fred Vinson go to Moscow in the fall of 1948 on a peace mission. He said he wasn't going to be talked out of this kind of thing again—hence his trip to see MacArthur.

Louey Johnson's Chin

Those who have watched ex-Secretary of Defense Louey Johnson at the American Legion convention and elsewhere testify to the fact that Louey has taken his firing from the cabinet in his stride.

You have to know Louey Johnson to appreciate how terrific a blow his exit was. Louey had looked forward to being Secretary of Defense for 10 years — planned, hoped, yearned for the job. Then — after holding it for a year—he was bounced!

For a lot of strong men this would have been too much. But Louey has mingled genially among the crowds at the Legion convention in Los Angeles just as in the old days elsewhere. Meeting Pvt. Peter Emeterio in the Hotel Biltmore lobby he stopped to chat with the Marine Corps vet wounded at Taejon, told him how he had hated to give the order to send the Marines into battle, how the decision not to defend Korea had been reversed overnight, what a great job the Marines had done. Then he strode on.

The press has given Johnson a far tougher bath of criticism than was given his predecessor, but Louey is keeping his chin up just the same.

Notes From The Crime Front

The Kefauver committee is looking for the private diary of William Drury, the Chicago ex-cop, shot just before he was to have given evidence to the Senate crime probers. Senators think the diary may give a clue to Drury's murderer ... A few days before Drury was shot, senators received a tip that Harry Russell, the Chicago-Miami gambler, was to be rubbed out. Instead, it was Drury, but there is an interesting link between the two. Drury had been in touch with Russell trying to get him to turn state's evidence. Russell told him that if he did so he would certainly be binaggioed...It was Drury who later got the Binaggio treatment ... Before Jack Dragna, the Al Capone of California, testified before the Kefauver committee, the Los Angeles police gave Senate probers a transcript of a conversation between Dragna and Allan Smiley, who was with Bugsy Siegel when the latter was murdered. The conversation went something like this: "I am going to Chicago and get back that $500 a week from the Illinois Sports News or somebody is going to get hurt." ... When queried by Senate probers, Dragna kept a straight face, denied the whole thing. (The Illinois Sports News is the race wire that gives results to bookies, and pays heavy protection money to racketeers.) ...Paul "The Waiter" Ricca, a top Chicago hood, admitted behind closed doors that he purchased a farm truck from his good friend, Charles Baran, the same man who controls the servicing of automobiles for the Chicago police.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Times have changed since the days when the American people learned to their surprise that a President of the United States — William Howard Taft—had actually stepped across the Mexican boundary in 1910 to a foreign country for a day's visit.

Promptly the question arose as to whether the precedent meant that the United States was momentarily without a chief executive. Then when, in 1918, President Woodrow Wilson went to Paris and stayed there several months at a time during the peace conference that followed World War I, the same sort of discussion arose. The theory was advanced that, because the President went to the American Embassy to sign official papers, he was still able to transact business on American territory.

When President Franklin Roosevelt went aboard the cruiser Augusta and later aboard the battleship Iowa and the cruiser Quincy for his sea journeys, the point that a warship is American territory was still maintained as the legal basis for official action.

Legal Question Lessens

Gradually, as Mr. Roosevelt took long airplane journeys, the question of legality was hardly mentioned, though technically a big military plane is as much American territory for strictly legal purposes as a ship that travels the surface of the sea.

Now, when President Truman has gone across the Pacific to Wake Island, he is far away from any embassy during the time he travels through the air on his way to island posts where the American flag flies.

The public has become accustomed to the idea that a President of the United States may be absent from Continental United States for long periods of time.

Mr. Truman's trip to meet General MacArthur puts him out of telephone communication with Washington, as there is no overseas service by phone to Wake. Radio communication, however, from the plane to shore stations is constant and, if any emergency arose requiring a change in the President's itinerary, he could be reached instantly. Perhaps it was this lack of means of immediate communication which caused presidents of the United States before 1918 to refrain from making journeys across the ocean.

There is today an elaborate system of communication set up whenever the President goes to sea. If he goes by plane, the Navy cooperates by sending destroyers and other warships to take up station at allotted points fairly close together along the line of travel. This furnishes not only communication facilities but added protection in the event that any forced landing on the sea should become necessary if anything goes wrong with the plane.

Affords Communication Aid

It is to be noted there are three big passenger planes traveling together on the President's trip. This, too, affords a certain amount of communication help in the event that signals are not heard plainly on the President's plane. To go 4,000 miles across the Pacific ocean to Wake is much longer than any journey across the Atlantic and would apepar to be a much longer series of hops than President Franklin Roosevelt took on his trips via Africa to meet with heads of state in the Near East during World War II.

Only the White House staff who know the urgency arising occasionally for a presidential signature or for a presidential approval, as required by law, can appreciate what it means to have the President of the United States out of touch for even a few hours. Theoretically, it's all legal, no matter if the President signs anything when he is away from Continental United States—and the question of an "acting president" analogous to the case of mayors or governors who are absent from their respective jurisdictions has never been raised in the courts. There is no provision of the Constitution which covers this explicitly.

Rising Costs May Play Part In Nov. Election

By MARK SULLIVAN

IN THE Congressional campaign that will end in less than four weeks, November 7, a conspicuous factor is the extraordinary activity of organizations and leaders which seek to move labor. The principal organizations are two, the Political Action Committee of C.I.O. and labor's League for Political Education representing A.F.L.; and what makes the movement impressive, as well as to some extent novel in our politics, is cooperation between the two which in some states goes the length of fusion. Representing these two, and also some minor organizations, there are in many states and districts "joint labor committees."

Voters May Change

Up to the present stage of the campaign the principal direct activity of the groups has been getting voters to register and vote in the primary elections, and in this spokesmen of the movement claim to have had much success. Looking forward to the November election, the vigorously proclaimed purpose is the same. The hope that goes with the purpose is that a large outpouring of voters at the polls will be an advantage to the labor movement. However this may be, it is probably a fact that organization for getting out the vote is larger and more vigorous on the part of this movement than corresponding organization for the same purpose in either the Democratic or Republican Parties.

It by no means follows that all the voters who go to the polls through incitement by leaders appealing to labor will necessarily vote as these leaders wish. Neither does it follow that the rank and file of labor vote as they are urged to by political leaders of labor or by candidates who seek the labor vote. In the 1948 Presidential campaign, President Truman made strong and repeated appeals for the labor vote, but failed to carry some large Eastern manufacturing states.

Could Be Reversed

In the present situation the appeals of leaders and organizations seeking to move the labor vote contain the possibility of reverse effect. When attempt is made to give reasons for the appeals, emphasis is put on the Taft-Hartley labor law—the periodical "Labor" reported the recent annual convention of the American Federation of Labor as having voted for "unceasing struggle against the iniquitous" Taft-Hartley law. Denunciation of this law prevades the attempt to move labor in the coming election. But if the Taft-Hartley labor law is iniquitous, the iniquity must lie in undue restriction put upon labor unions. And labor union members, as distinguished from leaders, must find it difficult to believe there is undue restriction when during the very months of the campaign there are in industry after industry successful demands for wage raises.

As for voters generally, they may find in the demands for wage raises and the success of them and the strikes accompanying some of them, an affirmative reason for voting directly contrary to the appeals of spokesmen for labor as a political movement. Indeed the current wave of wage raises, with the higher prices of manufactured goods that follow most of them, may of themselves be a large factor in the coming Congressional elections. They contribute to higher cost of living, and it seems safe to assume that the country is cost-of-living conscious. They work hardship on consumers, and there are more consumers than members of labor unions, more indeed than any other single group.

Overlapping the consumers and almost as large is another group, the savers who in the past have put their money into life insurance policies, government savings bonds and similar forms of security for the future. These are becoming aware that for them the increasing cost of living is a special and tragic detriment. Because cost of living goes higher and higher the dollar they have put into savings is reduced in purchasing power. A dollar put into one of these forms of savings 10 years ago, today has in terms of goods a purchasing power of less than 60 cents. Since increase in the cost of living is still under way, the saver has reason to be apprehensive lest the dollar that he puts into this form of security may a few years from now have still less purchasing power.

Savers May Act

So far as savers grasp this condition consciously, and so far as they recognize the part played in increased cost of living by widespread raises in wage rates, repeated in four rounds during the past five years, savers as a group may take a conscious part in the November elections. Savers and consumers are not organized and do not have formal leaders and spokesmen. That is their political weakness. Yet widespread consciousness of what they are experiencing, and intelligent action at the polls, could decide the November elections. They should need no urging to go to the polls. If the outcome is to be determined by groups at all, these are the groups who have the widest interest and reflect most nearly the interest of the country as a whole.

These Days

DEAR HAROLD STASSEN:

I HAVE long pondered your letter to Joe Stalin. I am sure that you were sincere when you wrote it, and I know that you took counsel of many wise men.

Yet, to me, your letter to Uncle Joe represents more enthusiasm than wisdom.

In the first place, the responsibility for the conduct of our international relations is vested in the President of the United States and his secretary of state. They cannot shirk that responsibility. Unless a citizen is delegated by the President to negotiate with a foreign power, he has no authority. Whatever he says is private conversation. There is even a law forbidding citizens to take such a task on themselves.

We want to hold the President and the Secretary of State responsible for the business that the Constitution delegates to them. If their policies are sound and come out right, they are deserving of commendation. If their policies are wrong and come out awry, we should criticize and condemn them.

It seems to me that in this respect, all you can do is muddy the waters. It is like that bipartisan foreign policy which so many Republicans thought would save the world. The most that was bipartisan about it was the sharing of blame for some of the most egregious errors in our history. No Republican was consulted with regard to the abandonment of Chiang Kai-Shek. Great Britain was consulted, but not the Republican party; yet the Republicans have to share the blame for it — all except those who denounced it.

In the second place, we are at war with Soviet Russia. Joe Stalin is our enemy. American boys are dying in Korea because Joe Stalin is our enemy.

Now, you might go technical on me and say that we are not at war with Joe Stalin at all, but that the United Nations is unifying Korea.

Please don't say that to me!

Neither the South nor the North Koreans ever produced a fighting force that even remotely resembled the power that the North Koreans are displaying. This was a Russian job, and at Seoul, the Koreans followed the Stalingrad pattern. And from their arms, equipment, bombs and mines we know that the Russians used them, as they are using the Viet Minh in French Indo-China, the Armenians in Iran, and so on.

So, we are at war with Joe Stalin. I wonder what you would have thought of a private American citizen who, during our recent efforts to save the world for democracy, entered upon personal negotiations with Hitler or Mussolini?

Talking with Stalin may be more fun than a conversation with Hitler, although Stalin, back in 1917 at the Smolny Institute, seemed to be a dull, self-centered person with few social graces. Still, he may have developed over the years and Elliott Roosevelt, who should be a connoisseur of companionship, apparently found his society delectable.

Nevertheless, what could you say to him? You would, according to your letter, tell him that the United States will not go broke. Such bad news could not please him. Nor could you give him any guarantees one way or the other. This Korean war is costing us about $10,000,000,000. How many tens of billions do we have to load on top of our national debt of $256,000,000,000? Stalin can count, too.

Then you will tell him that we love peace. Now, precisely, what do you think the United States would gain by that?

General Douglas MacArthur is so much wiser. He reads the Lord's Prayer to the tune of "Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition." I bet that Joe understands that perfectly. He knows that a couple of swift kicks in the underside will destroy his prestige for invincibility.

But when he is told by a promin-

Girl With Life Like Fairy Tale To Wed In Nov.

Expects To Walk Within One Year

By BETTY PROSSER

CHICAGO, (AP) — A pretty 25-year-old blonde who was paralyzed in a fall eight years ago looked at the future and mused, "My whole life has been like a fairy story."

Bonnie Bonhiver's pluck drew to her the cast of characters who made the fairy tale come true. As a result, she expects to walk like other girls within a year—and she won't walk alone. A tall, handsome prince charming will become her husband on Thanksgiving Day.

Of course, since it's a fairy story, there's a fairy Godmother. For fairy Godfathers, there's the 89-man suburban Evanston Police Department. And there's a happy ending, like this:

Once upon a time —eight years ago to the prosaic — Bonnie was helping her mother entertain. She was about to sit down when her mother, not looking, lifted the chair to offer it to a guest. Bonnie fell, "and I fell wrong." From that day on, she was paralyzed.

Then began the battle to reeducate her muscles. When costs of medical care became too heavy, her widowed mother, Mrs. August Bonhiver, in desperation called the Evanston Police Department for suggestions.

The cops' suggestion was to "adopt" Bonnie. For the last five years, they've picked Bonnie up in squad cars, taking her to doctors and to a swimming pool, where she practiced using the long idle muscles. And they paid a heavy share of the bills.

Then one day, while she was at the pool, a woman came up to her. Bonnie tells it:

"She said, 'You know, darling, I was in the same position you are in right now. If you'll take the same treatment I did, I'll take over and pay for everything.' "

That, of course, was the fairy Godmother. Bonnie has kept her promise not to tell her name.

Gradually, Bonnie learned to walk with a cane. And then entered Prince Charming.

He's Jerold Mitchell, 25, also of Evanston, employed as an announcer by a Hammond, Ind., radio station (WJOB, WJIZ-FM). Jerry was assigned to interview Bonnie. He fell in love with her.

Since she met Jerry, Bonnie has learned to take two steps without the cane, and is able to cook, and do the washing, "and just everything."

Now she's getting the first floor of the Bonhiver house ready for private living quarters. After the wedding, with the entire Evanston Police Force as honor guests, Bonnie and Jerry will settle down there. That way, Bonnie's mother can help her until she's fully recovered. The physio therapist recommended by Godmother "Betty" predicts she'll be walking alone within a year.

Meanwhile, Bonnie and Jerry hope to write a book together.

"Jerry has a wonderful philosophy for a man of 26," she said. "We're going to do everything we can to make other people happier. He's working for brotherhood in the world, and we're going to do it together."

"I sit back every once in a while, as if I were on a star, and look at my life and think, "It's funny, and it's been pitiful in a way, but it's not any more—and it never will be again."

Secrets Of Charm

cloche): These make your neck and body seem shorter, and thus fail to be the slimming flattering influence you want.

3. Round, dainty or squatty trims such as rosettes, cockades, loops and insignificant flower clusters. Not only for the reason given in No. 1, but more important, because they simply are not impressive enough to do your type of elegance justice.

What To Look For

Always stick to:

1. Diagonal lines (as in the profile shapes so fashionable right now): The brim that cuts across your face in a long diagonal, foils the roundness of both your face and figure.

2. Asymmetrically placed trims such as wings and the wired ribbon being shown currently. Medium-sized, side or slant-placed trims at a second long line that subtly adds to your height.

3. Veiling: Hides many a telltale line.

4. Proportioned size: Be sure your hat is as wide as your hair-do and that your hair-do is softly close to your head.

Plugging The Rat Holes

Many Americans are quite curious about the mysterious "instruments" in little black valises which were carried aboard the Polish liner Batory when she hove to off New York harbor several days ago. While at anchor, U. S. customs men gave the liner as thorough and unhurried a going over as she has ever had. Only then was she permitted to dock with her passengers. Evidently customs agents found nothing very suspicious.

One can't help but be impressed by the new "tougher" attitude which is marking relations with the Soviet and her satellites wherever these contacts occur. Time was when a foreign nation could hold American vessels and American citizens with no question of retaliation by this government. The individual citizen, or relative of an American who had suffered loss of liberty or indignities in the hands of a foreign government, was left to stew in his own frustration.

Giving the Batory, which has earned the nickname "Commie Ferry" among waterfront reporters, a good combing over is quite within the letter and the spirit of the special laws enacted this year. These were set up to guard against sneak attacks on America's large coastal cities by apparently innocent vessels of foreign registry carrying an A-bomb in the bilge.

There are drawbacks. It loads a tremendous amount of work on the slim force of customs agents, and to a certain extent holds up the normal flow of ocean traffic. But no one can feel very sorry for the owners of foreign ships which have been put through the inspection mill. This type of search is perfectly legal under international law—trumpetings by the Daily Worker to the contrary notwithstanding.

There is hardly any question of "retaliation" from Soviet and satellite sources at all, since U. S. shipping for the most part is barred from Soviet ports. It is believed the great majority of Americans will applaud this screening of foreign ships. By keeping alert, gradually it may be possible to get most of the rat holes plugged.

Russian Massacre

The Department of Defense has released a memorandum on the 1943 Katyn massacre. During the war the Nazis claimed to have come upon the bodies of more than 10,000 Polish officers and men in a mass grave near Smolensk.

The Polish government-in-exile in London asked the International Red Cross to investigate, and the Red Cross said it was willing only if Russia agreed. Russia angrily retorted that the Nazis committed the massacre, but refused to permit any investigation.

Moscow used the incident, moreover, as a pretext for breaking off relations with the exile government—and later as an excuse for violating the Yalta agreement by refusing to let Free Polish leaders participate in the Lublin government.

The Defense Department memo reveals that the Nazis took one British and two American officers, then prisoners of war, to the Katyn forest and showed them the bodies. The British captain, a medical officer, estimated there were 11,000 bodies. The American colonel whose statement is contained in the memo states as his personal opinion, based on many minor details pointing in that direction, that the Russians perpetrated the massacre.

Russia, so avid for the punishment of Nazi war criminals, never consented to an investigation that might have exposed those responsible for this crime. The Reds did not try to explain how the Germans could have executed 10,000 or more Poles on Russian soil. The Russians, however, were holding large numbers of Polish prisoners of war.

The Russians permitted the non-Communist Polish underground in Warsaw to be destroyed by the Nazis when it rose up to support the Red army's attack on the city. The men who committed that unpunished war crime were capable of the Katyn massacre.

"Fix It Yourself"

"Drive-it-yourself" car rental establishments are familiar. Now comes the "Fix-it-yourself" garage, a Kansas City innovation. The owner drives his ailing car into one of a number of stalls, and is handed a kit containing the necessary tools. If he does not know what to do, he can get advice. If the garage attendants are not too busy, they will even help him. For all this he pays 74 cents an hour.

Thus American resourcefulness and handiness with tools have combined to make a new type of business, which is likely to spread. Conventional garage owners and their mechanics doubtless will not care for it at first. After a time, it is possible they might begin to get some of the kind of business a watchmaker gets from the home tinkerer.

Low Silhouette

In military tank construction there are two chief points of competition, for heavier guns to hit harder and for lower silhouettes to be harder to hit. Congressman Thurmond Chatham of North Carolina, returned from a secret trip to Europe, reports he saw new Russian tanks which were only about three feet high. As a rule reports of new secret weapons leave us relatively unmoved, but this time we are agog, not so much to see the tanks as to see the crews.

New York City property suffered $20,200,000 damage last year by fire. A fourth of the damage, says the American Public Works Association, was due to careless smokers who paid no attention to where their matches and cigarets went. Do you know what becomes of yours?

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Invalids Need Exercise

CALISTHENICS and other forms of setting-up exercises always have been part of the army and navy routine. They serve a purpose in keeping the men in good physical condition to withstand the rigors of combat. The maneuvers also might be of benefit to a great many of us who lead a sedentary existence.

In World War II a different type of exercise was introduced into some of the hospitals. In this new plan—rehabilitation—our soldiers and sailors were encouraged to exercise as soon as their condition permitted. It was not as vigorous as their buddies on the outside were receiving but was still exercise and helped to maintain strength. The day after an operation or as soon as fever subsided in pneumonia, for example, a trained technician came around and made the patients start to wiggle fingers or toes and raise and lower the head. The amount of exertion was increased as each day passed but was never done beyond the point of fatigue.

The patients also were asked to get out of bed as soon as possible. Subsequent studies have shown that this measure is valuable in reducing complications and lessening the period of disability. This is a far cry from the old idea that bed rest is our primary weapon in combating disease. In former times we heard how the sick pup lies down but no mention was made of the fact that the dog tries to stand from time to time and in this respect does not lie absolutely quiet. The answer depends upon the definition of bed rest. It is absolute only in a few cases such as where a person is comatose or suffering from a fractured spine or other injury. But most of us twist, squirm, and fret in bed. Children are worse and may expend more energy than when up and about.

There are some objections to remaining quiet in a recumbent position during illness. The circulation becomes sluggish, there is a noticeable loss of strength, and our muscles become flabbier and smaller. Furthermore, the body steps up the elimination of nitrogen, calcium, phosphorus, and other minerals. These factors tend to weaken the individual and prolong recovery.

But this is not all. Nursing an injury or illness too long is conducive to neurotic states. This is especially true when the accident or sickness occurred while at work or when the individual was on military duty. The matter of compensation plays strange tricks on the brain and now and then a few paltry dollars make the difference between healthy activity and chronic invalidism. The physician has seen this happen and it is no wonder that he often recommends a return to work as soon as possible even on a part time basis until recovery is complete. There are some illnesses in which bed rest is absolutely essential. These include heart cases and illnesses in which fever or hemorrhages are present.

TOMORROW: Dr. Van Dellen discusses hand injuries.

DISCOLORED AREA

J. W. writes: Is there any way to make a black and blue mark disappear more quickly than letting nature take its course?

REPLY

Only by applying heat to speed up the circulation in an old lesion. The next time you injure yourself, apply an ice bag immediately after the accident to curtail bleeding. As a result, the black and blue spot will be smaller and heal more rapidly.

•—•—•

ABDOMINAL PAIN

B. R. writes: Why are doctors so insistent that purgatives should not be taken when abdominal pain is present?

REPLY

Because, if abdominal pain is due to appendicitis, a laxative may encourage rupture of the appendix, with subsequent peritonitis. This practice was more common in the past, when few laymen realized the danger.

•—•—•

NERVE DEGENERATION

H. E. writes: If an ear nerve is dead is there any way of regaining hearing on that side?

REPLY

This is doubtful, especially if the nerve has undergone complete degeneration. On the other hand, in a few cases, large doses of vitamin B might prove helpful. A hearing aid is of value if both sides are affected.

No. The blood group remains constant thruout life.

Truman Has Wanted To Visit MacArthur Since July; Wouldn't Be Talked Out Of It; Johnson Takes Firing From Defense Post In Stride

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Inside fact about the President's visit to MacArthur is that as early as last July he had a hankering to go to Korea. At that time, the Secret Service went into a tantrum even at the thought of such a trip and is still worried at the idea of the President's meeting MacArthur in mid-Pacific.

The plan of a trip to the Pacific was revived approximately a week ago in talks between Truman and Averell Harriman, who had already been to see MacArthur to smooth out the Formosa embroglio. Harriman advised the President that it would be an excellent idea for him to talk to MacArthur personally, and the President finally made his decision a week ago last Friday.

The decision was kept so secret, however, that at the Monday morning briefing which defense chiefs give the President every day, no word of the trip was mentioned. Only at the end of the meeting did the President ask the staff to leave and General Bradley to remain behind.

"General," Truman said, "I've been contemplating this trip for a few days. Do you see any reason why I shouldn't take it?"

"No, I would be one of the first to urge you to talk to MacArthur," Bradley replied.

Bradley went back to the Pentagon and suggested to his chief, Secretary of Defense Marshall, that he accompany the President on the Pacific trip. But Marshall said he was too new in his present job and not entirely familiar with the problems of the Pacific; therefore, that Bradley had better accompany the President.

The argument put forward by Harriman to Truman regarding the visit was that MacArthur had some excellent ideas on the rehabilitation and administration of Korea. This will be the main topic discussed by the the two men.

Differ On Occupying Korea

There has been a difference of opinion between the State and Defense departments over the future occupation of Korea, once the war is over. The national Defense Department wants to occupy the entire country with United Nations troops, thus permitting American troops to leave for use elsewhere. The State Department agrees that U. N. troops should be used to a considerable extent, but maintains that a certain number of American troops should remain in Korea. The State Department is anxious that the rehabilitation job be done with great care and thoroughness and believes that U. S. personnel must be largely responsible.

The State Department points out that one of the greatest losses of the Korean war has been the psychological effect upon Europe which has watched the bombing of helpless Korean cities. This has brought back in the minds of Western Europeans the realization that in case of war between the United States and Russia they too would be the object of intensive bombardment. Therefore, the State Department proposes to make an example of Korea and to show the world that if it is necessary to bomb a nation, we also will undertake to rehabilitate and rebuild it.

Harriman told Truman that Marshall has some good ideas on this whole question of a U. N. protectorate.

In talking to close friends, the President has said that he also wants to make it clear in MacArthur's mind as to who is the boss regarding Far Eastern policy. MacArthur not only let loose with his statement about Formosa, which brought a virtual reprimand from the White House, but MacArthur was also on intimate terms with Secretary of Defense Johnson, who vigorously disagreed with Truman regarding Formosa.

The President has confided to friends that he wants to make sure MacArthur realizes that over-all policy is being made at the White House, not in the Defense Department or in Tokyo.

Would Achieve Peace

Truman has also told friends that his greatest ambition is to establish peace in Korea; that we cannot afford to lose the peace as we have in the past; and that he believes a trip in which he can collect first-hand information from MacArthur will help achieve this goal.

The President confided to one friend that he was sorry he had let his associates talk him out of having Chief Justice Fred Vinson go to Moscow in the fall of 1948 on a peace mission. He said he wasn't going to be talked out of this kind of thing again—hence his trip to see MacArthur.

Louey Johnson's Chin

Those who have watched ex-Secretary of Defense Louey Johnson at the American Legion convention and elsewhere testify to the fact that Louey has taken his firing from the cabinet in his stride.

You have to know Louey Johnson to appreciate how terrific a blow his exit was. Louey had looked forward to being Secretary of Defense for 10 years — planned, hoped, yearned for the job. Then — after holding it for a year—he was bounced!

For a lot of strong men this would have been too much. But Louey has mingled genially among the crowds at the Legion convention in Los Angeles just as in the old days elsewhere. Meeting Pvt. Peter Emeterio in the Hotel Biltmore lobby he stopped to chat with the Marine Corps vet wounded at Taejon, told him how he had hated to give the order to send the Marines into battle, how the decision not to defend Korea had been reversed overnight, what a great job the Marines had done. Then he strode on.

The press has given Johnson a far tougher bath of criticism than was given his predecessor, but Louey is keeping his chin up just the same.

Notes From The Crime Front

The Kefauver committee is looking for the private diary of William Drury, the Chicago ex-cop, shot just before he was to have given evidence to the Senate crime probers. Senators think the diary may give a clue to Drury's murderer ... A few days before Drury was shot, senators received a tip that Harry Russell, the Chicago-Miami gambler, was to be rubbed out. Instead, it was Drury, but there is an interesting link between the two. Drury had been in touch with Russell trying to get him to turn state's evidence. Russell told him that if he did so he would certainly be binaggioed...It was Drury who later got the Binaggio treatment ... Before Jack Dragna, the Al Capone of California, testified before the Kefauver committee, the Los Angeles police gave Senate probers a transcript of a conversation between Dragna and Allan Smiley, who was with Bugsy Siegel when the latter was murdered. The conversation went something like this: "I am going to Chicago and get back that $500 a week from the Illinois Sports News or somebody is going to get hurt." ... When queried by Senate probers, Dragna kept a straight face, denied the whole thing. (The Illinois Sports News is the race wire that gives results to bookies, and pays heavy protection money to racketeers.) ...Paul "The Waiter" Ricca, a top Chicago hood, admitted behind closed doors that he purchased a farm truck from his good friend, Charles Baran, the same man who controls the servicing of automobiles for the Chicago police.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Times have changed since the days when the American people learned to their surprise that a President of the United States—William Howard Taft—had actually stepped across the Mexican boundary in 1910 to a foreign country for a day's visit.

Promptly the question arose as to whether the precedent meant that the United States was momentarily without a chief executive. Then when, in 1918, President Woodrow Wilson went to Paris and stayed there several months at a time during the peace conference that followed World War I, the same sort of discussion arose. The theory was advanced that, because the President went to the American Embassy to sign official papers, he was still able to transact business on American territory.

When President Franklin Roosevelt went aboard the cruiser Augusta and later aboard the battleship Iowa and the cruiser Quincy for his sea journeys, the point that a warship is American territory was still maintained as the legal basis for official action.

Legal Question Lessens

Gradually, as Mr. Roosevelt took long airplane journeys, the question of legality was hardly mentioned, though technically a big military plane is as much American territory for strictly legal purposes as a ship that travels the surface of the sea.

Now, when President Truman has gone across the Pacific to Wake Island, he is far away from any embassy during the time he travels through the air on his way to island posts where the American flag flies.

The public has become accustomed to the idea that a President of the United States may be absent from Continental United States for long periods of time.

Mr. Truman's trip to meet General MacArthur puts him out of telephone communication with Washington, as there is no overseas service by phone to Wake. Radio communication, however, from the plane to shore stations is constant and, if any emergency arose requiring a change in the President's itinerary, he could be reached instantly. Perhaps it was this lack of means of immediate communication which caused presidents of the United States before 1918 to refrain from making journeys across the ocean.

There is today an elaborate system of communication set up whenever the President goes to sea. If he goes by plane, the Navy cooperates by sending destroyers and other warships to take up station at allotted points fairly close together along the line of travel. This furnishes not only communication facilities but added protection in the event that any forced landing on the sea should become necessary if anything goes wrong with the plane.

Affords Communication Aid

It is to be noted there are three big passenger planes traveling together on the President's trip. This, too, affords a certain amount of communication help in the event that signals are not heard plainly on the President's plane. To go 4,000 miles across the Pacific ocean to Wake is much longer than any journey across the Atlantic and would apepar to be a much longer series of hops than President Franklin Roosevelt took on his trips via Africa to meet with heads of state in the Near East during World War II.

Only the White House staff who know the urgency arising occasionally for a presidential signature or for a presidential approval, as required by law, can appreciate what it means to have the President of the United States out of touch for even a few hours. Theoretically, it's all legal, no matter if the President signs anything when he is away from Continental United States—and the question of an "acting president" analogous to the case of mayors or governors who are absent from their respective jurisdictions has never been raised in the courts. There is no provision of the Constitution which covers this explicitly.

Rising Costs May Play Part In Nov. Election

By MARK SULLIVAN

IN THE Congressional campaign that will end in less than four weeks, November 7, a conspicuous factor is the extraordinary activity of organizations and leaders which seek to move labor. The principal organizations are two, the Political Action Committee of C.I.O. and labor's League for Political Education representing A.F.L.; and what makes the movement impressive, as well as to some extent novel in our politics, is cooperation between the two which in some states goes the length of fusion. Representing these two, and also some minor organizations, there are in many states and districts "joint labor committees."

Voters May Change

Up to the present stage of the campaign the principal direct activity of the groups has been getting voters to register and vote in the primary elections, and in this spokesmen of the movement claim to have had much success. Looking forward to the November election, the vigorously proclaimed purpose is the same. The hope that goes with the purpose is that a large outpouring of voters at the polls will be an advantage to the labor movement. However this may be, it is probably a fact that organization for getting out the vote is larger and more vigorous on the part of this movement than corresponding organization for the same purpose in either the Democratic or Republican Parties.

It by no means follows that all the voters who go to the polls through incitement by leaders appealing to labor will necessarily vote as these leaders wish. Neither does it follow that the rank and file of labor vote as they are urged to by political leaders of labor or by candidates who seek the labor vote. In the 1948 Presidential campaign, President Truman made strong and repeated appeals for the labor vote, but failed to carry some large Eastern manufacturing states.

Could Be Reversed

In the present situation the appeals of leaders and organizations seeking to move the labor vote contain the possibility of reverse effect. When attempt is made to give reasons for the appeals, emphasis is put on the Taft-Hartley labor law—the periodical "Labor" reported the recent annual convention of the American Federation of Labor as having voted for "unceasing struggle against the iniquitous" Taft-Hartley law. Denunciation of this law prevades the attempt to move labor in the coming election. But if the Taft-Hartley labor law is iniquitous, the iniquity must lie in undue restriction put upon labor unions. And labor union members, as distinguished from leaders, must find it difficult to believe there is undue restriction when during the very months of the campaign there are in industry after industry successful demands for wage raises.

As for voters generally, they may find in the demands for wage raises and the success of them and the strikes accompanying some of them, an affirmative reason for voting directly contrary to the appeals of spokesmen for labor as a political movement. Indeed the current wave of wage raises, with the higher prices of manufactured goods that follow most of them, may of themselves be a large factor in the coming Congressional elections. They contribute to higher cost of living, and it seems safe to assume that the country is cost-of-living conscious. They work hardship on consumers, and there are more consumers than members of labor unions, more indeed than any other single group.

Overlapping the consumers and almost as large is another group, the savers who in the past have put their money into life insurance policies, government savings bonds and similar forms of security for the future. These are becoming aware that for them the increasing cost of living is a special and tragic detriment. Because cost of living goes higher and higher the dollar they have put into savings is reduced in purchasing power. A dollar put into one of these forms of savings 10 years ago, today has in terms of goods a purchasing power of less than 60 cents. Since increase in the cost of living is still under way, the saver has reason to be apprehensive lest the dollar that he puts into this form of security may a few years from now have still less purchasing power.

Savers May Act

So far as savers grasp this condition consciously, and so far as they recognize the part played in increased cost of living by widespread raises in wage rates, repeated in four rounds during the past five years, savers as a group may take a conscious part in the November elections. Savers and consumers are not organized and do not have formal leaders and spokesmen. That is their political weakness. Yet widespread consciousness of what they are experiencing, and intelligent action at the polls, could decide the November elections. They should need no urging to go to the polls. If the outcome is to be determined by groups at all, these are the groups who have the widest interest and reflect most nearly the interest of the country as a whole.

These Days By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

DEAR HAROLD STASSEN:

I HAVE long pondered your letter to Joe Stalin. I am sure that you were sincere when you wrote it, and I know that you took counsel of many wise men.

Yet, to me, your letter to Uncle Joe represents more enthusiasm than wisdom.

In the first place, the responsibility for the conduct of our international relations is vested in the President of the United States and his secretary of state. They cannot shirk that responsibility. Unless a citizen is delegated by the President to negotiate with a foreign power, he has no authority. Whatever he says is private conversation. There is even a law forbidding citizens to take such a task on themselves.

We want to hold the President and the Secretary of State responsible for the business that the Constitution delegates to them. If their policies are sound and come out right, they are deserving of commendation. If their policies are wrong and come out awry, we should criticize and condemn them.

It seems to me that in this respect, all you can do is muddy the waters. It is like that bipartisan foreign policy which so many Republicans thought would save the world. The most that was bipartisan about it was the sharing of blame for some of the most egregious errors in our history. No Republican was consulted with regard to the abandonment of Chiang Kai-Shek. Great Britain was consulted, but not the Republican party; yet the Republicans have to share the blame for it — all except those who denounced it.

In the second place, we are at war with Soviet Russia. Joe Stalin is our enemy. American boys are dying in Korea because Joe Stalin is our enemy.

Now, you might go technical on me and say that we are not at war with Joe Stalin at all, but that the United Nations is unifying Korea.

Please don't say that to me!

Neither the South nor the North Koreans ever produced a fighting force that even remotely resembled the power that the North Koreans are displaying. This was a Russian job, and at Seoul, the Koreans followed the Stalingrad pattern. And from their arms, equipment, bombs and mines we know that the Russians used them, as they are using the Viet Minh in French Indo-China, the Armenians in Iran, and so on.

So, we are at war with Joe Stalin. I wonder what you would have thought of a private American citizen who, during our recent efforts to save the world for democracy, entered upon personal negotiations with Hitler or Mussolini?

Talking with Stalin may be more fun than a conversation with Hitler, although Stalin, back in 1917 at the Smolny Institute, seemed to be a dull, self-centered person with few social graces. Still, he may have developed over the years and Elliott Roosevelt, who should be a connoisseur of companionship, apparently found his society delectable.

Nevertheless, what could you say to him? You would, according to your letter, tell him that the United States will not go broke. Such bad news could not please him. Nor could you give him any guarantees one way or the other. This Korean war is costing us about $10,000,000,000. How many tens of billions do we have to load on top of our national debt of $256,000,000,000? Stalin can count, too.

Then you will tell him that we love peace. Now, precisely, what do you think the United States would gain by that?

General Douglas MacArthur is so much wiser. He reads the Lord's Prayer to the tune of "Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition." I bet that Joe understands that perfectly. He knows that a couple of swift kicks in the underside will destroy his prestige for invincibility.

But when he is told by a promin-

Girl With Life Like Fairy Tale To Wed In Nov.

Expects To Walk Within One Year

By BETTY PROSSER

CHICAGO, (AP) — A pretty 25-year-old blonde who was paralyzed in a fall eight years ago looked at the future and mused, "My whole life has been like a fairy story."

Bonnie Bonhiver's pluck drew to her the cast of characters who made the fairy tale come true. As a result, she expects to walk like other girls within a year—and she won't walk alone. A tall, handsome prince charming will become her husband on Thanksgiving Day.

Of course, since it's a fairy story, there's a fairy Godmother. For fairy Godfathers, there's the 89-man suburban Evanston Police Department. And there's a happy ending, like this:

Once upon a time —eight years ago to the prosaic — Bonnie was helping her mother entertain. She was about to sit down when her mother, not looking, lifted the chair to offer it to a guest. Bonnie fell, "and I fell wrong." From that day on, she was paralyzed.

Then began the battle to reeducate her muscles. When costs of medical care became too heavy, her widowed mother, Mrs. August Bonhiver, in desperation called the Evanston Police Department for suggestions.

The cops' suggestion was to "adopt" Bonnie. For the last five years, they've picked Bonnie up in squad cars, taking her to doctors and to a swimming pool, where she practiced using the long idle muscles. And they paid a heavy share of the bills.

Then one day, while she was at the pool, a woman came up to her. Bonnie tells it:

"She said, 'You know, darling, I was in the same position you are in right now. If you'll take the same treatment I did, I'll take over and pay for everything.' "

That, of course, was the fairy Godmother. Bonnie has kept her promise not to tell her name.

Gradually, Bonnie learned to walk with a cane. And then entered Prince Charming.

He's Jerold Mitchell, 25, also of Evanston, employed as an announcer by a Hammond, Ind., radio station (WJOB, WJIZ-FM). Jerry was assigned to interview Bonnie. He fell in love with her.

Since she met Jerry, Bonnie has learned to take two steps without the cane, and is able to cook, and do the washing, "and just everything."

Now she's getting the first floor of the Bonhiver house ready for private living quarters. After the wedding, with the entire Evanston Police Force as honor guests, Bonnie and Jerry will settle down there. That way, Bonnie's mother can help her until she's fully recovered. The physio therapist recommended by Godmother "Betty" predicts she'll be walking alone within a year.

Meanwhile, Bonnie and Jerry hope to write a book together.

"Jerry has a wonderful philosophy for a man of 25," she said. "We're going to do everything we can to make other people happier. He's working for brotherhood in the world, and we're going to do it together."

"I sit back every once in a while, as if I were on a star, and look at my life and think, "It's funny, and it's been pitiful in a way, but it's not any more—and it never will be again."

Girl Scouts To Dress Dolls For Christmas Distribution

Leaders Hear Regional Report

Twenty-four dolls were distributed to the various Girl Scout troops to be dressed for the Salvation Army for Christmas, at the meeting of the Leaders Association Wednesday evening at the Girl Scout House.

The association accepted an invitation for the Girl Scouts to march in the Armistice Day parade, providing it is not too cold. The girls are to meet at the Armory at 7 o'clock and be in full scout uniform or in skirt and blouse.

Announcement was made that registrations for the open meeting on Scouting to be held Monday at Central YMCA, are to be in the office Saturday morning. The group also was told that an article, "Girl Scouts Working for One World," will be in Look magazine of November 7 which will be on sale October 24.

Reports were given of the regional conference held in Pittsburgh earlier in the week. A resume of the group discussion meetings attended were given by Miss Helen Campbell, on "Understanding Girls and People." She also told of attending the "Scout's Own" and inspecting rooms representing each country where there is Girl Scouting. cloche): These make your neck and body seem shorter, and thus fail to be the slimming flattering influence you want.

3. Round, dainty or squatty trims such as rosettes, cockades, loops and insignificant flower clusters. Not only for the reason given in No. 1, but more important, because they simply are not impressive enough to do your type of elegance justice.

What To Look For

Always stick to:

1. Diagonal lines (as in the profile shapes so fashionable right now): The brim that cuts across your face in a long diagonal, foils the roundness of both your face and figure.

2. Asymmetrically placed trims such as wings and the wired ribbon being shown currently. Medium-sized, side or slant-placed trims at a second long line that subtly adds to your height.

3. Veiling: Hides many a tell-tale line.

4. Proportioned size: Be sure your hat is as wide as your hair-do and that your hair-do is softly close to your head.

Plugging The Rat Holes

Many Americans are quite curious about the mysterious "instruments" in little black valises which were carried aboard the Polish liner Batory when she hove to off New York harbor several days ago. While at anchor, U. S. customs men gave the liner as thorough and unhurried a going over as she has ever had. Only then was she permitted to dock with her passengers. Evidently customs agents found nothing very suspicious.

One can't help but be impressed by the new "tougher" attitude which is marking relations with the Soviet and her satellites wherever these contacts occur. Time was when a foreign nation could hold American vessels and American citizens with no question of retaliation by this government. The individual citizen, or relative of an American who had suffered loss of liberty or indignities in the hands of a foreign government, was left to stew in his own frustration.

Giving the Batory, which has earned the nickname "Commie Ferry" among waterfront reporters, a good combing over is quite within the letter and the spirit of the special laws enacted this year. These were set up to guard against sneak attacks on America's large coastal cities by apparently innocent vessels of foreign registry carrying an A-bomb in the bilge.

There are drawbacks. It loads a tremendous amount of work on the slim force of customs agents, and to a certain extent holds up the normal flow of ocean traffic. But no one can feel very sorry for the owners of foreign ships which have been put through the inspection mill. This type of search is perfectly legal under international law—trumpetings by the Daily Worker to the contrary notwithstanding.

There is hardly any question of "retaliation" from Soviet and satellite sources at all, since U. S. shipping for the most part is barred from Soviet ports. It is believed the great majority of Americans will applaud this screening of foreign ships. By keeping alert, gradually it may be possible to get most of the rat holes plugged.

Russian Massacre

The Department of Defense has released a memorandum on the 1943 Katyn massacre. During the war the Nazis claimed to have come upon the bodies of more than 10,000 Polish officers and men in a mass grave near Smolensk.

The Polish government-in-exile in London asked the International Red Cross to investigate, and the Red Cross said it was willing only if Russia agreed. Russia angrily retorted that the Nazis committed the massacre, but refused to permit any investigation.

Moscow used the incident, moreover, as a pretext for breaking off relations with the exile government—and later as an excuse for violating the Yalta agreement by refusing to let Free Polish leaders participate in the Lublin government.

The Defense Department memo reveals that the Nazis took one British and two American officers, then prisoners of war, to the Katyn forest and showed them the bodies. The British captain, a medical officer, estimated there were 11,000 bodies. The American colonel whose statement is contained in the memo states as his personal opinion, based on many minor details pointing in that direction, that the Russians perpetrated the massacre.

Russia, so avid for the punishment of Nazi war criminals, never consented to an investigation that might have exposed those responsible for this crime. The Reds did not try to explain how the Germans could have executed 10,000 or more Poles on Russian soil. The Russians, however, were holding large numbers of Polish prisoners of war.

The Russians permitted the non-Communist Polish underground in Warsaw to be destroyed by the Nazis when it rose up to support the Red army's attack on the city. The men who committed that unpunished war crime were capable of the Katyn massacre.

"Fix It Yourself"

"Drive-it-yourself" car rental establishments are familiar. Now comes the "Fix-it-yourself" garage, a Kansas City innovation. The owner drives his ailing car into one of a number of stalls, and is handed a kit containing the necessary tools. If he does not know what to do, he can get advice. If the garage attendants are not too busy, they will even help him. For all this he pays 74 cents an hour.

Thus American resourcefulness and handiness with tools have combined to make a new type of business, which is likely to spread. Conventional garage owners and their mechanics doubtless will not care for it at first. After a time, it is possible they might begin to get some of the kind of business a watchmaker gets from the home tinkerer.

Low Silhouette

In military tank construction there are two chief points of competition, for heavier guns to hit harder and for lower silhouettes to be harder to hit. Congressman Thurmond Chatham of North Carolina, returned from a secret trip to Europe, reports he saw new Russian tanks which were only about three feet high. As a rule reports of new secret weapons leave us relatively unmoved, but this time we are agog, not so much to see the tanks as to see the crews.

New York City property suffered $20,200,000 damage last year by fire. A fourth of the damage, says the American Public Works Association, was due to careless smokers who paid no attention to where their matches and cigarets went. Do you know what becomes of yours?

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Invalids Need Exercise

CALISTHENICS and other forms of setting-up exercises always have been part of the army and navy routine. They serve a purpose in keeping the men in good physical condition to withstand the rigors of combat. The maneuvers also might be of benefit to a great many of us who lead a sedentary existence.

In World War II a different type of exercise was introduced into some of the hospitals. In this new plan—rehabilitation—our soldiers and sailors were encouraged to exercise as soon as their condition permitted. It was not as vigorous as their buddies on the outside were receiving but was still exercise and helped to maintain strength. The day after an operation or as soon as fever subsided in pneumonia, for example, a trained technician came around and made the patients start to wiggle fingers or toes and raise and lower the head. The amount of exertion was increased as each day passed but was never done beyond the point of fatigue.

The patients also were asked to get out of bed as soon as possible. Subsequent studies have shown that this measure is valuable in reducing complications and lessening the period of disability. This is a far cry from the old idea that bed rest is our primary weapon in combating disease. In former times we heard how the sick pup lies down but no mention was made of the fact that the dog tries to stand from time to time and in this respect does not lie absolutely quiet. The answer depends upon the definition of bed rest. It is absolute only in a few cases such as where a person is comatose or suffering from a fractured spine or other injury. But most of us twist, squirm, and fret in bed. Children are worse and may expend more energy than when up and about.

There are some objections to remaining quiet in a recumbent position during illness. The circulation becomes sluggish, there is a noticeable loss of strength, and our muscles become flabbier and smaller. Furthermore, the body steps up the elimination of nitrogen, calcium, phosphorus, and other minerals. These factors tend to weaken the individual and prolong recovery.

But this is not all. Nursing an injury or illness too long is conducive to neurotic states. This is especially true when the accident or sickness occurred while at work or when the individual was on military duty. The matter of compensation plays strange tricks on the brain and now and then a few paltry dollars make the difference between healthy activity and chronic invalidism. The physician has seen this happen and it is no wonder that he often recommends a return to work as soon as possible even on a part time basis until recovery is complete. There are some illnesses in which bed rest is absolutely essential. These include heart cases and illnesses in which fever or hemorrhages are present.

TOMORROW: Dr. Van Dellen discusses hand injuries.

DISCOLORED AREA

J. W. writes: Is there any way to make a black and blue mark disappear more quickly than letting nature take its course?

REPLY

Only by applying heat to speed up the circulation in an old lesion. The next time you injure yourself, apply an ice bag immediately after the accident to curtail bleeding. As a result, the black and blue spot will be smaller and heal more rapidly.

•—•—•

ABDOMINAL PAIN

B. R. writes: Why are doctors so insistent that purgatives should not be taken when abdominal pain is present?

REPLY

Because, if abdominal pain is due to appendicitis, a laxative may encourage rupture of the appendix, with subsequent peritonitis. This practice was more common in the past, when few laymen realized the danger.

•—•—•

NERVE DEGENERATION

H. E. writes: If an ear nerve is dead is there any way of regaining hearing on that side?

REPLY

This is doubtful, especially if the nerve has undergone complete degeneration. On the other hand, in a few cases, large doses of vitamin B might prove helpful. A hearing aid is of value if both sides are affected.

•—•—•

ETERNAL

REPLY

No. The blood group remains constant thruout life.

PENICILLIN HELPS

J. B. writes: Is penicillin of any benefit in chronic prostatitis?

REPLY

Yes, but the wonder drug is more effective when used in conjunction with prostatic massage.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Truman Has Wanted To Visit MacArthur Since July; Wouldn't Be Talked Out Of It; Johnson Takes Firing From Defense Post In Stride

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Inside fact about the President's visit to MacArthur is that as early as last July he had a hankering to go to Korea. At that time, the Secret Service went into a tantrum even at the thought of such a trip and is still worried at the idea of the President's meeting MacArthur in mid-Pacific.

The plan of a trip to the Pacific was revived approximately a week ago in talks between Truman and Averell Harriman, who had already been to see MacArthur to smooth out the Formosa embroglio. Harriman advised the President that it would be an excellent idea for him to talk to MacArthur personally, and the President finally made his decision a week ago last Friday.

The decision was kept so secret, however, that at the Monday morning briefing which defense chiefs give the President every day, no word of the trip was mentioned. Only at the end of the meeting did the President ask the staff to leave and General Bradley to remain behind.

"General," Truman said, "I've been contemplating this trip for a few days. Do you see any reason why I shouldn't take it?"

"No, I would be one of the first to urge you to talk to MacArthur," Bradley replied.

Bradley went back to the Pentagon and suggested to his chief, Secretary of Defense Marshall, that he accompany the President on the Pacific trip. But Marshall said he was too new in his present job and not entirely familiar with the problems of the Pacific; therefore, that Bradley had better accompany the President.

The argument put forward by Harriman to Truman regarding the visit was that MacArthur had some excellent ideas on the rehabilitation and administration of Korea. This will be the main topic discussed by the the two men.

Differ On Occupying Korea

There has been a difference of opinion between the State and Defense departments over the future occupation of Korea, once the war is over. The national Defense Department wants to occupy the entire country with United Nations troops, thus permitting American troops to leave for use elsewhere. The State Department agrees that U. N. troops should be used to a considerable extent, but maintains that a certain number of American troops should remain in Korea. The State Department is anxious that the rehabilitation job be done with great care and thoroughness and believes that U. S. personnel must be largely responsible.

The State Department points out that one of the greatest losses of the Korean war has been the psychological effect upon Europe which has watched the bombing of helpless Korean cities. This has brought back in the minds of Western Europeans the realization that in case of war between the United States and Russia they too would be the object of intensive bombardment. Therefore, the State Department proposes to make an example of Korea and to show the world that if it is necessary to bomb a nation, we also will undertake to rehabilitate and rebuild it.

Harriman told Truman that Marshall has some good ideas on this whole question of a U. N. protectorate.

In talking to close friends, the President has said that he also wants to make it clear in MacArthur's mind as to who is the boss regarding Far Eastern policy. MacArthur not only let loose with his statement about Formosa, which brought a virtual reprimand from the White House, but MacArthur was also on intimate terms with Secretary of Defense Johnson, who vigorously disagreed with Truman regarding Formosa.

The President has confided to friends that he wants to make sure MacArthur realizes that over-all policy is being made at the White House, not in the Defense Department or in Tokyo.

Would Achieve Peace

Truman has also told friends that his greatest ambition is to establish peace in Korea; that we cannot afford to lose the peace as we have in the past; and that he believes a trip in which he can collect first-hand information from MacArthur will help achieve this goal.

The President confided to one friend that he was sorry he had let his associates talk him out of having Chief Justice Fred Vinson go to Moscow in the fall of 1948 on a peace mission. He said he wasn't going to be talked out of this kind of thing again—hence his trip to see MacArthur.

Louey Johnson's Chin

Those who have watched ex-Secretary of Defense Louey Johnson at the American Legion convention and elsewhere testify to the fact that Louey has taken his firing from the cabinet in his stride.

You have to know Louey Johnson to appreciate how terrific a blow his exit was. Louey had looked forward to being Secretary of Defense for 10 years — planned, hoped, yearned for the job. Then — after holding it for a year—he was bounced!

For a lot of strong men this would have been too much. But Louey has mingled genially among the crowds at the Legion convention in Los Angeles just as in the old days elsewhere. Meeting Pvt. Peter Emeterio in the Hotel Biltmore lobby he stopped to chat with the Marine Corps vet wounded at Taejon, told him how he had hated to give the order to send the Marines into battle, how the decision not to defend Korea had been reversed overnight, what a great job the Marines had done. Then he strode on.

The press has given Johnson a far tougher bath of criticism than was given his predecessor, but Louey is keeping his chin up just the same.

Notes From The Crime Front

The Kefauver committee is looking for the private diary of William Drury, the Chicago ex-cop, shot just before he was to have given evidence to the Senate crime probers. Senators think the diary may give a clue to Drury's murderer ... A few days before Drury was shot, senators received a tip that Harry Russell, the Chicago-Miami gambler, was to be rubbed out. Instead, it was Drury, but there is an interesting link between the two. Drury had been in touch with Russell trying to get him to turn state's evidence. Russell told him that if he did so he would certainly be binaggioed...It was Drury who later got the Binaggio treatment ... Before Jack Dragna, the Al Capone of California, testified before the Kefauver committee, the Los Angeles police gave Senate probers a transcript of a conversation between Dragna and Allan Smiley, who was with Bugsy Siegel when the latter was murdered. The conversation went something like this: "I am going to Chicago and get back that $500 a week from the Illinois Sports News or somebody is going to get hurt." ... When queried by Senate probers, Dragna kept a straight face, denied the whole thing. (The Illinois Sports News is the race wire that gives results to bookies, and pays heavy protection money to racketeers.) ...Paul "The Waiter" Ricca, a top Chicago hood, admitted behind closed doors that he purchased a farm truck from his good friend, Charles Baran, the same man who controls the service of automobiles for the Chicago police.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Times have changed since the days when the American people learned to their surprise that a President of the United States—William Howard Taft—had actually stepped across the Mexican boundary in 1910 to a foreign country for a day's visit.

Promptly the question arose as to whether the precedent meant that the United States was momentarily without a chief executive. Then when, in 1918, President Woodrow Wilson went to Paris and stayed there several months at a time during the peace conference that followed World War I, the same sort of discussion arose. The theory was advanced that, because the President went to the American Embassy to sign official papers, he was still able to transact business on American territory.

When President Franklin Roosevelt went aboard the cruiser Augusta and later aboard the battleship Iowa and the cruiser Quincy for his sea journeys, the point that a warship is American territory was still maintained as the legal basis for official action.

Legal Question Lessens

Gradually, as Mr. Roosevelt took long airplane journeys, the question of legality was hardly mentioned, though technically a big military plane is as much American territory for strictly legal purposes as a ship that travels the surface of the sea.

Now, when President Truman has gone across the Pacific to Wake Island, he is far away from any embassy during the time he travels through the air on his way to island posts where the American flag flies.

The public has become accustomed to the idea that a President of the United States may be absent from Continental United States for long periods of time.

Mr. Truman's trip to meet General MacArthur puts him out of telephone communication with Washington, as there is no overseas service by phone to Wake. Radio communication, however, from the plane to shore stations is constant and, if any emergency arose requiring a change in the President's itinerary, he could be reached instantly. Perhaps it was this lack of means of immediate communication which caused presidents of the United States before 1918 to refrain from making journeys across the ocean.

There is today an elaborate system of communication set up whenever the President goes to sea. If he goes by plane, the Navy cooperates by sending destroyers and other warships to take up station at allotted points fairly close together along the line of travel. This furnishes not only communication facilities but added protection in the event that any forced landing on the sea should become necessary if anything goes wrong with the plane.

Affords Communication Aid

It is to be noted there are three big passenger planes traveling together on the President's trip. This, too, affords a certain amount of communication help in the event that signals are not heard plainly on the President's plane. To go 4,000 miles across the Pacific ocean to Wake is much longer than any journey across the Atlantic and would apepar to be a much longer series of hops than President Franklin Roosevelt took on his trips via Africa to meet with heads of state in the Near East during World War II.

Only the White House staff who know the urgency arising occasionally for a presidential signature or for a presidential approval, as required by law, can appreciate what it means to have the President of the United States out of touch for even a few hours. Theoretically, it's all legal, no matter if the President signs anything when he is away from Continental United States—and the question of an "acting president" analogous to the case of mayors or governors who are absent from their respective jurisdictions has never been raised in the courts. There is no provision of the Constitution which covers this explicitly.

Rising Costs May Play Part In Nov. Election

By MARK SULLIVAN

IN THE Congressional campaign that will end in less than four weeks, November 7, a conspicuous factor is the extraordinary activity of organizations and leaders which seek to move labor. The principal organizations are two, the Political Action Committee of C.I.O. and labor's League for Political Education representing A.F.L.; and what makes the movement impressive, as well as to some extent novel in our politics, is cooperation between the two which in some states goes the length of fusion. Representing these two, and also some minor organizations, there are in many states and districts "joint labor committees."

Voters May Change

Up to the present stage of the campaign the principal direct activity of the groups has been getting voters to register and vote in the primary elections, and in this spokesmen of the movement claim to have had much success. Looking forward to the November election, the vigorously proclaimed purpose is the same. The hope that goes with the purpose is that a large outpouring of voters at the polls will be an advantage to the labor movement. However this may be, it is probably a fact that organization for getting out the vote is larger and more vigorous on the part of this movement than corresponding organization for the same purpose in either the Democratic or Republican Parties.

It by no means follows that all the voters who go to the polls through incitement by leaders appealing to labor will necessarily vote as these leaders wish. Neither does it follow that the rank and file of labor vote as they are urged to by political leaders of labor or by candidates who seek the labor vote. In the 1948 Presidential campaign, President Truman made strong and repeated appeals for the labor vote, but failed to carry some large Eastern manufacturing states.

Could Be Reversed

In the present situation the appeals of leaders and organizations seeking to move the labor vote contain the possibility of reverse effect. When attempt is made to give reasons for the appeals, emphasis is put on the Taft-Hartley labor law—the periodical "Labor" reported the recent annual convention of the American Federation of Labor as having voted for "unceasing struggle against the iniquitous" Taft-Hartley law. Denunciation of this law prevades the attempt to move labor in the coming election. But if the Taft-Hartley labor law is iniquitous, the iniquity must lie in undue restriction put upon labor unions. And labor union members, as distinguished from leaders, must find it difficult to believe there is undue restriction when during the very months of the campaign there are in industry after industry successful demands for wage raises.

As for voters generally, they may find in the demands for wage raises and the success of them and the strikes accompanying some of them, an affirmative reason for voting directly contrary to the appeals of spokesmen for labor as a political movement. Indeed the current wave of wage raises, with the higher prices of manufactured goods that follow most of them, may of themselves be a large factor in the coming Congressional elections. They contribute to higher cost of living, and it seems safe to assume that the country is cost-of-living conscious. They work hardship on consumers, and there are more consumers than members of labor unions, more indeed than any other single group.

Overlapping the consumers and almost as large is another group, the savers who in the past have put their money into life insurance policies, government savings bonds and similar forms of security for the future. These are becoming aware that for them the increasing cost of living is a special and tragic detriment. Because cost of living goes higher and higher the dollar they have put into savings is reduced in purchasing power. A dollar put into one of these forms of savings 10 years ago, today has in terms of goods a purchasing power of less than 60 cents. Since increase in the cost of living is still under way, the saver has reason to be apprehensive lest the dollar that he puts into this form of security may a few years from now have still less purchasing power.

Savers May Act

So far as savers grasp this condition consciously, and so far as they recognize the part played in increased cost of living by widespread raises in wage rates, repeated in four rounds during the past five years, savers as a group may take a conscious part in the November elections. Savers and consumers are not organized and do not have formal leaders and spokesmen. That is their political weakness. Yet widespread consciousness of what they are experiencing, and intelligent action at the polls, could decide the November elections. They should need no urging to go to the polls. If the outcome is to be determined by groups at all, these are the groups who have the widest interest and reflect most nearly the interest of the country as a whole.

These Days By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

DEAR HAROLD STASSEN:

I HAVE long pondered your letter to Joe Stalin. I am sure that you were sincere when you wrote it, and I know that you took counsel of many wise men.

Yet, to me, your letter to Uncle Joe represents more enthusiasm than wisdom.

In the first place, the responsibility for the conduct of our international relations is vested in the President of the United States and his secretary of state. They cannot shirk that responsibility. Unless a citizen is delegated by the President to negotiate with a foreign power, he has no authority. Whatever he says is private conversation. There is even a law forbidding citizens to take such a task on themselves.

We want to hold the President and the Secretary of State responsible for the business that the Constitution delegates to them. If their policies are sound and come out right, they are deserving of commendation. If their policies are wrong and come out awry, we should criticize and condemn them.

It seems to me that in this respect, all you can do is muddy the waters. It is like that bipartisan foreign policy which so many Republicans thought would save the world. The most that was bipartisan about it was the sharing of blame for some of the most egregious errors in our history. No Republican was consulted with regard to the abandonment of Chiang Kai-Shek. Great Britain was consulted, but not the Republican party; yet the Republicans have to share the blame for it — all except those who denounced it.

In the second place, we are at war with Soviet Russia. Joe Stalin is our enemy. American boys are dying in Korea because Joe Stalin is our enemy.

Now, you might go technical on me and say that we are not at war with Joe Stalin at all, but that the United Nations is unifying Korea.

Please don't say that to me!

Neither the South nor the North Koreans ever produced a fighting force that even remotely resembled the power that the North Koreans are displaying. This was a Russian job, and at Seoul, the Koreans followed the Stalingrad pattern. And from their arms, equipment, bombs and mines we know that the Russians used them, as they are using the Viet Minh in French Indo-China, the Armenians in Iran, and so on.

So, we are at war with Joe Stalin. I wonder what you would have thought of a private American citizen who, during our recent efforts to save the world for democracy, entered upon personal negotiations with Hitler or Mussolini?

Talking with Stalin may be more fun than a conversation with Hitler, although Stalin, back in 1917 at the Smolny Institute, seemed to be a dull, self-centered person with few social graces. Still, he may have developed over the years and Elliott Roosevelt, who should be a connoisseur of companionship, apparently found his society delectable.

Nevertheless, what could you say to him? You would, according to your letter, tell him that the United States will not go broke. Such bad news could not please him. Nor could you give him any guarantees one way or the other. This Korean war is costing us about $10,000,000,000. How many tens of billions do we have to load on top of our national debt of $256,000,000,000? Stalin can count, too.

Then you will tell him that we love peace. Now, precisely, what do you think the United States would gain by that?

General Douglas MacArthur is so much wiser. He reads the Lord's Prayer to the tune of "Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition." I bet that Joe understands that perfectly. He knows that a couple of swift kicks in the underside will destroy his prestige for invincibility.

But when he is told by a promin-

Queen Of Greece Has Hankering For U. S. Sundae

ATHENS, (INS)—Queen Frederika Luise of Greece said today she thinks an American chocolate sundae is a queen' dish—and she yearns for one.

"I am particularly interested," the queen said, "in visiting New York and Hollywood and tasting your chocolate sundae"

But in the next breath the granddaughter of the late German Kaiser Wilhelm betrayed a confusion over the ingredients which go to make up the American ice cream delicacy.

She would like, the queen said, that her sundae be made with lots of malted milk.

Frederika of Brunswick expressed her yearning for a sundae during an audience granted by King Paul of Greece to 35 touring American newsmen and women and Sen. Edwin C. Johnson of Colorado.

While the King looked on with an amused smile the Americans gave the enthusiastic queen a recipe for a sundae and the Senator attempted to dissuade her from going only to New York and Hollywood by describing glowingly the beauties of Colorado.

Johnson said, "I promise you a personally conducted tour if you come."

Frederika, indicating the King, said, "He's been in America several times but I've never seen it."

Paul said he, too, would like to go to America but added that an official invitation would be necessary. He recalled that his brother, ex-King George, had been invited by the late President Roosevelt.

Ralph Damon, president of Trans World Airline, which arranged the tour, offered the facilities of his line to the royal couple if they should decide to come to America.

The King said, "We shall welcome them with our scanty material means, but with our great spiritual riches. I am confident that upon their return to their adopted countries they will be the bearers of the great Greek ideals, as far as the remotest corners of the globe."

Army Recruits, Treated As Human Beings, Train Faster And Harder

By ED CREAGH

The salty World War II commander, now in a hero's grave, would love the powerful new tanks that bear his name .... The fighting spirit that animates the Third Armored Division .... The rugged conditioning that tomorrow's soldiers are getting here at the Army's training center for armor.

But the "new army" treatment of GI's? The cushioned chairs in induction centers? The please-and-thank-you politeness of sergeants toward recruits? The spectacle of generals addressing groups of privates as "gentlemen?"

"It is my considered opinion," said an officer who served with Patton in the 1944 smash into Germany, "that old Georgie would blow all four of his stacks."

That's the way it is, though, as the Army flexes its muscles against the danger of World War III:

Today's new soldier trains faster and harder than yesterday's soldier did. But he's treated as a human being and not as a mass of dough to be whipped into shape at whatever cost to his pride and personality.

You may be wondering just what happens to the World War 2½ soldier—since he's just about sure to be someone you know and may even be yourself.

Well, Fort Knox will give you a good idea. It's a roomy place—106,000 acres. Its "temporary" wooden barracks are five years old and are starting to show their age. Its activities range from guarding the bulk of the world's gold supply to teaching cooks how not to make hash.

But chiefly it's a vast plant for turning young civilians into sturdy soldiers who can drive a tank, fire a bazooka and take care of themselves in hand-to-hand combat with a foe who doesn't fight clean.

"Before Korea," said Brig. Gen. Thomas L. Harrold, post commander, "we took 14 weeks to give these young civilians their basic training. Now we cut out the frills and squeeze it into six weeks. That leaves eight weeks for specialized training.

"They get battle conditioning, learn what shell fire sounds like. They are toughened, mentally and physically, for combat. The training is better than before. It's far more real and concrete."

"It's not so tough if you're in good condition," he said.

"Nice going," an officer called. Then, to another recruit who made hard going of it: "Easy there. You don't have to kill yourself. Tomorrow is another day."

Almost before he knows it, yesterday's civilian is at home with a gun in his hand. And not just the M-1 rifle, either. He learns to handle machine guns, tank guns. He learns to creep under barbed wire by night with tracer bullets screaming over his head.

"They like it!" shouted Capt. James W. Hajek over the earth-jarring roar of .50 calibre machine gun fire. "They take to these guns like a duck to water. It's a lot more fun than sitting in a classroom all day."

Hajek, a former New Yorker, headed a machine gun combat company in World War II. He's one of many combat veterans now teaching at Fort Knox. Another, Sgt. Lafe Pool, Kerrville, Texas, already is a legend.

Before he lost a leg, Pool drove Patton's lead tank in 21 major attacks. His guns knocked out 257 enemy tanks and other vehicles, killed more than 1,000 Germans. He told Carroll Walker, Knoxville, Tenn., and a group of other recruits:

"You fellow got a chance to do better than we could. These new tanks—man, they're pretty. You just take hold of that joy stick and go any way you want. Nice? Say, I could rock my baby to sleep in one of these."

At the Fort Knox armored school, teaching methods are up-to-date, even advanced. The carbine loses much of its mystery when the student can see its mechanism operate through a plastic case. And cutaway sections of tanks make instruction easier and faster.

"They're the best we've got," said Master Sgt. Willard D. Campbell, Corbin, Ky. "A whole bunch can see at one time what we're doing in the turret. We can teach eight men at a time now. On a regular turret we could handle three at the most."

Fort Knox is turning out soldiers who know their jobs and are proud of their skills. They're not impressed by talk about new armor-piercing shells that some people say will make the tank obsolete.

"If these new weapons and ammunition fulfill the predictions of the inventors," Gen. Harrold said, "we may well adapt them to our tanks. That will give us the deadliest weapon of any army in the world. There is every reason to believe that armor will play just as big a role, if not bigger, in a future war as it did in World War II."

Mary Pauline McDermitt Is Entertained By Aunt

Is Fiancee Of C. Murray Allen

Mrs. W. Vincent Martin entertained with a surprise miscellaneous shower and pre-nuptial party in compliment to her niece, Miss Mary Pauline McDermitt, fiancee of C. Murray Allen, last night at her home, Riehl Avenue.

Miss McDermitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. DeSales McDermitt, Mt. Savage, has selected her sister, Mrs. Mary Twigg, Cincinnati, Ohio, to be her matron of honor and only attendant for her marriage October 28. Walter Murray is to serve as Mr. Allen's best man.

The wedding ceremony is to be solemnized in the Cathedral of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary, Baltimore, with Rev. George Hopkins, assistant chancellor, officiating.

A pink and white color scheme was carried out by the hostess in her decorations. The shower gifts were arranged before the fireplace, beneath a shower of pink and white ribbons and tiny umbrellas cascading from a pink and white sprinkling can on the mantle. The same colors were repeated in the candles, tiered shower cake, topped with a miniature sprinkling can and the streamers from the wedding bells attached to the chandelier.

Cards and games featured the entertainment during the evening. Mrs. Samuel Nightengale served punch and Mrs. Edward Harden assisted the hostess in serving.

Guests were members of her class from Allegany Hospital School of Nursing and friends. They included Mrs. Willard Miller, Mrs. Ray Baker, Mrs. John Steiner, Mrs. Alberta Welsh, Mrs. John Ketzner, Miss Catherine Stakem, Mrs. William Nelson, Mrs. John Collins, Mrs. Harold Peck, Mrs. Alonzo Harvey, Mrs. Betty Brannon, Mrs. Cecelia Martin, Miss Dorothy Martin, Mrs. Honor Burkey, Mrs. DeSales McDermitt, Mrs. Anna Marie Williams, Mrs. Reford McKenzie, Mrs. Henry Pfeister, Miss Margaret O'Rourke, Mrs. Robert Sweene, Mrs. Walter Meade, Mrs. James Brannon and Mrs. Robert Madden.

Last week the girls in Osler 5, Research, of Johns Hopkins Hospital, where the bride-elect is on the nursing staff, entertained with a shower and cocktail party at Hampton House. A pink and white color scheme was used. Ten guests attended.

Other parties are scheduled for next week in Baltimore, including a Halloween party.

Md. Baptist To Meet

The 115 session of the Maryland Baptist Union Association will be held in Salisbury October 18, 19, 20.

A program on the theme, "Advancing with Christ," is to be presented. Speakers will be Dr. J. B. Lawrence, executive secretary of the Southern Baptist Home Mission board, Atlanta; Dr. Arnold T. Ohrn, general secretary of the Baptist World Alliance; Dr. J. O. Williams, Sunday School board, Nashville, Tenn.; and Dr. A. S. Gillespie, missionary to China.

Secrets Of Charm

cloche): These make your neck and body seem shorter, and thus fail to be the slimming flattering influence you want.

3. Round, dainty or squatty trims such as rosettes, cockades, loops and insignificant flower clusters. Not only for the reason given in No. 1, but more important, because they simply are not impressive enough to do your type of elegance justice.

What To Look For

Always stick to:

1. Diagonal lines (as in the profile shapes so fashionable right now): The brim that cuts across your face in a long diagonal, foils the roundness of both your face and figure.

2. Asymmetrically placed trims such as wings and the wired ribbon being shown currently. Medium-sized, side or slant-placed trims at a second long line that subtly adds to your height.

3. Veiling: Hides many a tell-tale line.

4. Proportioned size: Be sure your hat is as wide as your hair-do and that your hair-do is softly close to your head.

Queen Of Greece Has Hankering For U. S. Sundae

ATHENS, (INS)—Queen Frederika Luise of Greece said today she thinks an American chocolate sundae is a queen' dish—and she yearns for one.

"I am particularly interested," the queen said, "in visiting New York and Hollywood and tasting your chocolate sundae"

But in the next breath the granddaughter of the late German Kaiser Wilhelm betrayed a confusion over the ingredients which go to make up the American ice cream delicacy.

She would like, the queen said, that her sundae be made with lots of malted milk.

Frederika of Brunswick expressed her yearning for a sundae during an audience granted by King Paul of Greece to 35 touring American newsmen and women and Sen. Edwin C. Johnson of Colorado.

While the King looked on with an amused smile the Americans gave the enthusiastic queen a recipe for a sundae and the Senator attempted to dissuade her from going only to New York and Hollywood by describing glowingly the beauties of Colorado.

Johnson said, "I promise you a personally conducted tour if you come."

Frederika, indicating the King, said, "He's been in America several times but I've never seen it."

Paul said he, too, would like to go to America but added that an official invitation would be necessary. He recalled that his brother, ex-King George, had been invited by the late President Roosevelt.

Ralph Damon, president of Trans World Airline, which arranged the tour, offered the facilities of his line to the royal couple if they should decide to come to America.

The King said, "We shall welcome them with our scanty material means, but with our great spiritual riches. I am confident that upon their return to their adopted countries they will be the bearers of the great Greek ideals, as far as the remotest corners of the globe."

By ED CREAGH

The salty World War II commander, now in a hero's grave, would love the powerful new tanks that bear his name . . . . The fighting spirit that animates the Third Armored Division . . . . The rugged conditioning that tomorrow's soldiers are getting here at the Army's training center for armor.

But the "new army" treatment of GI's? The cushioned chairs in induction centers? The please-and-thank-you politeness of sergeants toward recruits? The spectacle of generals addressing groups of privates as "gentlemen?"

"It is my considered opinion," said an officer who served with Patton in the 1944 smash into Germany, "that old Georgie would blow all four of his stacks."

That's the way it is, though, as the Army flexes its muscles against the danger of World War III:

Today's new soldier trains faster and harder than yesterday's soldier did. But he's treated as a human being and not as a mass of dough to be whipped into shape at whatever cost to his pride and personality.

You may be wondering just what happens to the World War 2½ soldier—since he's just about sure to be someone you know and may even be yourself.

Well, Fort Knox will give you a good idea. It's a roomy place—106,000 acres. Its "temporary" wooden barracks are five years old and are starting to show their age. Its activities range from guarding the bulk of the world's gold supply to teaching cooks how not to make hash.

But chiefly it's a vast plant for turning young civilians into sturdy soldiers who can drive a tank, fire a bazooka and take care of themselves in hand-to-hand combat with a foe who doesn't fight clean.

"Before Korea," said Brig. Gen. Thomas L. Harrold, post commander, "we took 14 weeks to give these young civilians their basic training. Now we cut out the frills and squeeze it into six weeks. That leaves eight weeks for specialized training.

"They get battle conditioning, learn what shell fire sounds like. They are toughened, mentally and physically, for combat. The training is better than before. It's far more real and concrete."

Some recruits wonder about that during the first week—aptitude tests, physical examinations, "shots," lectures, issuing of uniforms, some tedious waiting around for something to happen.

But already the new soldier is learning that the "new Army" is not just a myth: It's no paradise, certainly. But he finds officers courteous, interested in him. He gets a uniform that fits. Believe it or not, he seldom finds cause to graumble about the "chow."

Actual training starts fast and gets faster.

What used to be called an obstacle course is now a "confidence course." Your GI scrambles through ditches, swings across gullies on a rope, grunts over a "belly robber" of horizontal logs, tries to scale a barrier known officially as "the dirty name."

Recruit Lyman Deuel, Worthington, Minn., squirreled twice over the "belly robber" without even breathing hard.

"It's not so tough if you're in good condition," he said.

"Nice going," an officer called. Then, to another recruit who made hard going of it: "Easy there. You don't have to kill yourself. Tomorrow is another day."

Almost before he knows it, yesterday's civilian is at home with a gun in his hand. And not just the M-1 rifle, either. He learns to handle machine guns, tank guns. He learns to creep under barbed wire by night with tracer bullets screaming over his head.

"They like it!" shouted Capt. James W. Hajek over the earth-jarring roar of .50 calibre machine gun fire. "They take to these guns like a duck to water. It's a lot more fun than sitting in a classroom all day."

Hajek, a former New Yorker, headed a machine gun combat company in World War II. He's one of many combat veterans now teaching at Fort Knox. Another, Sgt. Lafe Pool, Kerrville, Texas, already is a legend.

Before he lost a leg, Pool drove Patton's lead tank in 21 major attacks. His guns knocked out 257 enemy tanks and other vehicles, killed more than 1,000 Germans. He told Carroll Walker, Knoxville, Tenn., and a group of other recruits:

"You fellow got a chance to do better than we could. These new tanks—man, they're pretty. You just take hold of that joy stick and go any way you want. Nice? Say, I could rock my baby to sleep in one of these."

At the Fort Knox armored school, teaching methods are up-to-date, even advanced. The carbine loses much of its mystery when the student can see its mechanism operate through a plastic case. And cutaway sections of tanks make instruction easier and faster.

"They're the best we've got," said Master Sgt. Willard D. Campbell, Corbin, Ky. "A whole bunch can see at one time what we're doing in the turret. We can teach eight men at a time now. On a regular turret we could handle three at the most."

Fort Knox is turning out soldiers who know their jobs and are proud of their skills. They're not impressed by talk about new armor-piercing shells that some people say will make the tank obsolete.

"If these new weapons and ammunition fulfill the predictions of the inventors," Gen. Harrold said, "we may well adapt them to our tanks. That will give us the deadliest weapon of any army in the world. There is every reason to believe that armor will play just as big a role, if not bigger, in a future war as it did in World War II."

Mary Pauline McDermitt Is Entertained By Aunt

Is Fiancee Of C. Murray Allen

Mrs. W. Vincent Martin entertained with a surprise miscellaneous shower and pre-nuptial party in compliment to her niece, Miss Mary Pauline McDermitt, fiancee of C. Murray Allen, last night at her home, Riehl Avenue.

Miss McDermitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. DeSales McDermitt, Mt. Savage, has selected her sister, Mrs. Mary Twigg, Cincinnati, Ohio, to be her matron of honor and only attendant for her marriage October 28. Walter Murray is to serve as Mr. Allen's best man.

The wedding ceremony is to be solemnized in the Cathedral of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary, Baltimore, with Rev. George Hopkins, assistant chancellor, officiating.

A pink and white color scheme was carried out by the hostess in her decorations. The shower gifts were arranged before the fireplace, beneath a shower of pink and white ribbons and tiny umbrellas cascading from a pink and white sprinkling can on the mantle. The same colors were repeated in the candles, tiered shower cake, topped with a miniature sprinkling can and the streamers from the wedding bells attached to the chandelier.

Cards and games featured the entertainment during the evening. Mrs. Samuel Nightengale served punch and Mrs. Edward Harden assisted the hostess in serving.

Guests were members of her class from Allegany Hospital School of Nursing and friends. They included Mrs. Willard Miller, Mrs. Ray Baker, Mrs. John Steiner, Mrs. Alberta Welsh, Mrs. John Ketzner, Miss Catherine Stakem, Mrs. William Nelson, Mrs. John Collins, Mrs. Harold Peck, Mrs. Alonzo Harvey, Mrs. Betty Brannon, Mrs. Cecelia Martin, Miss Dorothy Martin, Mrs. Honor Burkey, Mrs. DeSales McDermitt, Mrs. Anna Marie Williams, Mrs. Reford McKenzie, Mrs. Henry Pfeister, Miss Margaret O'Rourke, Mrs. Robert Sweene, Mrs. Walter Meade, Mrs. James Brannon and Mrs. Robert Madden.

Last week the girls in Osler 5, Research, of Johns Hopkins Hospital, where the bride-elect is on the nursing staff, entertained with a shower and cocktail party at Hampton House. A pink and white color scheme was used. Ten guests attended.

Other parties are scheduled for next week in Baltimore, including a Halloween party.

Queen Of Greece Has Hankering For U. S. Sundae

ATHENS, (INS)—Queen Frederika Luise of Greece said today she thinks an American chocolate sundae is a queen' dish—and she yearns for one.

"I am particularly interested," the queen said, "in visiting New York and Hollywood and tasting your chocolate sundae"

But in the next breath the granddaughter of the late German Kaiser Wilhelm betrayed a confusion over the ingredients which go to make up the American ice cream delicacy.

She would like, the queen said, that her sundae be made with lots of malted milk.

Frederika of Brunswick expressed her yearning for a sundae during an audience granted by King Paul of Greece to 35 touring American newsmen and women and Sen. Edwin C. Johnson of Colorado.

While the King looked on with an amused smile the Americans gave the enthusiastic queen a recipe for a sundae and the Senator attempted to dissuade her from going only to New York and Hollywood by describing glowingly the beauties of Colorado.

Johnson said, "I promise you a personally conducted tour if you come."

Frederika, indicating the King, said, "He's been in America several times but I've never seen it."

Paul said he, too, would like to go to America but added that an official invitation would be necessary. He recalled that his brother, ex-King George, had been invited by the late President Roosevelt.

Ralph Damon, president of Trans World Airline, which arranged the tour, offered the facilities of his line to the royal couple if they should decide to come to America.

The King said, "We shall welcome them with our scanty material means, but with our great spiritual riches. I am confident that upon their return to their adopted countries they will be the bearers of the great Greek ideals, as far as the remotest corners of the globe."

By ED CREAGH

The salty World War II commander, now in a hero's grave, would love the powerful new tanks that bear his name .... The fighting spirit that animates the Third Armored Division .... The rugged conditioning that tomorrow's soldiers are getting here at the Army's training center for armor.

But the "new army" treatment of GI's? The cushioned chairs in induction centers? The please-and-thank-you politeness of sergeants toward recruits? The spectacle of generals addressing groups of privates as "gentlemen?"

"It is my considered opinion," said an officer who served with Patton in the 1944 smash into Germany, "that old Georgie would blow all four of his stacks."

That's the way it is, though, as the Army flexes its muscles against the danger of World War III:

Today's new soldier trains faster and harder than yesterday's soldier did. But he's treated as a human being and not as a mass of dough to be whipped into shape at whatever cost to his pride and personality.

You may be wondering just what happens to the World War 2½ soldier—since he's just about sure to be someone you know and may even be yourself.

Well, Fort Knox will give you a good idea. It's a roomy place—106,000 acres. Its "temporary" wooden barracks are five years old and are starting to show their age. Its activities range from guarding the bulk of the world's gold supply to teaching cooks how not to make hash.

But chiefly it's a vast plant for turning young civilians into sturdy soldiers who can drive a tank, fire a bazooka and take care of themselves in hand-to-hand combat with a foe who doesn't fight clean.

"Before Korea," said Brig. Gen. Thomas L. Harrold, post commander, "we took 14 weeks to give these young civilians their basic training. Now we cut out the frills and squeeze it into six weeks. That leaves eight weeks for specialized training.

"They get battle conditioning, learn what shell fire sounds like. They are toughened, mentally and physically, for combat. The training is better than before. It's far more real and concrete."

"It's not so tough if you're in good condition," he said.

"Nice going," an officer called. Then, to another recruit who made hard going of it: "Easy there. You don't have to kill yourself. Tomorrow is another day."

Almost before he knows it, yesterday's civilian is at home with a gun in his hand. And not just the M-1 rifle, either. He learns to handle machine guns, tank guns. He learns to creep under barbed wire by night with tracer bullets screaming over his head.

"They like it!" shouted Capt. James W. Hajek over the earth-jarring roar of .50 calibre machine gun fire. "They take to these guns like a duck to water. It's a lot more fun than sitting in a classroom all day."

Hajek, a former New Yorker, headed a machine gun combat company in World War II. He's one of many combat veterans now teaching at Fort Knox. Another, Sgt. Lafe Pool, Kerrville, Texas, already is a legend.

Before he lost a leg, Pool drove Patton's lead tank in 21 major attacks. His guns knocked out 257 enemy tanks and other vehicles, killed more than 1,000 Germans. He told Carroll Walker, Knoxville, Tenn., and a group of other recruits:

"You fellow got a chance to do better than we could. These new tanks—man, they're pretty. You just take hold of that joy stick and go any way you want. Nice? Say, I could rock my baby to sleep in one of these."

At the Fort Knox armored school, teaching methods are up-to-date, even advanced. The carbine loses much of its mystery when the student can see its mechanism operate through a plastic case. And cutaway sections of tanks make instruction easier and faster.

"They're the best we've got," said Master Sgt. Willard D. Campbell, Corbin, Ky. "A whole bunch can see at one time what we're doing in the turret. We can teach eight men at a time now. On a regular turret we could handle three at the most."

Fort Knox is turning out soldiers who know their jobs and are proud of their skills. They're not impressed by talk about new armor-piercing shells that some people say will make the tank obsolete.

"If these new weapons and ammunition fulfill the predictions of the inventors," Gen. Harrold said, "we may well adapt them to our tanks. That will give us the deadliest weapon of any army in the world. There is every reason to believe that armor will play just as big a role, if not bigger, in a future war as it did in World War II."

Civil Service Tests Set For November

Civil service examinations for the city will be given Tuesday, November 7, at 7 p. m. at Fort Hill High School for policemen, public health nurse, central records clerk in the Police Department and junior stenographers.

Applicants for public health nurse must be over 21 and a registered nurse.

Those taking Police Department records clerk tests must be between 21 and 40 and a graduate of a high school or accredited business school. Male or female applicants are eligible. The position will pay $1,800 per annum.

Applicants for junior stenographer may be either male or female and between 21 and 35. They, too, must be high school graduates or graduates of business schools.

All applicants must have been residents of Cumberland for the past three years.

Fahey Explains Registration Of Physicians

P. Emmett Fahey, clerk-coordinator, clarified the complex orders for the registration of doctors, dentists and veterinarians Monday at draft headquarters here.

On Thursday, Fahey contacted Selective Service officials in Baltimore for an interpretation of the registration and was advised that medical men in the "first two priorities only" will be required to sign up from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. for duty in the armed service.

So, for the initial registration, only physicians, dentists and veterinarians who were educated at the expense of the government during World War II and served less than 21 months in the Armed Forces, and those who were deferred from war service to complete their educations, are compelled to register Monday.

Another registration to be held not later than January 16, 1951, will take in members of the medical profession in the third and fourth priorities.

Men called up in the doctors' draft will serve not more than 21 months under present regulations. Those who volunteer will get a bonus of $100 a month. The draft covers men under 50 years of age. medical men will be classified 1-A —available for immediate induction—unless they establish grounds for deferment in nine other categories:

Class 1-A-O, men with conscientious objection to combat duty; Class 4-E, men with conscientious objection to any military service; Class 1-D, members of the Armed Forces Reserves; Class 2-A, men essential to the maintenance of health in the community; Class 3-A, men whose induction would result in extreme hardships to dependents; Class 4-A, men who are the sole surviving sons of a family which lost one or more children in the Armed Forces; Class 4-F, men not acceptible to the Armed Forces; Class 5-A, men who became 51 years old before induction, and Class 1-C, men on, or entering upon, active duty in the Armed Forces.

Local draft boards will call up medical men from registrants in Class 1-A and Class 1-A-O: with the youingest being selected first." All registrants are given the right to appeal their classifications to Selective Service appeal boards and ultimately to President Truman.

A medical registrant will not be given a medical interview but if the local board has reason to doubt that he is physically or mentally acceptable, it may ask its medical adviser to submit a statement on the man's condition to Col. Henry C. Stanwood, State Selective Service Director.

The Army has requested the drafting of 922 medical doctors, 500 dentists and 100 veterinarians by January 15.

Fort Hill Forms Town Meeting

Grades Ten, Eleven and Twelve of Fort Hill High School have formed under the supervision of the Department of English a Junior Town Meeting League, with the objective of promoting freedom of discussion of current international, national, state, community, school and personal problems.

The National Junior Town Meeting League, of which Fort Hill is an affiliate, is a noncommercial nonpolitical, nonsectarian group organized under the auspices of the Institute for Education by Radio. Every Fort Hill student in grades Ten, Eleven and Twelve is a member of the league and will participate in discussion groups in the public address system and over local radio stations.

In addition to being valuable as a medium for discussion, the league is democratic in operation giving opportunity for student planning, organizing and evaluating. At the recent initial organization meeting, a co-ordinating group met to propose topics submitted by their respective groups; to outline objectives; to plan the program for the year and to elect the following Advisory Council:

President, Lewis Tagliaferre; secretary, Patricia Fox, and Monty Stamp, Sarah Clapp, Rae Coleman, Joan Minke, and Richard Broadwater. Baering Down On The News

Some years ago I said the Germans had inflated currency in 1920 and diplomacy in 1946. That egg has come home to roost. By playing both ends against the middle they will wind up with an army in being.

You remember the story about the two dogs fighting over the bone? The gag is did you ever see the bone do any of the fighting?

• — • — •

It seems to have done a lot of maneuvering this time. The Russians have armed the Eastern Germans against us. Shall we arm the Western Germans against them?

If you give them an army do me a favor. Make 'em wear sponge rubber heels.

Hyde Resigns Trial Court Post

His resignation would become effective October 31.

After James G. Stevenson, clerk to the board, read Hyde's letter of resignation, Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson made a motion recommending Walter A. Johnston, former county auditor, for the position.

No action was taken on the proposal. Only Commissioner Wilkinson and Commissioner James Holmes were at the board meeting today as Commissioner William H. Lemmert is on vacation.

A letter was also received from Clarence D. Valentine, 521 Lowell Avenue, in which he applied for the post now held by Hyde.

Hyde said yesterday that he has accepted a position with the Second National Bank and will assume his new duties after October 31.

Parents' night will be a feature at the Allegany High-Keyser High gridiron clash at Fort Hill's stadium tonight when the once-beaten Campers will endeavor to gain their fourth triumph of the season over Coach Fred Clark's invading Golden Tornado eleven.

All parents of members of the two football teams will be honored during the evening and those attending will be given lapel cards to wear, bearing the name of their son who is playing on the field.

Special efforts will be made to get most of the boys' parents to attend the affair.

Allegany and Keyser have met on the gridiron continuously since 1921 and the Campers have emerged victorious 19 times in 29 games during that span. Two games ended in ties and Keyser won eight.

Coach Bob Pence's Alco eleven suffered its first defeat last week when Hagerstown's Maroon and Gray defeated the locals 12-6. Prior to that loss the Pencemen had won three straight. Keyser has lost four in a row after winning a close decision over an Alumni team in their opener.

Pence said last night that injuries have forced him to make several changes in the Allegany lineup for tonight's contest.

Bernard "Jeep" Spencer, the Alco eleven's top scorer, pulled a leg muscle in practice this week and very likely will not see action in the game, Pence said. He will be replaced at the left halfback slot by Ray Easton.

Two stalwarts of the forward wall also are nursing painful injuries, Pence reported. Pat McKenzie, regular guard, sprained a wrist in the Hagerstown game and is not expected to play while Mike Birmingham, center, turned an ankle in practice and will see only limited service. Dick Widdows, the regular fullback who has missed two games because of a shoulder separation suffered in the Somerset game, will also be out of the lineup. He will be spelled by Bob Anderson. Lance Statler is expected to start in place of McKenzie.

Four local officials will handle the game, Pence announced. They will be John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh, referee, Bill Spangler, umpire, William "Bee" Orndorff, head linesman, and Jim Bolyard, field judge.

Two other frays are on tap on today's football slate. At Keyser the undefeated Potomac State Catamounts will entertain equally undefeated Montgomery Junior College in a 2:30 p. m. clash on Stayman field. The Cats will be seeking their fifth straight win.

Likewise unbeaten West Virginia School for Deaf team will journey to Virginia to battle Virginia School for Deaf eleven. The West Virginians have won two games this season.

King Levinsky Being Sued For Heart Balm

CHICAGO, Oct. 13 (AP) — King Levinsky, 37, retired heavyweight boxer, was named co-defendant today in a $150,000 heart balm suit.

The alienation of affections suit was brought in Superior Court by Mrs. Bessie Phillips 42, former wife of Theodore Phillips, partner of Levinsky in a necktie business.

She alleged she lived happily with her husband from their marriage in September, 1926, until April, 1948, when she said Levinsky and another woman conspired to steal her husband's affections.

The other woman was identified in the suit as Phillips' second wife, Leota, 42. She married him 11 days after his divorce from Bessie July 9, 1950. The first Mrs. Phillips alleged Levinsky tried to persuade his partner to abandon and divorce her.

Stymie Comeback Plans Abandoned

The nine-year-old chestnut stallion, retired last year as the world's greatest money-winning horse, had been brought back to Jamaica this summer to train for a comeback. The action was taken after Citation passed Stymie this year in money earnings.

Stymie has $918,000 in winnings, about $20,000 less than Citation.

Both triumphs came in hard fought games that were won by long field goals.

Bill Robertson, left halfback for Lonaconing's Central eleven pounded in a 50-yeard field goal midway in the second period to account for the lone score in the Central-Flintstone battle.

At Westernport Sonny Kyle's 75-yard boot got by Goalie Biggs who had stepped out to make a save moments earlier and that spelled defeat for Bruce.

Ken Burt, Don McKenzie and Ken Stafford were the best bets for Central while Roland and Miltenberger were outstanding for Flintstone.

At Westernport Kyle, Tim Clark, Don Clark were best for Barton and Skip Foley, Jim Wilkinson and Don Marple tops for Bruce. The lineups:

Schnittker Drafted

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—Dick Schnittker, former Ohio State basketball and football star, is scheduled to go before his local draft board next Monday for a physical examination.

Schnittker, who was classified 1-A several months ago, is one of six rookies training at nearby American University with the Washington Capitols of the National Basketball Association.

For Love & Money

ALTHOUGH 11 major league clubs sought him, Tom Casagrande, 20-year-old southpaw pitcher who starred for Fordham, has been signed by the Phillies for a $40,000 bonus. Casagrande signed with the Phils "because he loves" that club, according to the announcement. The young twirler, who also is a star batter, pitched for Whitinsville, Mass., in the New England league this summer. He won nine and lost two. (International)

ROMNEY, W. Va., Oct. 13 — A three-touchdown rally in the third period turned an otherwise close game into a rout here today as the defending Class B champions Romney Pioneers smashed down University High's gridders from Morgantown to the tune of 32 to 7.

The Pioneers broke the scoring ice early by notching a touchdown in the first period on an 11-yard pass from Bob Petry to Gerald Parker.

The two teams battled evenly then the remainder of the first half, the highlight of the game coming in the closing minutes of the second period when Romney's forward wall turned back a six-inch thrust on fourth down to prevent a University score and take the ball on downs on the six-inch line.

Then in the third quarter the game broke wide open as Roy Whetzel proved the hero. The fleet substitute halfback swept around his own right end and raced 71 yards for the second Romney TD and then moments later intercepted a University pass and romped 80 yards through a broken field for a third touchdown.

The final third quarter score came on a 62-yard pass from Bob Petry to Bill Long. Long scored again in the fourth quarter on another aerial thrown by George Baird, covering 32 yards.

Trailing 32-0 the Morgantown eleven came to life long enough to punch over a six-pointer when Loring cracked off tackle from the one to end a 60 yard march. The lineups:

Win Streaks In Danger In Grid Clashes

Army-Michigan Tilt Headlines Program

By MILO FARNETI

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP)—College football's two longest major unbeaten streaks may go the way of Notre Dame before Saturday's biggest crowds at Yankee Stadium and the Cotton Bowl in Dallas.

Purdue dropped Notre Dame from the undefeated class at 39 last Saturday, and tomorrow Michigan will try to stop Army at 22 and Texas cut off Oklahoma at 23. The Cadets have a couple ties while Oklahoma's is 24 carat—all victories.

The two games will bring together four of the nation's top-ranking elevens: Army No. 1, Oklahoma No. 3, Texas No. 4 and Michigan No. 18 in the Associated Press poll.

Michigan Seeks Revenge

Powerful Michigan, downgraded because of its upset by Michigan State, has an extra incentive in the Yankee Stadium contest before some 67,000 fans. Last year Earl Blaik's Cadets broke the Michigan winning streak at 25.

Texas is aiming for a post-season bowl bid already while Oklahoma is just aiming to keep its victory string going. The Texans are slight favorites.

Two more undefeated teams, Southern Methodist and Oklahoma A & M, will trample the same Cotton Bowl turf Saturday night in a unique day-night doubleheader.

SMU, ranked No. 2 nationally, expects to win on Fred Benners passing and Kyle Rote's running.

Several other top games, some major conference battles, are on the card. Defending champion California plays Southern California in the prime Pacific Coast Conference battle. Lynn Waldorf's boys are favorites against the disappointing Trojans.

Notre Dame attempts to start another streak going at Tulane but this may end in the Ramblers' second defeat. Tulane remembers bitterly last season's pounding and has been pointing a year for this one.

Cornell Has Breather

Cornell, rated with Army as the East's best, takes on easy Harvard. In another eastern headliner Rice, a Southwest Conference favorite, will meet a well-battered Pittsburgh. Penn and Dartmouth also play and Penn rates the nod because it gave California a better game than Dartmouth showed Michigan.

Tennessee and Kentucky, perhaps the best in the south, have breathers. The Vols entertain Chattanooga while the Blue Grass boys meet Cincinnati.

Two battles between title contenders head the Big Ten schedule. Ohio State will match the great Vic Janowicz against Indiana's Lou D'Achille in an offensive battle. Iowa, on the rebound from its loss to Indiana, meets a darkhorse Wisconsin eleven at Iowa City.

At Nashville, Mississippi, conqueror of Tennessee, plays surprising Vanderbilt. Mississippi fullback John Dottley is the 1949 running champion while Vandy's Bill Wade leads the passers and end Bucky Curtis the pass catchers.

Other Games Listed

The others by sections:

EAST—Princeton with Dick Kazmaier is well-favored over hapless Navy. Columbia quarterback Mitch Price is not considered a match for Yale's Ed Senay. Neither is a weak Colgate team expected to bother Sophomore Chuck Maloy, ace Holy Cross passer. Penn State and Syracuse, bruised by Army and Cornell, get together in a tossup.

MIDWEST — Minnesota attempts to rebound from two upsets at Northwestern. Kansas' Charlie Hoag may spring away for another long touchdown run at Iowa State. William & Mary doesn't expect to do well against a chastened Michigan State. Two sad sacks, Missouri and Kansas State, try for their first victory.

SOUTH—Maryland, conqueror of Michigan State, is favored at Georgetown. Mississippi State travels to underdog Georgia, Wake Forest to North Carolina, and Duke to North Carolina State. Mississippi State and Duke lost in upsets last week. Georgia Tech plays at Louisiana State Saturday night.

SOUTHWEST—Texas A & M is favored to rout VMI. Arkansas rates over Baylor, Texas Christians over Texas Tech and Tulsa over Villanova.

FAR WEST—Washington's Don Heinrich and Hugh McElhenny, among the nation's leading passers and runners, try their hand at Oregon State. A PCC favorite, Stanford, welcomes Santa Clara. Nebraska's Boy Reynolds expects to be the difference over Colorado. Wyoming rates over Utah State, Washington State over Montana and Oregon over Idaho.

Pearls Increase Lead In Gem Bowling Loop

The Pearls won two games from the Opals, the Diamonds blanked the Sapphires 3-0 and the Rubies took a pair from Turquoise in Gem Bowling League matches this week. The Pearls lead the league with a 12-3 record.

Leona Freeland led the Pearls with 150-414 while Helen Furstenburg was high for the Opals with 178-463. Other team leaders were Dot Hinkle, Diamonds, 180-450; Midge Fertig, Sapphires, 137-328; Mary Ellen Helm, Rubies, 163-444, and Sally Crabtree, Turquoise, 195-481.

World Series Money Divided Among Players

Winning Yanks Get Shares Of $5,737

CINCINNATI, Oct. 13 (AP) — The players themselves "divivied" up their money to such an extent that their shares from the 1950 world series receipts turned out to be "a little on the low side."

That was the explanation today from Walter Mulbry, secretary of baseball, as it was announced by Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler that the full shares voted by the world champion New York Yankees would amount to $5,737.95 each.

Thirty-two members of the Yankee entourage will receive the full shares. Thirteen others will get partial shares, making a total of 45 to get a cut from the world series money.

Vote 32 Full Shares

Much the same situation exists as to the Philadelphia Phils who dropped four straight games to the Yanks in the world series. The Phils also voted 32 full shares and they amounted to $4,081.34 each. Nine others got lesser amounts.

The possibility still existed, however, that the players might get some more money. There have been requests that they share in the $975,000 paid baseball for the world series television and radio rights.

Mulbry said a decision on that matter will be made later.

The Yankees, as usual, were particularly generous in cutting up their money.

Johnny Hopp, who joined the Yanks too late to be a regular eligible player for the world series, was cut in for $4,403.47. Hopp, acquired from the Pittsburgh Pirates late in the season, finally was made eligible for series play under an agreement with the Phils.

Two latecomers to the Phil roster were made eligible for the series in the same deal. They also shared in the money. They were John Thompson and Johny Mayo, each of whom was voted $1,020.33.

The Phils naturally gave soldier Curt Simmons a full share of the spoils even though he had to leave the club before the season ended for army service.

Other Clubs Share

The other three clubs in the first division of both leagues also shared in the money and their cash was cut up in this manner:

Brooklyn Dodgers, 30 full shares of $1,128.18 each and seven partial shares.

BEDFORD, Pa., Oct. 13—Bedford High's rampaging Bisons smashed past Huntingdon High 33-12 here tonight to chalk up their sixth straight victory and take the lead in the Western Pennsylvania Football Conference.

The Jackets built up a four-touchdown lead in the first three quarters before Ridgeley scored in the last period.

Moorefield took the opening kickoff and drove 79 yards to the first score, climaxed by a 4-yard toss from Merle Barr to Hardy. The Jackets added a second first period tally after taking a Bill Loy punt and driving from midfield in five plays. Baldwin circled end for the final 11 yards.

The Jackets made it 19-0 at halftime by connecting on the long Baldwin to Hardy pass for 79 yards. The Moorefield end took the fullback's 29-yard toss at midfield and raced the remaining 50 yards for the score.

After a Merle Barr pass to Hardy again set up a score on the Ridgeley two, Merle Barr took it over on a quarterback sneak to finish Moorefield's scoring.

Ridgeley marched 79 yards in the fourth quarter for its lone tally, climaxing the drive when Albert Decker raced around right end from the 10 for the TD. A pass covering 17 yards from Decker to Loy sparked the drive.

Two players were injured in the game, Baker of Ridgeley suffering a slight leg injury while Charles Rohrbaugh of Moorefield was knocked unconscious and taken to the local hospital. The lineups:

Rumor Redskins May Move Team To Baltimore

Colts Losing Money President Announces

BALTIMORE, Oct. 13 (AP) — Abe Watner expected to lose money as president of the Baltimore Colts but not so fast.

The principal check-signer for the National Football League team said today he had expected to lose $150,000 to $200,000 "in four or five years while building Baltimore a worthy team."

Now it looks like he'll lose that much in his first season as president, Watner says.

Regardless, he promised "the Colts and I will continue to operate next year."

The Colts are having their worst season in four years of existence on the gridiron and it's beginning to show at the gate. The team lost seven straight exhibition tilts and its first three regular games. The powerful Philadelphia Eagles are due in Sunday.

Attendance for the home opener was 26,627 and it dropped off to 15,201, the lowest in Colt history, the next game.

In connection with a feeling that Baltimore may be on the ropes of pro football, Sports Editor Rodger H. Pippen of the Baltimore News-Post today published the "latest unconfirmed rumor:

"Should the Baltimore Colts ever decide to give up the ghost, George Marshall might move his Washington Redskins here. Stranger things than that have happened.

"It is a fact that the Skins are not doing as well as expected in Washington. In two home games, the Redskins are away under their usual figures. They drew 25,008 for the opener against the Steelers—the poorest opening-day crowd since 1937.

"Last Sunday, the Redskins drew 19,228 against the red-hot Giants. Bad weather, of course, kept last Sunday's attendance down, but it's significant the 'Skins have averaged 22,114 for two home games.

"In contrast with a winless eleven, the Colts have drawn 41,808 for their two games to date in the stadium.

The Fort Hill Sentinels captured the first game in the Intra-City race last night in Fort Hill Stadium by turning back the winless LaSalle Explorers to the tune of 46 to 6.

Halfback Dick Beard scored three touchdowns and kicked four extra points to pace the Sentinels with 22 points and increase his city scoring lead.

The victory was the fifth straight for Coach Bill Hahn's undefeated eleven.

LaSalle's only score came on a scintillating 70-yard pass play from Jim Byrnes to Jim Moran in the third quarter.

Leonard White thrilled the crowd of 3,000 in first half with a 65-yard run to the LaSalle five. White was brought down short of a score by Safetyman Jim Byrnes. It was the longest run of the game.

Fort Hill tallied 11 first downs to five for LaSalle and rolled up 367 yards rushing on the ground to the Explorers' 95.

Fahey Explains Registration Of Physicians

P. Emmett Fahey, clerk-coordinator, clarified the complex orders for the registration of doctors, dentists and veterinarians Monday at draft headquarters here.

On Thursday, Fahey contacted Selective Service officials in Baltimore for an interpretation of the registration and was advised that medical men in the "first two priorities only" will be required to sign up from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. for duty in the armed service.

So, for the initial registration, only physicians, dentists and veterinarians who were educated at the expense of the government during World War II and served less than 21 months in the Armed Forces, and those who were deferred from War service to complete their educations, are compelled to register Monday.

Another registration to be held not later than January 16, 1951, will take in members of the medical profession in the third and fourth priorities.

Men called up in the doctors' draft will serve not more than 21 months under present regulations. Those who volunteer will get a bonus of $100 a month. The draft covers men under 50 years of age. medical men will be classified 1-A—available for immediate induction—unless they establish grounds for deferment in nine other categories:

Class 1-A-O, men with conscientious objection to combat duty; Class 4-E, men with conscientious objection to any military service; Class 1-D, members of the Armed Forces Reserves; Class 2-A, men essential to the maintenance of health in the community; Class 3-A, men whose induction would result in extreme hardships to dependents; Class 4-A, men who are the sole surviving sons of a family which lost one or more children in the Armed Forces; Class 4-F, men not acceptible to the Armed Forces; Class 5-A, men who became 51 years old before induction, and Class 1-C, men on, or entering upon, active duty in the Armed Forces.

Local draft boards will call up medical men from registrants in Class 1-A and Class 1-A-O: with the youingest being selected first." All registrants are given the right to appeal their classifications to Selective Service appeal boards and ultimately to President Truman.

A medical registrant will not be given a medical interview but if the local board has reason to doubt that he is physically or mentally acceptable, it may ask its medical adviser to submit a statement on the man's condition to Col. Henry C. Stanwood, State Selective Service Director.

The Army has requested the drafting of 922 medical doctors, 500 dentists and 100 veterinarians by January 15.

Baering Down On The News

Some years ago I said the Germans had inflated currency in 1920 and diplomacy in 1946. That egg has come home to roost. By playing botn ends against the middle they will wind up with an army in being.

You remember the story about the two dogs fighting over the bone? The gag is did you ever see the bone do any of the fighting?

• — • — •

It seems to have done a lot of maneuvering this time. The Russians have armed the Eastern Germans against us. Shall we arm the Western Germans against them?

If you give them an army do me a favor. Make 'em wear sponge rubber heels.

Hyde Resigns Trial Court Post

His resignation would become effective October 31.

After James G. Stevenson, clerk to the board, read Hyde's letter of resignation, Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson made a motion recommending Walter A. Johnston, former county auditor, for the position.

No action was taken on the proposal. Only Commissioner Wilkinson and Commissioner James Holmes were at the board meeting today as Commissioner William H. Lemmert is on vacation.

A letter was also received from Clarence D. Valentine, 521 Lowell Avenue, in which he applied for the post now held by Hyde.

Hyde said yesterday that he has accepted a position with the Second National Bank and will assume his new duties after October 31.

Hy Winner Of Feature Bowie Event

Scores Half Length Win Over Blue Fedora

BOWIE RACE TRACK, BOWIE, Md., Oct. 13 (AP)—Hy, a game filly owned by Mrs. Helen R. Reightler of Baltimore, outfought Blue Fedora in the stretch to capture the seventh event at Bowie, a six-furlong dash for $4,500 platers which served as feature.

The victor held a half length margin over Blue Fedora at the wire. Some two length farther back came Easy Al. Hy paid $5.20 straight, and was the third straight favorite to score on the program, witnessed by 5,481 fans.

Blue Fedora sprinted into command down the backstretch and tried to draw away. Hy, however, rallied sharply on the bend and was alongside the pacesetter three-sixteenths of a mile from the finish. Apprentice Doyle Gardner applied the whip in the last furlong to get Hy to pass Blue Fedora.

100 To 1 Shot Wins

SALEM, N. H., Oct. 13 (AP)—T. L. Graham's Duke Boswell, a one hundred to one shot in the betting, scored a length victory in a secondary feature at Rockingham Park today and paid $226.20, $72.40 and $12.40.

Second in this six furlong test for maiden two year olds was Mrs. Joseph Kelley's hard charging Norcal which had a neck on R. W. Collins' Miss Margo. Norcal paid $5.60 and $3.20 and Miss Margo $2.40.

Duke Boswell ran the heavy three panels in 1:16 2-5.

The 5,253 patrons also saw Mrs Sam Orr's U. S. Bound win the principal event of the all claiming card by a length and a half over C. O. Ferguson's Jobie. Edward Dibe's Hamanasa was third in this three quarters of a mile race, a length back of Jobie.

U. S. Bound's time in the three quarter mile event was 1:14, despite the heavy footing. U. S. Bound paid $6.40, $4.20 and $3.00, Jobie $7.00 and $4.20 and Hamanasa $3.40.

Roman Bath Cops

CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 13 (AP)—John Marsch's Roman Bath made his first eastern start a winning one today at Garden State Park when he accounted for the featured Raritan Purse by a length and a quarter. Play Toy, flying the silks of J. L. McKnight, was second, a neck before the fast charging Woodford Sir.

American Glory took the lead at the outset, with Play Toy in closest pursuit. Jockey Ken Church, who rode the winner, had the son of Roman a bang-up third.

There was no change in this order until the field turned for home when Church turned Roman Bath loose. He came on willingly, taking the lead with ease and holding it throughout the stretch charge.

Mirabeau Scores

JAMAICA, L. I., Oct. 13 (AP)—Mirabeau, owned by Duke Montour, blacksmith for Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, was the surprise winner of the Valley Stream Classified handicap at six furlongs here today.

The 4-year-old son of Blenheim 2nd-Sun Dancer, seventh at the top of the stretch, closed with a rush under Hedney Woodhouse to win by three quarters of a length over the pace-setting Mangohick. A neck back came the favored Algasir.

Longest price on the board in the 10-horse race, Mirabeau returned mutuels of $107.20, $32.00 and $10.50. Mangohick was $6.40 to place and $4.70 to show. Algasir paid $3.10 to show.

Clarence McKenzie Takes Pen-Mar Loop Batting Title

McKenzie just nosed out Brady of Zihlman who smashed out 40 hits in 87 appearances at the platter for a terrific .459 average. One other player. Norris of Keyser Ridge, belted the ball for a .429 clip.

Others in the top ten hitting bracket were Leydig, Ellerslie, .396; Jackson, Keyser Ridge, .392; Kennell, Wellersburg, .375; LaRue, Ellerslie, .370; Yates, Klondyke, .360; Lease, Wellersburg, .358; and Buckingham, Klondyke, 355.

Houtteman Seeks "Joe Doakes" Deal In Army Uniform

DETROIT, Oct. 13 (AP)—Young Art Houtteman, baseball's first name player to be drafted since outbreak of the Korean war, went into the army today with the comment that he wanted to be rated as "just Joe Doakes."

The handsome 23-year-old hurler of the Detroit Tigers, back from a honeymoon less than two days, told reporters he didn't like all the publicity he was getting.

"I don't want to go into this as a baseball star and a celebrity," Houtteman said. "I want to be just Joe Doakes."

Parents' night will be a feature at the Allegany High-Keyser High gridiron clash at Fort Hill's stadium tonight when the once-beaten Campers will endeavor to gain their fourth triumph of the season over Coach Fred Clark's invading Golden Tornado eleven.

All parents of members of the two football teams will be honored during the evening and those attending will be given lapel cards to wear, bearing the name of their son who is playing on the field.

Special efforts will be made to get most of the boys' parents to attend the affair.

Allegany and Keyser have met on the gridiron continuously since 1921 and the Campers have emerged victorious 19 times in 29 games during that span. Two games ended in ties and Keyser won eight.

Coach Bob Pence's Alco eleven suffered its first defeat last week when Hagerstown's Maroon and Gray defeated the locals 12-6. Prior to that loss the Pencemen had won three straight. Keyser has lost four in a row after winning a close decision over an Alumni team in their opener.

Pence said last night that injuries have forced him to make several changes in the Allegany lineup for tonight's contest.

Bernard "Jeep" Spencer, the Alco eleven's top scorer, pulled a leg muscle in practice this week and very likely will not see action in the game, Pence said. He will be replaced at the left halfback slot by Ray Easton.

Two stalwarts of the forward wall also are nursing painful injuries, Pence reported. Pat McKenzie, regular guard, sprained a wrist in the Hagerstown game and is not expected to play while Mike Birmingham, center, turned an ankle in practice and will see only limited service. Dick Widdows, the regular fullback who has missed two games because of a shoulder separation suffered in the Somerset game, will also be out of the lineup. He will be spelled by Bob Anderson. Lance Statler is expected to start in place of McKenzie.

Four local officials will handle the game, Pence announced. They will be John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh, referee, Bill Spangler, umpire, William "Bee" Orndorff, head linesman, and Jim Bolyard, field judge.

Two other frays are on tap on today's football slate. At Keyser the undefeated Potomac State Catamounts will entertain equally undefeated Montgomery Junior College in a 2:30 p. m. clash on Stayman field. The Cats will be seeking their fifth straight win.

Likewise unbeaten West Virginia School for Deaf team will journey to Virginia to battle Virginia School for Deaf eleven. The West Virginians have won two games this season.

King Levinsky Being Sued For Heart Balm

CHICAGO, Oct. 13 (AP) — King Levinsky, 37, retired heavyweight boxer, was named co-defendant today in a $150,000 heart balm suit.

The alienation of affections suit was brought in Superior Court by Mrs. Bessie Phillips 42, former wife of Theodore Phillips, partner of Levinsky in a necktie business.

She alleged she lived happily with her husband from their marriage in September, 1926, until April, 1948, when she said Levinsky and another woman conspired to steal her husband's affections.

The other woman was identified in the suit as Phillips' second wife, Leota, 42. She married him 11 days after his divorce from Bessie July 3, 1950. The first Mrs. Phillips alleged Levinsky tried to persuade his partner to abandon and divorce her.

Stymie Comeback Plans Abandoned

The nine-year-old chestnut stallion, retired last year as the world's greatest money-winning horse, had been brought back to Jamaica this summer to train for a comeback. The action was taken after Citation passed Stymie this year in money earnings.

Stymie has $918,000 in winnings, about $20,000 less than Citation.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—Dick Schnittker, former Ohio State basketball and football star, is scheduled to go before his local draft board next Monday for a physical examination.

Schnittker, who was classified 1-A several months ago, is one of six rookies training at nearby American University with the Washington Capitols of the National Basketball Association.

For Love & Money

ALTHOUGH 11 major league clubs sought him, Tom Casagrande, 20-year-old southpaw pitcher who starred for Fordham, has been signed by the Phillies for a $40,000 bonus. Casagrande signed with the Phils "because he loves" that club, according to the announcement. The young twirler, who also is a star batter, pitched for Whitinsville, Mass., in the New England league this summer. He won nine and lost two. (International)

ROMNEY, W. Va., Oct. 13 — A three-touchdown rally in the third period turned an otherwise close game into a rout here today as the defending Class B champions Romney Pioneers smashed down University High's gridders from Morgantown to the tune of 32 to 7.

The Pioneers broke the scoring ice early by notching a touchdown in the first period on an 11-yard pass from Bob Petry to Gerald Parker.

The two teams battled evenly then the remainder of the first half, the highlight of the game coming in the closing minutes of the second period when Romney's forward wall turned back a six-inch thrust on fourth down to prevent a University score and take the ball on downs on the six-inch line.

Then in the third quarter the game broke wide open as Roy Whetzel proved the hero. The fleet substitute halfback swept around his own right end and raced 71 yards for the second Romney TD and then moments later intercepted a University pass and romped 80 yards through a broken field for a third touchdown.

The final third quarter score came on a 62-yard pass from Bob Petry to Bill Long. Long scored again in the fourth quarter on another aerial thrown by George Baird, covering 32 yards.

Trailing 32-0 the Morgantown eleven came to life long enough to punch over a six-pointer when Loring cracked off tackle from the one to end a 60 yard march. The lineups:

Win Streaks In Danger In Grid Clashes

Army-Michigan Tilt Headlines Program

By MILO FARNETI

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP)—College football's two longest major unbeaten streaks may go the way of Notre Dame before Saturday's biggest crowds at Yankee Stadium and the Cotton Bowl in Dallas.

Purdue dropped Notre Dame from the undefeated class at 39 last Saturday, and tomorrow Michigan will try to stop Army at 22 and Texas cut off Oklahoma at 23. The Cadets have a couple ties while Oklahoma's is 24 carat—all victories.

The two games will bring together four of the nation's top-ranking elevens: Army No. 1, Oklahoma No. 3, Texas No. 4 and Michigan No. 18 in the Associated Press poll.

Michigan Seeks Revenge

Powerful Michigan, downgraded because of its upset by Michigan State, has an extra incentive in the Yankee Stadium contest before some 67,000 fans. Last year Earl Blaik's Cadets broke the Michigan winning streak at 25.

Texas is aiming for a post-season bowl bid already while Oklahoma is just aiming to keep its victory string going. The Texans are slight favorites.

Two more undefeated teams, Southern Methodist and Oklahoma A & M, will trample the same Cotton Bowl turf Saturday night in a unique day-night doubleheader.

SMU, ranked No. 2 nationally, expects to win on Fred Benners passing and Kyle Rote's running.

Several other top games, some major conference battles, are on the card. Defending champion California plays Southern California in the prime Pacific Coast Conference battle. Lynn Waldorf's boys are favorites against the disappointing Trojans.

Notre Dame attempts to start another streak going at Tulane but this may end in the Ramblers' second defeat. Tulane remembers bitterly last season's pounding and has been pointing a year for this one.

Cornell Has Breather

Cornell, rated with Army as the East's best, takes on easy Harvard. In another eastern headliner Rice, a Southwest Conference favorite, will meet a well-battered Pittsburgh. Penn and Dartmouth also play and Penn rates the nod because it gave California a better game than Dartmouth showed Michigan.

Tennessee and Kentucky, perhaps the best in the south, have breathers. The Vols entertain Chattanooga while the Blue Grass boys meet Cincinnati.

Two battles between title contenders head the Big Ten schedule. Ohio State will match the great Vic Janowicz against Indiana's Lou D'Achille in an offensive battle. Iowa, on the rebound from its loss to Indiana, meets a darkhorse Wisconsin eleven at Iowa City.

At Nashville, Mississippi, conqueror of Tennessee, plays surprising Vanderbilt. Mississippi fullback John Dottley is the 1949 running champion while Vandy's Bill Wade leads the passers and end Bucky Curtis the pass catchers.

Other Games Listed

The others by sections:

EAST—Princeton with Dick Kazmaier is well-favored over hapless Navy. Columbia quarterback Mitch Price is not considered a match for Yale's Ed Senay. Neither is a weak Colgate team expected to bother Sophomore Chuck Maloy, ace Holy Cross passer. Penn State and Syracuse, bruised by Army and Cornell, get together in a tossup.

MIDWEST — Minnesota attempts to rebound from two upsets at Northwestern. Kansas' Charlie Hoag may spring away for another long touchdown run at Iowa State. William & Mary doesn't expect to do well against a chastened Michigan State. Two sad sacks, Missouri and Kansas State, try for their first victory.

SOUTH—Maryland, conqueror of Michigan State, is favored at Georgetown. Mississippi State travels to underdog Georgia, Wake Forest to North Carolina, and Duke to North Carolina State. Mississippi State and Duke lost in upsets last week. Georgia Tech plays at Louisiana State Saturday night.

SOUTHWEST—Texas A & M is favored to rout VMI. Arkansas rates over Baylor, Texas Christians over Texas Tech and Tulsa over Villanova.

FAR WEST—Washington's Don Heinrich and Hugh McElhenny, among the nation's leading passers and runners, try their hand at Oregon State. A PCC favorite, Stanford, welcomes Santa Clara. Nebraska's Boy Reynolds expects to be the difference over Colorado. Wyoming rates over Utah State, Washington State over Montana and Oregon over Idaho.

Pearls Increase Lead In Gem Bowling Loop

The Pearls won two games from the Opals, the Diamonds blanked the Sapphires 3-0 and the Rubies took a pair from Turquoise in Gem Bowling League matches this week. The Pearls lead the league with a 12-3 record.

Leona Freeland led the Pearls with 150-414 while Helen Furstenburg was high for the Opals with 178-463. Other team leaders were Dot Hinkle, Diamonds, 180-450; Midge Fertig, Sapphires, 137-328; Mary Ellen Helm, Rubies, 163-444, and Sally Crabtree, Turquoise, 195-481.

World Series Money Divided Among Players

Winning Yanks Get Shares Of $5,737

CINCINNATI, Oct. 13 (AP) — The players themselves "divivied" up their money to such an extent that their shares from the 1950 world series receipts turned out to be "a little on the low side."

That was the explanation today from Walter Mulbry, secretary of baseball, as it was announced by Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler that the full shares voted by the world champion New York Yankees would amount to $5,737.95 each.

Thirty-two members of the Yankee entourage will receive the full shares. Thirteen others will get partial shares, making a total of 45 to get a cut from the world series money.

Vote 32 Full Shares

Much the same situation exists as to the Philadelphia Phils who dropped four straight games to the Yanks in the world series. The Phils also voted 32 full shares and they amounted to $4,081.34 each. Nine others got lesser amounts.

The possibility still existed, however, that the players might get some more money. There have been requests that they share in the $975,000 paid baseball for the world series television and radio rights.

Mulbry said a decision on that matter will be made later.

Johnny Hopp, who joined the Yanks too late to be a regular eligible player for the world series, was cut in for $4,403.47. Hopp, acquired from the Pittsburgh Pirates late in the season, finally was made eligible for series play under an agreement with the Phils.

Two latecomers to the Phil roster were made eligible for the series in the same deal. They also shared in the money. They were John Thompson and Johny Mayo, each of whom was voted $1,020.33.

The Phils naturally gave soldier Curt Simmons a full share of the spoils even though he had to leave the club before the season ended for army service.

Other Clubs Share

The other three clubs in the first division of both leagues also shared in the money and their cash was cut up in this manner:

Brooklyn Dodgers, 30 full shares of $1,128.18 each and seven partial shares.

Bedford Smashes Huntingdon 33-12

BEDFORD, Pa., Oct. 13—Bedford High's rampaging Bisons smashed past Huntingdon High 33-12 here tonight to chalk up their sixth straight victory and take the lead in the Western Pennsylvania Football Conference.

Bedford came roaring back, sparked by Salathe who scored twice on end runs of 18 and 12 yards and passed to another score when he hit Rouzer in the end zone from the 12 yard line.

The Jackets built up a four-touchdown lead in the first three quarters before Ridgeley scored in the last period.

Moorefield took the opening kickoff and drove 79 yards to the first score, climaxed by a 4-yard toss from Merle Barr to Hardy. The Jackets added a second first period tally after taking a Bill Loy punt and driving from midfield in five plays. Baldwin circled end for the final 11 yards.

The Jackets made it 19-0 at halftime by connecting on the long Baldwin to Hardy pass for 79 yards. The Moorefield end took the fullback's 29-yard toss at midfield and raced the remaining 50 yards for the score.

After a Merle Barr pass to Hardy again set up a score on the Ridgeley two, Merle Barr took it over on a quarterback sneak to finish Moorefield's scoring.

Ridgeley marched 79 yards in the fourth quarter for its lone tally, climaxing the drive when Albert Decker raced around right end from the 10 for the TD. A pass covering 17 yards from Decker to Loy sparked the drive.

Two players were injured in the game, Baker of Ridgeley suffering a slight leg injury while Charles Rohrbaugh of Moorefield was knocked unconscious and taken to the local hospital. The lineups:

Rumor Redskins May Move Team To Baltimore

Colts Losing Money President Announces

BALTIMORE, Oct. 13 (AP) — Abe Watner expected to lose money as president of the Baltimore Colts but not so fast.

The principal check-signer for the National Football League team said today he had expected to lose $150,000 to $200,000 "in four or five years while building Baltimore a worthy team."

Now it looks like he'll lose that much in his first season as president, Watner says.

Regardless, he promised "the Colts and I will continue to operate next year."

The Colts are having their worst season in four years of existence on the gridiron and it's beginning to show at the gate. The team lost seven straight exhibition tilts and its first three regular games. The powerful Philadelphia Eagles are due in Sunday.

Attendance for the home opener was 26,627 and it dropped off to 15,201, the lowest in Colt history, the next game.

In connection with a feeling that Baltimore may be on the ropes of pro football, Sports Editor Rodger H. Pippen of the Baltimore News-Post today published the "latest unconfirmed rumor:

"Should the Baltimore Colts ever decide to give up the ghost, George Marshall might move his Washington Redskins here. Stranger things than that have happened.

"It is a fact that the Skins are not doing as well as expected in Washington. In two home games, the Redskins are away under their usual figures. They drew 25,008 for the opener against the Steelers—the poorest opening-day crowd since 1937.

"Last Sunday, the Redskins drew 19,228 against the red-hot Giants. Bad weather, of course, kept last Sunday's attendance down, but it's significant the 'Skins have averaged 22,114 for two home games.

"In contrast with a winless eleven, the Colts have drawn 41,808 for their two games to date in the stadium.

Fahey Explains Registration Of Physicians

P. Emmett Fahey, clerk-coordinator, clarified the complex orders for the registration of doctors, dentists and veterinarians Monday at draft headquarters here.

On Thursday, Fahey contacted Selective Service officials in Baltimore for an interpretation of the registration and was advised that medical men in the "first two priorities only" will be required to sign up from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. for duty in the armed service.

So, for the initial registration, only physicians, dentists and veterinarians who were educated at the expense of the government during World War II and served less than 21 months in the Armed Forces, and those who were deferred from war service to complete their educations, are compelled to register Monday.

Another registration to be held not later than January 16, 1951, will take in members of the medical profession in the third and fourth priorities.

Men called up in the doctors' draft will serve not more than 21 months under present regulations. Those who volunteer will get a bonus of $100 a month. The draft covers men under 50 years of age. medical men will be classified 1-A—available for immediate induction—unless they establish grounds for deferment in nine other categories:

Class 1-A-O, men with conscientious objection to combat duty; Class 4-E, men with conscientious objection to any military service; Class 1-D, members of the Armed Forces Reserves; Class 2-A, men essential to the maintenance of health in the community; Class 3-A, men whose induction would result in extreme hardships to dependents; Class 4-A, men who are the sole surviving sons of a family which lost one or more children in the Armed Forces; Class 4-F, men not acceptible to the Armed Forces; Class 5-A, men who became 51 years old before induction, and Class 1-C, men on, or entering upon, active duty in the Armed Forces.

Local draft boards will call up medical men from registrants in Class 1-A and Class 1-A-O: with the youingest being selected first." All registrants are given the right to appeal their classifications to Selective Service appeal boards and ultimately to President Truman.

A medical registrant will not be given a medical interview but if the local board has reason to doubt that he is physically or mentally acceptable, it may ask its medical adviser to submit a statement on the man's condition to Col. Henry C. Stanwood, State Selective Service Director.

The Army has requested the drafting of 922 medical doctors, 500 dentists and 100 veterinarians by January 15.

Hy Winner Of Feature Bowie Event

Scores Half Length Win Over Blue Fedora

BOWIE RACE TRACK, BOWIE, Md., Oct. 13 (AP)—Hy, a game filly owned by Mrs. Helen R. Reightler of Baltimore, outfought Blue Fedora in the stretch to capture the seventh event at Bowie, a six-furlong dash for $4,500 platers which served as feature.

The victor held a half length margin over Blue Fedora at the wire. Some two length farther back came Easy Al. Hy paid $5.20 straight, and was the third straight favorite to score on the program, witnessed by 5,481 fans.

Blue Fedora sprinted into command down the backstretch and tried to draw away. Hy, however, rallied sharply on the bend and was alongside the pacesetter three-sixteenths of a mile from the finish. Apprentice Doyle Gardner applied the whip in the last furlong to get Hy to pass Blue Fedora.

100 To 1 Shot Wins

SALEM, N. H., Oct. 13 (AP)—T. L. Graham's Duke Boswell, a one hundred to one shot in the betting, scored a length victory in a secondary feature at Rockingham Park today and paid $226.20, $72.40 and $12.40.

Second in this six furlong test for maiden two year olds was Mrs. Joseph Kelley's hard charging Norcal which had a neck on R. W. Collins' Miss Margo. Norcal paid $5.60 and $3.20 and Miss Margo $2.40.

Duke Boswell ran the heavy three panels in 1:16 2-5.

The 5,253 patrons also saw Mrs Sam Orr's U. S. Bound win the principal event of the all claiming card by a length and a half over C. O. Ferguson's Jobie. Edward Dibe's Hamanasa was third in this three quarters of a mile race, a length back of Jobie.

U. S. Bound's time in the three quarter mile event was 1:14, despite the heavy footing. U. S. Bound paid $6.40, $4.20 and $3.00, Jobie $7.00 and $4.20 and Hamanasa $3.40.

Roman Bath Cops

CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 13 (AP)—John Marsch's Roman Bath made his first eastern start a winning one today at Garden State Park when he accounted for the featured Raritan Purse by a length and a quarter. Play Toy, flying the silks of J. L. McKnight, was second, a neck before the fast charging Woodford Sir.

American Glory took the lead at the outset, with Play Toy in closest pursuit. Jockey Ken Church, who rode the winner, had the son of Roman a bang-up third.

There was no change in this order until the field turned for home when Church turned Roman Bath loose. He came on willingly, taking the lead with ease and holding it throughout the stretch charge.

Mirabeau Scores

JAMAICA, L. I., Oct. 13 (AP)—Mirabeau, owned by Duke Montour, blacksmith for Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, was the surprise winner of the Valley Stream Classified handicap at six furlongs here today.

The 4-year-old son of Blenheim 2nd-Sun Dancer, seventh at the top of the stretch, closed with a rush under Hedney Woodhouse to win by three quarters of a length over the pace-setting Mangohick. A neck back came the favored Algasir.

Longest price on the board in the 10-horse race, Mirabeau returned mutuels of $107.20, $32.00 and $10.50. Mangohick was $6.40 to place and $4.70 to show. Algasir paid $3.10 to show.

Clarence McKenzie Takes Pen-Mar Loop Batting Title

Keyser Ridge Third Sacker Hits .460

McKenzie just nosed out Brady of Zihlman who smashed out 40 hits in 87 appearances at the platter for a terrific .459 average. One other player. Norris of Keyser Ridge, belted the ball for a .429 clip.

Others in the top ten hitting bracket were Leydig, Ellerslie, .396; Jackson, Keyser Ridge, .392; Kennell, Wellersburg, .375; LaRue, Ellerslie, .370; Yates, Klondyke, .360; Lease, Wellersburg, .358; and Buckingham, Klondyke, 355.

Merl Jackson of Keyser Ridge collected the most two-base hits with 17, while McKenzie and George Wolfe of Ellerslie had five triples and Charles Muletz, Eckhart, four homeruns. Richard Evans of Zihlman stole the most bases, 35 and McKenzie and Jackson each batted in 29 runs. The team batting averages follow:

Houtteman Seeks "Joe Doakes" Deal In Army Uniform

DETROIT, Oct. 13 (AP)—Young Art Houtteman, baseball's first name player to be drafted since outbreak of the Korean war, went into the army today with the comment that he wanted to be rated as "just Joe Doakes."

The handsome 23-year-old hurler of the Detroit Tigers, back from a honeymoon less than two days, told reporters he didn't like all the publicity he was getting.

"I don't want to go into this as a baseball star and a celebrity," Houtteman said. "I want to be just Joe Doakes."

Parents' night will be a feature at the Allegany High-Keyser High gridiron clash at Fort Hill's stadium tonight when the once-beaten Campers will endeavor to gain their fourth triumph of the season over Coach Fred Clark's invading Golden Tornado eleven.

All parents of members of the two football teams will be honored during the evening and those attending will be given lapel cards to wear, bearing the name of their son who is playing on the field.

Special efforts will be made to get most of the boys' parents to attend the affair.

Allegany and Keyser have met on the gridiron continuously since 1921 and the Campers have emerged victorious 19 times in 29 games during that span. Two games ended in ties and Keyser won eight.

Coach Bob Pence's Alco eleven suffered its first defeat last week when Hagerstown's Maroon and Gray defeated the locals 12-6. Prior to that loss the Pencemen had won three straight. Keyser has lost four in a row after winning a close decision over an Alumni team in their opener.

Pence said last night that injuries have forced him to make several changes in the Allegany lineup for tonight's contest.

Bernard "Jeep" Spencer, the Alco eleven's top scorer, pulled a leg muscle in practice this week and very likely will not see action in the game, Pence said. He will be replaced at the left halfback slot by Ray Easton.

Two stalwarts of the forward wall also are nursing painful injuries, Pence reported. Pat McKenzie, regular guard, sprained a wrist in the Hagerstown game and is not expected to play while Mike Birmingham, center, turned an ankle in practice and will see only limited service. Dick Widdows, the regular fullback who has missed two games because of a shoulder separation suffered in the Somerset game, will also be out of the lineup. He will be spelled by Bob Anderson. Lance Statler is expected to start in place of McKenzie.

Four local officials will handle the game, Pence announced. They will be John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh, referee, Bill Spangler, umpire, William "Bee" Orndorff, head linesman, and Jim Bolyard, field judge.

Two other frays are on tap on today's football slate. At Keyser the undefeated Potomac State Catamounts will entertain equally undefeated Montgomery Junior College in a 2:30 p. m. clash on Stayman field. The Cats will be seeking their fifth straight win.

Likewise unbeaten West Virginia School for Deaf team will journey to Virginia to battle Virginia School for Deaf eleven. The West Virginians have won two games this season.

King Levinsky Being Sued For Heart Balm

CHICAGO, Oct. 13 (AP) — King Levinsky, 37, retired heavyweight boxer, was named co-defendant today in a $150,000 heart balm suit.

The alienation of affections suit was brought in Superior Court by Mrs. Bessie Phillips 42, former wife of Theodore Phillips, partner of Levinsky in a necktie business.

She alleged she lived happily with her husband from their marriage in September, 1926, until April, 1948, when she said Levinsky and another woman conspired to steal her husband's affections.

The other woman was identified in the suit as Phillips' second wife, Leota, 42. She married him 11 days after his divorce from Bessie July 3, 1950. The first Mrs. Phillips alleged Levinsky tried to persuade his partner to abandon and divorce her.

Stymie Comeback Plans Abandoned

The nine-year-old chestnut stallion, retired last year as the world's greatest money-winning horse, had been brought back to Jamaica this summer to train for a comeback. The action was taken after Citation passed Stymie this year in money earnings.

Stymie has $918,000 in winnings, about $20,000 less than Citation.

Schnittker Drafted

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—Dick Schnittker, former Ohio State basketball and football star, is scheduled to go before his local draft board next Monday for a physical examination.

Schnittker, who was classified 1-A several months ago, is one of six rookies training at nearby American University with the Washington Capitols of the National Basketball Association.

For Love & Money

ALTHOUGH 11 major league clubs sought him, Tom Casagrande, 20-year-old southpaw pitcher who starred for Fordham, has been signed by the Phillies for a $40,000 bonus. Casagrande signed with the Phils "because he loves" that club, according to the announcement. The young twirler, who also is a star batter, pitched for Whitinsville, Mass., in the New England league this summer. He won nine and lost two. (International)

ROMNEY, W. Va., Oct. 13 — A three-touchdown rally in the third period turned an otherwise close game into a rout here today as the defending Class B champions Romney Pioneers smashed down University High's gridders from Morgantown to the tune of 32 to 7.

The Pioneers broke the scoring ice early by notching a touchdown in the first period on an 11-yard pass from Bob Petry to Gerald Parker.

The two teams battled evenly then the remainder of the first half, the highlight of the game coming in the closing minutes of the second period when Romney's forward wall turned back a six-inch thrust on fourth down to prevent a University score and take the ball on downs on the six-inch line.

Then in the third quarter the game broke wide open as Roy Whetzel proved the hero. The fleet substitute halfback swept around his own right end and raced 71 yards for the second Romney TD and then moments later intercepted a University pass and romped 80 yards through a broken field for a third touchdown.

The final third quarter score came on a 62-yard pass from Bob Petry to Bill Long. Long scored again in the fourth quarter on another aerial thrown by George Baird, covering 32 yards.

Trailing 32-0 the Morgantown eleven came to life long enough to punch over a six-pointer when Loring cracked off tackle from the one to end a 60 yard march. The lineups:

Win Streaks In Danger In Grid Clashes

Army-Michigan Tilt Headlines Program

By MILO FARNETI

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP)—College football's two longest major unbeaten streaks may go the way of Notre Dame before Saturday's biggest crowds at Yankee Stadium and the Cotton Bowl in Dallas.

Purdue dropped Notre Dame from the undefeated class at 39 last Saturday, and tomorrow Michigan will try to stop Army at 22 and Texas cut off Oklahoma at 23. The Cadets have a couple ties while Oklahoma's is 24 carat—all victories.

The two games will bring together four of the nation's top-ranking elevens: Army No. 1, Oklahoma No. 3, Texas No. 4 and Michigan No. 18 in the Associated Press poll.

Michigan Seeks Revenge

Powerful Michigan, downgraded because of its upset by Michigan State, has an extra incentive in the Yankee Stadium contest before some 67,000 fans. Last year Earl Blaik's Cadets broke the Michigan winning streak at 25.

Texas is aiming for a post-season bowl bid already while Oklahoma is just aiming to keep its victory string going. The Texans are slight favorites.

Two more undefeated teams, Southern Methodist and Oklahoma A & M, will trample the same Cotton Bowl turf Saturday night in a unique day-night doubleheader.

SMU, ranked No. 2 nationally, expects to win on Fred Benners passing and Kyle Rote's running.

Several other top games, some major conference battles, are on the card. Defending champion California plays Southern California in the prime Pacific Coast Conference battle. Lynn Waldorf's boys are favorites against the disappointing Trojans.

Notre Dame attempts to start another streak going at Tulane but this may end in the Ramblers' second defeat. Tulane remembers bitterly last season's pounding and has been pointing a year for this one.

Cornell Has Breather

Cornell, rated with Army as the East's best, takes on easy Harvard. In another eastern headliner Rice, a Southwest Conference favorite, will meet a well-battered Pittsburgh. Penn and Dartmouth also play and Penn rates the nod because it gave California a better game than Dartmouth showed Michigan.

Tennessee and Kentucky, perhaps the best in the south, have breathers. The Vols entertain Chattanooga while the Blue Grass boys meet Cincinnati.

Two battles between title contenders head the Big Ten schedule. Ohio State will match the great Vic Janowicz against Indiana's Lou D'Achille in an offensive battle. Iowa, on the rebound from its loss to Indiana, meets a darkhorse Wisconsin eleven at Iowa City.

At Nashville, Mississippi, conqueror of Tennessee, plays surprising Vanderbilt. Mississippi fullback John Dottley is the 1949 running champion while Vandy's Bill Wade leads the passers and end Bucky Curtis the pass catchers.

Other Games Listed

The others by sections:

EAST—Princeton with Dick Kazmaier is well-favored over hapless Navy. Columbia quarterback Mitch Price is not considered a match for Yale's Ed Senay. Neither is a weak Colgate team expected to bother Sophomore Chuck Maloy, ace Holy Cross passer. Penn State and Syracuse, bruised by Army and Cornell, get together in a tossup.

MIDWEST — Minnesota attempts to rebound from two upsets at Northwestern. Kansas' Charlie Hoag may spring away for another long touchdown run at Iowa State. William & Mary doesn't expect to do well against a chastened Michigan State. Two sad sacks, Missouri and Kansas State, try for their first victory.

SOUTH—Maryland, conqueror of Michigan State, is favored at Georgetown. Mississippi State travels to underdog Georgia, Wake Forest to North Carolina, and Duke to North Carolina State. Mississippi State and Duke lost in upsets last week. Georgia Tech plays at Louisiana State Saturday night.

SOUTHWEST—Texas A & M is favored to rout VMI. Arkansas rates over Baylor, Texas Christians over Texas Tech and Tulsa over Villanova.

FAR WEST—Washington's Don Heinrich and Hugh McElhenny, among the nation's leading passers and runners, try their hand at Oregon State. A PCC favorite, Stanford, welcomes Santa Clara. Nebraska's Boy Reynolds expects to be the difference over Colorado. Wyoming rates over Utah State, Washington State over Montana and Oregon over Idaho.

Pearls Increase Lead In Gem Bowling Loop

The Pearls won two games from the Opals, the Diamonds blanked the Sapphires 3-0 and the Rubies took a pair from Turquoise in Gem Bowling League matches this week. The Pearls lead the league with a 12-3 record.

Leona Freeland led the Pearls with 150-414 while Helen Furstenburg was high for the Opals with 178-463. Other team leaders were Dot Hinkle, Diamonds, 180-450; Midge Fertig, Sapphires, 137-328; Mary Ellen Helm, Rubies, 163-444, and Sally Crabtree, Turquoise, 195-481.

World Series Money Divided Among Players

Winning Yanks Get Shares Of $5,737

CINCINNATI, Oct. 13 (AP) — The players themselves "divivied" up their money to such an extent that their shares from the 1950 world series receipts turned out to be "a little on the low side."

That was the explanation today from Walter Mulbry, secretary of baseball, as it was announced by Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler that the full shares voted by the world champion New York Yankees would amount to $5,737.95 each.

Thirty-two members of the Yankee entourage will receive the full shares. Thirteen others will get partial shares, making a total of 45 to get a cut from the world series money.

Vote 32 Full Shares

Much the same situation exists as to the Philadelphia Phils who dropped four straight games to the Yanks in the world series. The Phils also voted 32 full shares and they amounted to $4,081.34 each. Nine others got lesser amounts.

The possibility still existed, however, that the players might get some more money. There have been requests that they share in the $975,000 paid baseball for the world series television and radio rights.

Mulbry said a decision on that matter will be made later.

Johnny Hopp, who joined the Yanks too late to be a regular eligible player for the world series, was cut in for $4,403.47. Hopp, acquired from the Pittsburgh Pirates late in the season, finally was made eligible for series play under an agreement with the Phils.

Two latecomers to the Phil roster were made eligible for the series in the same deal. They also shared in the money. They were John Thompson and Johny Mayo, each of whom was voted $1,020.33.

The Yanks voted a full share of their money to rookie Ed Ford. That wasn't much of a surprise, however.

The Phils naturally gave soldier Curt Simmons a full share of the spoils even though he had to leave the club before the season ended for army service.

Other Clubs Share

The other three clubs in the first division of both leagues also shared in the money and their cash was cut up in this manner:

Brooklyn Dodgers, 30 full shares of $1,128.18 each and seven partial shares.

Bedford Smashes Huntingdon 33-12

BEDFORD, Pa., Oct. 13—Bedford High's rampaging Bisons smashed past Huntingdon High 33-12 here tonight to chalk up their sixth straight victory and take the lead in the Western Pennsylvania Football Conference.

Huntingdon took a short lived 6-0 lead in the first quarter when Substitute Hooper hit Halfback Johnston with a 33-yard pass for the score.

Bedford came roaring back, sparked by Salathe who scored twice on end runs of 18 and 12 yards and passed to another score when he hit Rouzer in the end zone from the 12 yard line.

Stephens tacked on a 20-yard romp for the fourth score and Kurtz skirted his right end for 13 yards and the final Bedford TD. All the Bedford scores climaxed long drives of 50 yards or more.

K. Of C. And Club Win All-Star Loop Matches

Taking two games from the Whiz Kids, the Knights of Columbus held their lead in the All-Star Bowling League. Club Recreation remained two games behind by posting a 2-1 decision over McIntyres.

The Jackets built up a four-touchdown lead in the first three quarters before Ridgeley scored in the last period.

Moorefield took the opening kickoff and drove 79 yards to the first score, climaxed by a 4-yard toss from Merle Barr to Hardy. The Jackets added a second first period tally after taking a Bill Loy punt and driving from midfield in five plays. Baldwin circled end for the final 11 yards.

The Jackets made it 19-0 at halftime by connecting on the long Baldwin to Hardy pass for 79 yards. The Moorefield end took the fullback's 29-yard toss at midfield and raced the remaining 50 yards for the score.

After a Merle Barr pass to Hardy again set up a score on the Ridgeley two, Merle Barr took it over on a quarterback sneak to finish Moorefield's scoring.

Ridgeley marched 79 yards in the fourth quarter for its lone tally, climaxing the drive when Albert Decker raced around right end from the 10 for the TD. A pass covering 17 yards from Decker to Loy sparked the drive.

Two players were injured in the game, Baker of Ridgeley suffering a slight leg injury while Charles Rohrbaugh of Moorefield was knocked unconscious and taken to the local hospital. The lineups:

Rumor Redskins May Move Team To Baltimore

Colts Losing Money President Announces

BALTIMORE, Oct. 13 (AP) — Abe Watner expected to lose money as president of the Baltimore Colts but not so fast.

The principal check-signer for the National Football League team said today he had expected to lose $150,000 to $200,000 "in four or five years while building Baltimore a worthy team."

Now it looks like he'll lose that much in his first season as president, Watner says.

Regardless, he promised "the Colts and I will continue to operate next year."

The Colts are having their worst season in four years of existence on the gridiron and it's beginning to show at the gate. The team lost seven straight exhibition tilts and its first three regular games. The powerful Philadelphia Eagles are due in Sunday.

Attendance for the home opener was 26,627 and it dropped off to 15,201, the lowest in Colt history, the next game.

In connection with a feeling that Baltimore may be on the ropes of pro football, Sports Editor Rodger H. Pippen of the Baltimore News-Post today published the "latest unconfirmed rumor:

"Should the Baltimore Colts ever decide to give up the ghost, George Marshall might move his Washington Redskins here. Stranger things than that have happened.

"It is a fact that the Skins are not doing as well as expected in Washington. In two home games, the Redskins are away under their usual figures. They drew 25,008 for the opener against the Steelers—the poorest opening-day crowd since 1937.

"Last Sunday, the Redskins drew 19,228 against the red-hot Giants. Bad weather, of course, kept last Sunday's attendance down, but it's significant the 'Skins have averaged 22,114 for two home games.

"In contrast with a winless eleven, the Colts have drawn 41,808 for their two games to date in the stadium.

Browns Buy Bauers

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 13 (AP) — The St. Louis Browns announced today that they had bought the contract of Pitcher Russ Bauers from the Baltimore Orioles in the International League.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (AP) — Joe Louis, irked at his defeat by Ezzard Charles, plans to continue fighting and probably will meet Cesar Brion in Chicago in late November, it was learned from a good source tonight.

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 13 (AP) —Maryland's soccer team, defending Southern Conference champs, scored in every period against Washington and Lee today to rack up a 6-0 win for the season's opening game.

Shinnston Tops Parsons 31-0

PARSONS, W. Va., Oct. 13 — Shinnston scored five times in the first half and then cleared the bench as the visiting eleven scored an easy 31-0 victory over Parsons here today.

It was Parson's fourth loss in six games, one ending in a tie.

Payne tallied three times for the victors and Spadafore once, and Paugh once, all coming on plunges through the center of Parsons' line.

Shinnston picked up 11 first downs to six for Parsons, completed 5 of 7 passes to the losers' 8 of 22. The lineups:

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 13 (INS) — Betty Grable, who for seven years has remained at the top of the femme list of favorites, never has her film stories chosen without plenty of discussion pro and con.

Betty Grable

This time six scripts were submitted with the choice going to Richard Sale and Mary Anita Loos' backstage musical comedy, "Meet Me After The Show."

Jule Styne and Leo Robin are busy whipping up tunes so that Betty can start the middle of November with George Jessel as her producer.

I had thought this certainly would call for Dan Dailey and his dances but Darryl Zanuck says no, he hasn't chosen a co-star for Betty yet. Dan fits perfectly into these stories of the stage which have become a success formula for the Grable girl.

When Lee Cobb first stepped out of "Death of a Salesman" and returned to Hollywood, he was very, very choosey. He didn't like this, and he didn't like that. So much so that he and 20th parted company. Now he's made his selection.

Curt Bernhardt directs the boys and they'll fight it out for honors starting November 8 — just about time for Bogey to get to New York, turn around and come back.

I dined with Jean Simmons and Stewart Granger at Romanoff's on cook's night out.

These two are so in love that it's a joy to just talk with them. This was the day they revealed their plan to marry early next year, although it really was a "secret" all their friends knew.

I'm wondering now if Jean won't try to get out of going to Rome in January for "Androcles and the Lion," which she is to do for Gabriel Pascal. They want to marry next year when Jean will be 22.

She has a year and a half to go on her J. Arthur Rank contract but as soon as that's up she'll join Stewart in Hollywood. He's bought a house here and MGM has him tied up for a long time.

Maybe it's just a publicity stunt for John Ford's new picture, "Rio Grande," but whatever motivated the idea of sending 250,000 signatures from the people of San Antonio to Gen. MacArthur is okay by me.

Gen. MacArthur attended school in the Texas town as a boy and is well remembered. The names will be presented to him on a 20-foot scroll to be exhibited in the Alamo preceding the world premiere of the Ford picture November 1.

The presence of Gen. Jonathan Wainwright and Gen. Walter Krueger will give it added interest.

Sunday they'll get around that snag by having Jack dream he's married to Mary and Joan is their daughter. Nice dreaming!

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Hopalong Cassidy is Jo Stafford's guest on her "Voice of America" program October 18. This program reaches around the world and is an attempt to spread Americanism.

I'm going to have a hard time living up to all the nice things Ida Zeitlin says about me in this month's Radio Mirror magazine. I thank her and Fred Sammis for being so kind.

Mario Lanza's mother and father have crashed the movies. Their screen debut was in "Great Caruso," sitting at a table with Mario for a birthday party scene.

Darryl Zanuck has been deluged with letters protesting his new picture, "No Way Out," which deals with racial discrimination. They all sound so much alike that Darryl can only assume it's an organized campaign of hatred.

Who can doubt the wonders of our American way of life when Dick Contino, the accordion player who was a clerk in his father's Fresno butcher shop three years ago, now opens in Las Vegas at $4000 a week?

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Must large women wear outmoded, old-fashioned hats? No! Here's what to avoid and the lines that flatter!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

WHAT kind of hats should the statuesque woman wear? The heavy woman's dress problems can be solved easily enough these days in the woman's and half-sized departments, where she will find just what she needs designed and cut to fit and enhance her figure.

But when she enters most millinery departments she must rely entirely on her own judgement to find a hat that will slenderize her face and figure.

Out of sheer desperation, she is apt to settle for some out-moded fashion, just because she has worn the style successfully in other seasons, and the probabities are that it will make her look as old and passe as the hat.

How To Choose Your Hat

Right now, you can prevent that ever happening again. Every new millinery collection contains plenty of hats that meet your special requirements in fashionable fashion. If you learn the following do's and don't you will be able to point your finger at one immediately. Year in and year out, here are the basics your type of hat must avoid and those it must have.

Always avoid the following:

1. Round lines in brims and crowns (as in a breton): Such lines only repeat and accentuate curved facial and body lines.

2. Brims that mushroom downward all the way around (as in a

Hy Winner Of Feature Bowie Event

Scores Half Length Win Over Blue Fedora

BOWIE RACE TRACK, BOWIE, Md., Oct. 13 (AP)—Hy, a game filly owned by Mrs. Helen R. Reightler of Baltimore, outfought Blue Fedora in the stretch to capture the seventh event at Bowie, a six-furlong dash for $4,500 platers which served as feature.

The victor held a half length margin over Blue Fedora at the wire. Some two length farther back came Easy Al. Hy paid $5.20 straight, and was the third straight favorite to score on the program, witnessed by 5,481 fans.

Blue Fedora sprinted into command down the backstretch and tried to draw away. Hy, however, rallied sharply on the bend and was alongside the pacesetter three-sixteenths of a mile from the finish. Apprentice Doyle Gardner applied the whip in the last furlong to get Hy to pass Blue Fedora.

100 To 1 Shot Wins

SALEM, N. H., Oct. 13 (AP)—T. L. Graham's Duke Boswell, a one hundred to on. shot in the betting, scored a length victory in a secondary feature at Rockingham Park today and paid $226.20, $72.40 and $12.40.

Second in this six furlong test for maiden two year olds was Mrs. Joseph Kelley's hard charging Norcal which had a neck on R. W. Collins' Miss Margo. Norcal paid $5.60 and $3.20 and Miss Margo $2.40.

Duke Boswell ran the heavy three panels in 1:16 2-5.

The 5,253 patrons also saw Mrs Sam Orr's U. S. Bound win the principal event of the all claiming card by a length and a half over C. O. Ferguson's Jobie. Edward Dibe's Hamanasa was third in this three quarters of a mile race, a length back of Jobie.

U. S. Bound's time in the three quarter mile event was 1:14, despite the heavy footing. U. S. Bound paid $6.40, $4.20 and $3.00, Jobie $7.00 and $4.20 and Hamanasa $3.40.

Roman Bath Cops

CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 13 (AP)—John Marsch's Roman Bath made his first eastern start a winning one today at Garden State Park when he accounted for the featured Raritan Purse by a length and a quarter. Play Toy, flying the silks of J. L. McKnight, was second, a neck before the fast charging Woodford Sir.

American Glory took the lead at the outset, with Play Toy in closest pursuit. Jockey Ken Church, who rode the winner, had the son of Roman a bang-up third.

There was no change in this order until the field turned for home when Church turned Roman Bath loose. He came on willingly, taking the lead with ease and holding it throughout the stretch charge.

Houtteman Seeks "Joe Doakes" Deal In Army Uniform

DETROIT, Oct. 13 (AP)—Young Art Houtteman, baseball's first name player to be drafted since outbreak of the Korean war, went into the army today with the comment that he wanted to be rated as "just Joe Doakes."

The handsome 23-year-old hurler of the Detroit Tigers, back from a honeymoon less than two days, told reporters he didn't like all the publicity he was getting.

"I don't want to go into this as a baseball star and a celebrity," Houtteman said. "I want to be just Joe Doakes."

1—Blue Path,

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—(INS)—THE LEGENDARY Frank Erickson was a waiter who got his start as a bookie by "holding" a $20 bet on a horse which, fortunately, ran out of the money. The now almost equally fabled Harry Gross, presently held in record-breaking $250,000 bail for fear that he will be murdered for singing, had an even more ambitious beginning.

Ten years ago Gross was a soda jerk in a luncheonette on Parkside Avenue in Brooklyn. With tips, he was making about $45 a week.

It's a nice bookie neighborhood, and the luncheonette for which Gross jerked was equipped with two of the gents. One of the cops they were paying came to them one day to tell them that the heat was on for a few weeks, and suggested they make themselves scarce. They did.

But they didn't want to cause any of their better customers inconvenience. So they told the fellow behind the counter, Gross, to handle anything that came in and to phone in the bets to a Jersey number.

The day after the bookies cleared out, for their sabbatical, a guy walked in and looked around like a man who has lost his dearest friend. Gross said he'd take care of the stifled wager. And the fellow bet $500 on an 8-to-5 shot.

• — • — •

Sooner or later, usually the former, a fellow in the gambling business must make that big decision. Take that big gamble. Gross "forgot to call," and after several sweatful hours the flash came that he had guessed right. The goat ran out of the money and Gross had $500 in his pocket. It was Gross's birth of a notion.

Next day the same guy came back to get even with another $500 bet. Again Gross held it. By the time the regular house bookies returned Gross had $15,000 of that fellow's (and other's) money. But they couldn't do anything about it.

For, you see, by this time Gross had a partner—one of the discredited plain-clothesmen in the now partly-opened scandal. The cop had good connections that insured Gross's protection (and his own) till kingdom county come. Gross moved out from behind the counter and began operating real big. Pretty soon he and the cop owned a place called the Club James, behind the late Small Mike Aronson, the front.

Gross was in a good spot. Because of his cop partner, which soon became plural, he needed no "protection" from the hoods. He had the McCoy blocking for him. They liked him, even though he got to be a little blunt during the payoffs. He'd roll up to a well-known Brooklyn restaurant and enter its men's room, whose door lets out on the main room. Then he'd look out the door and beckon to this or that cop official and they'd enter his office briefly for the payoff. In time, he was giving away $24,000 a week, and the list was growing.

And he was getting in deep. Being a gambler rather than a bookie, who is essentially a trader, he was branching out of the horse business, where his partners preferred to keep him. He would bet a big bettor on anything, including the prospects of Monday following Sunday. He blew something between $100,000 and $125,000, for instance, when the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Red Sox in the seventh game of the '47 series.

This had to come out of the share of his police partners, due them from his horse betting. To one of them he owed $30,000, and, when Gross couldn't pay, the guy gave him an inch-deep shiner. He owed another, his original partner, more than $100,000. So he lammed it for a couple of months, and when he came back he found that there were cop pals who were so wary of him that they took the $300 bonus for Christmas instead of the proferred television set, because the store would make a record of the TV purchase.

Then, without really knowing what it was all about, the former soda jerk got himself in the seamy middle of a fight between Brooklyn politicos—who knew what was going on—and Mayor Bill O'Dwyer. The Brooklyn group knew that the best way to discredit O'Dwyer was to knock down the police force he took such pride in, so the thing was called to the attention of honest prosecutors.

The mob report is that Gross has not squealed; that most of the leads have been supplied by lesser employees. Whatever the case, it is an arresting commentary on our times when a fellow who was a soda jerk ten short years ago can become the cause celebre in a case which will (because of O'Dwyer's appointment by Mr. Truman as ambassador to Mexico) be of national significance come November.

ent Republican candidate for the presidency in the midst of actual fighting that we love peace, he can figure that there is enough anti-war feeling in the United States so that he might risk trying to bang the living hell out of the American people.

It seems to me that, as a Republican, you ought to let Harry Truman be president of the United States and Dean Acheson, secretary of state — and let them make their own mistakes. They will do well in that direction, I am sure, without your aid.

Yours,
GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

C R H O A J C T Q R D B X I I Y Q H H A R J Q I W Q R D H B Y Q S R J E I Q J B Y D R T — Q Y - E W D C W G.

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 13 (INS) — Betty Grable, who for seven years has remained at the top of the femme list of favorites, never has her film stories chosen without plenty of discussion pro and con.

Betty Grable

This time six scripts were submitted with the choice going to Richard Sale and Mary Anita Loos' backstage musical comedy, "Meet Me After The Show."

Jule Styne and Leo Robin are busy whipping up tunes so that Betty can start the middle of November with George Jessel as her producer.

I had thought this certainly would call for Dan Dailey and his dances but Darryl Zanuck says no, he hasn't chosen a co-star for Betty yet. Dan fits perfectly into these stories of the stage which have become a success formula for the Grable girl.

When Lee Cobb first stepped out of "Death of a Salesman" and returned to Hollywood, he was very, very choosey. He didn't like this, and he didn't like that. So much so that he and 20th parted company. Now he's made his selection.

Curt Bernhardt directs the boys and they'll fight it out for honors starting November 8 — just about time for Bogey to get to New York, turn around and come back.

I dined with Jean Simmons and Stewart Granger at Romanoff's on cook's night out.

These two are so in love that it's a joy to just talk with them. This was the day they revealed their plan to marry early next year, although it really was a "secret" all their friends knew.

I'm wondering now if Jean won't try to get out of going to Rome in January for "Androcles and the Lion," which she is to do for Gabriel Pascal. They want to marry next year when Jean will be 22.

She has a year and a half to go on her J. Arthur Rank contract but as soon as that's up she'll join Stewart in Hollywood. He's bought a house here and MGM has him tied up for a long time.

Maybe it's just a publicity stunt for John Ford's new picture, "Rio Grande," but whatever motivated the idea of sending 250,000 signatures from the people of San Antonio to Gen. MacArthur is okay by me.

Gen. MacArthur attended school in the Texas town as a boy and is well remembered. The names will be presented to him on a 20-foot scroll to be exhibited in the Alamo preceding the world premiere of the Ford picture November 1.

The presence of Gen. Jonathan Wainwright and Gen. Walter Krueger will give it added interest.

Sunday they'll get around that snag by having Jack dream he's married to Mary and Joan is their daughter. Nice dreaming!

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Hopalong Cassidy is Jo Stafford's guest on her "Voice of America" program October 18. This program reaches around the world and is an attempt to spread Americanism.

I'm going to have a hard time living up to all the nice things Ida Zeitlin says about me in this month's Radio Mirror magazine. I thank her and Fred Sammis for being so kind.

Mario Lanza's mother and father have crashed the movies. Their screen debut was in "Great Caruso," sitting at a table with Mario for a birthday party scene.

Darryl Zanuck has been deluged with letters protesting his new picture, "No Way Out," which deals with racial discrimination. They all sound so much alike that Darryl can only assume it's an organized campaign of hatred.

Who can doubt the wonders of our American way of life when Dick Contino, the accordion player who was a clerk in his father's Fresno butcher shop three years ago, now opens in Las Vegas at $4000 a week?

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Must large women wear outmoded, old-fashioned hats? No! Here's what to avoid and the lines that flatter!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

WHAT kind of hats should the statuesque woman wear? The heavy woman's dress problems can be solved easily enough these days in the woman's and half-sized departments, where she will find just what she needs designed and cut to fit and enhance her figure.

But when she enters most millinery departments she must rely entirely on her own judgement to find a hat that will slenderize her face and figure.

Out of sheer desperation, she is apt to settle for some out-moded fashion, just because she has worn the style successfully in other seasons, and the probabities are that it will make her look as old and passe as the hat.

How To Choose Your Hat

Right now, you can prevent that ever happening again. Every new millinery collection contains plenty of hats that meet your special requirements in fashionable fashion. If you learn the following do's and don't you will be able to point your finger at one immediately. Year in and year out, here are the basics your type of hat must avoid and those it must have.

Always avoid the following:

1. Round lines in brims and crowns (as in a breton): Such lines only repeat and accentuate curved facial and body lines.

2. Brims that mushroom downward all the way around (as in a

Mineral Farm Bureau Host To Keyser Rotary

H. R. Varney Is Guest Speaker

KEYSER, W. Va.—The anuual dinner meeting of the Mineral County Farm Bureau and Keyser Rotary Club was held Thursday evening at Headsville Community Building at Headsville, with the Farm Bureau members being hosts to the Rotarians. There were 96 members of the two organizations present. Last year the Rotarians were hosts to dinner in Keyser for the Farm Bureau .

The two organizations have been meeting together as host or guest for several years and each group feels that much good has been accomplished as a result of the dinners.

Samuel S. Smith, president of the Mineral County Farm Bureau, acted as toastmaster and welcomed the Rotarians. Chester J. Compton, president of the Rotary Club, responded for his organization.

Clyde Bonar, president of the West Virginia Farm Bureau, introduced the guest speaker, H. R. Varney, dean of the College of Agriculture at West Virginia University, who outlined the development of farming as a business and stressed the importance of cooperation between farmers and business men. He stated that farming today requires business skills and more dependence upon town folks. "Farmers need city folk to buy their products," he added, "and businessmen rely on the farmer as a source of income in their businesses."

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—(INS)—THE LEGENDARY Frank Erickson was a waiter who got his start as a bookie by "holding" a $20 bet on a horse which, fortunately, ran out of the money. The now almost equally fabled Harry Gross, presently held in record-breaking $250,000 bail for fear that he will be murdered for singing, had an even more ambitious beginning.

Ten years ago Gross was a soda jerk in a luncheonette on Parkside Avenue in Brooklyn. With tips, he was making about $45 a week.

It's a nice bookie neighborhood, and the luncheonette for which Gross jerked was equipped with two of the gents. One of the cops they were paying came to them one day to tell them that the heat was on for a few weeks, and suggested they make themselves scarce. They did.

But they didn't want to cause any of their better customers inconvenience. So they told the fellow behind the counter, Gross, to handle anything that came in and to phone in the bets to a Jersey number.

The day after the bookies cleared out, for their sabbatical, a guy walked in and looked around like a man who has lost his dearest friend. Gross said he'd take care of the stifled wager. And the fellow bet $500 on an 8-to-5 shot.

• — • — •

Sooner or later, usually the former, a fellow in the gambling business must make that big decision. Take that big gamble. Gross "forgot to call," and after several sweatful hours the flash came that he had guessed right. The goat ran out of the money and Gross had $500 in his pocket. It was Gross's birth of a notion.

Next day the same guy came back to get even with another $500 bet. Again Gross held it. By the time the regular house bookies returned Gross had $15,000 of that fellow's (and other's) money. But they couldn't do anything about it.

For, you see, by this time Gross had a partner—one of the discredited plain-clothesmen in the now partly-opened scandal. The cop had good connections that insured Gross's protection (and his own) till kingdom county come. Gross moved out from behind the counter and began operating real big. Pretty soon he and the cop owned a place called the Club James, behind the late Small Mike Aronson, the front.

Gross was in a good spot. Because of his cop partner, which soon became plural, he needed no "protection" from the hoods. He had the McCoy blocking for him. They liked him, even though he got to be a little blunt during the payoffs. He'd roll up to a well-known Brooklyn restaurant and enter its men's room, whose door lets out on the main room. Then he'd look out the door and beckon to this or that cop official and they'd enter his office briefly for the payoff. In time, he was giving away $24,000 a week, and the list was growing.

And he was getting in deep. Being a gambler rather than a bookie, who is essentially a trader, he was branching out of the horse business, where his partners preferred to keep him. He would bet a big bettor on anything, including the prospects of Monday following Sunday. He blew something between $100,000 and $125,000, for instance, when the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Red Sox in the seventh game of the '47 series.

This had to come out of the share of his police partners, due them from his horse betting. To one of them he owed $30,000, and, when Gross couldn't pay, the guy gave him an inch-deep shiner. He owed another, his original partner, more than $100,000. So he lammed it for a couple of months, and when he came back he found that there were cop pals who were so wary of him that they took the $300 bonus for Christmas instead of the proferred television set, because the store would make a record of the TV purchase.

Then, without really knowing what it was all about, the former soda jerk got himself in the seamy middle of a fight between Brooklyn politicos—who knew what was going on—and Mayor Bill O'Dwyer. The Brooklyn group knew that the best way to discredit O'Dwyer was to knock down the police force he took such pride in, so the thing was called to the attention of honest prosecutors.

The mob report is that Gross has not squealed; that most of the leads have been supplied by lesser employees. Whatever the case, it is an arresting commentary on our times when a fellow who was a soda jerk ten short years ago can become the cause celebre in a case which will (because of O'Dwyer's appointment by Mr. Truman as ambassador to Mexico) be of national significance come November.

ent Republican candidate for the presidency in the midst of actual fighting that we love peace, he can figure that there is enough anti-war feeling in the United States so that he might risk trying to bang the living hell out of the American people.

It seems to me that, as a Republican, you ought to let Harry Truman be president of the United States and Dean Acheson, secretary of state — and let them make their own mistakes. They will do well in that direction, I am sure, without your aid.

Yours,
GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 13 (INS) — Betty Grable, who for seven years has remained at the top of the femme list of favorites, never has her film stories chosen without plenty of discussion pro and con.

Betty Grable

This time six scripts were submitted with the choice going to Richard Sale and Mary Anita Loos' backstage musical comedy, "Meet Me After The Show."

Jule Styne and Leo Robin are busy whipping up tunes so that Betty can start the middle of November with George Jessel as her producer.

I had thought this certainly would call for Dan Dailey and his dances but Darryl Zanuck says no, he hasn't chosen a co-star for Betty yet. Dan fits perfectly into these stories of the stage which have become a success formula for the Grable girl.

When Lee Cobb first stepped out of "Death of a Salesman" and returned to Hollywood, he was very, very choosey. He didn't like this, and he didn't like that. So much so that he and 20th parted company. Now he's made his selection.

Curt Bernhardt directs the boys and they'll fight it out for honors starting November 8 — just about time for Bogey to get to New York, turn around and come back.

I dined with Jean Simmons and Stewart Granger at Romanoff's on cook's night out.

These two are so in love that it's a joy to just talk with them. This was the day they revealed their plan to marry early next year, although it really was a "secret" all their friends knew.

I'm wondering now if Jean won't try to get out of going to Rome in January for "Androcles and the Lion," which she is to do for Gabriel Pascal. They want to marry next year when Jean will be 22.

She has a year and a half to go on her J. Arthur Rank contract but as soon as that's up she'll join Stewart in Hollywood. He's bought a house here and MGM has him tied up for a long time.

Maybe it's just a publicity stunt for John Ford's new picture, "Rio Grande," but whatever motivated the idea of sending 250,000 signatures from the people of San Antonio to Gen. MacArthur is okay by me.

Gen. MacArthur attended school in the Texas town as a boy and is well remembered. The names will be presented to him on a 20-foot scroll to be exhibited in the Alamo preceding the world premiere of the Ford picture November 1.

The presence of Gen. Jonathan Wainwright and Gen. Walter Krueger will give it added interest.

Sunday they'll get around that snag by having Jack dream he's married to Mary and Joan is their daughter. Nice dreaming!

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Hopalong Cassidy is Jo Stafford's guest on her "Voice of America" program October 18. This program reaches around the world and is an attempt to spread Americanism.

I'm going to have a hard time living up to all the nice things Ida Zeitlin says about me in this month's Radio Mirror magazine. I thank her and Fred Sammis for being so kind.

Mario Lanza's mother and father have crashed the movies. Their screen debut was in "Great Caruso," sitting at a table with Mario for a birthday party scene.

Darryl Zanuck has been deluged with letters protesting his new picture, "No Way Out," which deals with racial discrimination. They all sound so much alike that Darryl can only assume it's an organized campaign of hatred.

Who can doubt the wonders of our American way of life when Dick Contino, the accordion player who was a clerk in his father's Fresno butcher shop three years ago, now opens in Las Vegas at $4000 a week?

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Must large women wear outmoded, old-fashioned hats? No! Here's what to avoid and the lines that flatter!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

WHAT kind of hats should the statuesque woman wear? The heavy woman's dress problems can be solved easily enough these days in the woman's and half-sized departments, where she will find just what she needs designed and cut to fit and enhance her figure.

But when she enters most millinery departments she must rely entirely on her own judgement to find a hat that will slenderize her face and figure.

Out of sheer desperation, she is apt to settle for some out-moded fashion, just because she has worn the style successfully in other seasons, and the probabities are that it will make her look as old and passe as the hat.

How To Choose Your Hat

Right now, you can prevent that ever happening again. Every new millinery collection contains plenty of hats that meet your special requirements in fashionable fashion. If you learn the following do's and don't you will be able to point your finger at one immediately. Year in and year out, here are the basics your type of hat must avoid and those it must have.

Always avoid the following:

1. Round lines in brims and crowns (as in a breton): Such lines only repeat and accentuate curved facial and body lines.

2. Brims that mushroom downward all the way around (as in a

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

GOOD BET IF YOU LOSE

"IT'S a good bet, even if you lose" is an expression you often hear around certain games of chance. The meaning is that what you stand to gain is more than what you stand to lose, or else that your chance of winning is greater than that of losing, or perhaps a combination of those. You will find those principles applying to many phases of bridge, but especially to the bidding. For instance, it pays in the long run to bid games when the odds are slightly against making them. And it also pays over the span to bid small slams when the chance to make them is approximately even or slightly better.

	♠ K 9 7 5 ♥ Q 9 7 4 2 ♦ K ♣ A 7 4
♠ Q 10 8 3 ♥ None ♦ A 10 7 3 2 ♣ 10 9 5 2	N W E S	♠ 4 ♥ 10 8 5 3 ♦ 8 6 4 ♣ K Q J 6 3
	♠ A J 6 2 ♥ A K J 6 ♦ Q J 9 5 ♣ 8

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable).

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	4 NT	Pass
5 ♥	Pass	6 ♥

Knowing from South's answer to the Blackwood 4-No Trumps that his side had all but one ace, North did what any good bidder would do when he put the contract into 6-Hearts. But, as it developed, every important break was against him and he failed to make it.

East led the club K, which North took with the A. He saw his two low clubs could be ruffed in the dummy, leaving him no losers except one in diamonds. Properly testing the trump situation first, he led to the heart A and was chagrined when West failed to follow suit. Now he saw that he could not ruff out his two clubs without using one of the top trumps, which were required to consume East's. It now was necessary to dispose of at least one of them on a diamond.

Proceeding toward that end, North led the diamond 5 toward his K. West came right in with the A and led the club 2 to the J, which was ruffed by the heart 6. The heart J and K were scored, then the diamond Q and J for discards of the last club and one spade, and the spade 2 led to the K. The heart Q now cleared out East's last trump and the contract could be made if the spade finesse would work. But when West overtook the J with the Q, the contract was down. Note that, if the trumps had been better divided, South could have discarded two losing spades and would not have needed the finesse.

.. Your Weekend Question

Sometimes your side's only chance for a game in a particular deal is in a major suit with only four cards in one hand opposite three in the other. When that is the case, what is the special danger against which you must protect yourself during the play?

Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

Western Maryland Naval Exam Set

The Naval Officers College Training Program's fifth competitive examination for Western Maryland will be held December 9 at Allegany High School.

Ralph R. Webster, principal of Allegany, will be in charge of the tests. The three-hour test, is open to boys between the ages of 17 and 21, providing they are high school seniors and not married. Boys attending college may also take the exam.

Those who pass the aptitude test will be interviewed and given physical examinations. If they qualify in all respects, their names will be submitted to state and territorial selection committees.

A student selected through these competitive examinations will be assigned to one of the 52 Naval Reserve Officers' Training Corps units in various colleges in the United States. If accepted by the college, he will be appointed a Midshipman at the Naval Academy with tuition, books, and normal fees paid by the government.

In addition, he will receive pay at the rate of $50 a month for the four-year period. Upon graduation, he may be commissioned as an officer in the Regular Navy or Marine Corps and will be required to serve on active duty for two years. At the end of this time he may apply for retention in the Regular Navy or Marine Corps, or transfer to the Reserve and return to civilian life.

Electronics Stocks Decline In Midst Of TV Color Row

Losses in that division ran to as much as $2 a share.

The remainder of the market was highly mixed with a few individual issues standing out on the upside because of corporate developments.

The radio-TV group headed lower from the start of the session on the strength of the decision Wednesday by the Federal Communications Commission that the television industry must adopt the color-TV system developed by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Distillers were higher. Hiram Walker closed up 1½ at 51¼.

Distillers Corp.-Seagrams was up 1⅛ at 24, National Distillers ½ at 26 and Schenley ⅜ at 33.

St. Regis Paper was up ⅝ at 11⅛, and International Paper gained 1½ at 46¾.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 20 cents at $83.90 with the industrial component off 30 cents, rails unchanged, and utilities off 10 cents.

The volume of trading was 2,030,000 shares as compared with 2,190,000 shares Wednesday.

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—(INS)—THE LEGENDARY Frank Erickson was a waiter who got his start as a bookie by "holding" a $20 bet on a horse which, fortunately, ran out of the money. The now almost equally fabled Harry Gross, presently held in record-breaking $250,000 bail for fear that he will be murdered for singing, had an even more ambitious beginning.

Ten years ago Gross was a soda jerk in a luncheonette on Parkside Avenue in Brooklyn. With tips, he was making about $45 a week.

It's a nice bookie neighborhood, and the luncheonette for which Gross jerked was equipped with two of the gents. One of the cops they were paying came to them one day to tell them that the heat was on for a few weeks, and suggested they make themselves scarce. They did.

But they didn't want to cause any of their better customers inconvenience. So they told the fellow behind the counter, Gross, to handle anything that came in and to phone in the bets to a Jersey number.

The day after the bookies cleared out, for their sabbatical, a guy walked in and looked around like a man who has lost his dearest friend. Gross said he'd take care of the stifled wager. And the fellow bet $500 on an 8-to-5 shot.

• — • — •

Sooner or later, usually the former, a fellow in the gambling business must make that big decision. Take that big gamble. Gross "forgot to call," and after several sweatful hours the flash came that he had guessed right. The goat ran out of the money and Gross had $500 in his pocket. It was Gross's birth of a notion.

Next day the same guy came back to get even with another $500 bet. Again Gross held it. By the time the regular house bookies returned Gross had $15,000 of that fellow's (and other's) money. But they couldn't do anything about it.

For, you see, by this time Gross had a partner—one of the discredited plain-clothesmen in the now partly-opened scandal. The cop had good connections that insured Gross's protection (and his own) till kingdom county come. Gross moved out from behind the counter and began operating real big. Pretty soon he and the cop owned a place called the Club James, behind the late Small Mike Aronson, the front.

Gross was in a good spot. Because of his cop partner, which soon became plural, he needed no "protection" from the hoods. He had the McCoy blocking for him. They liked him, even though he got to be a little blunt during the payoffs. He'd roll up to a well-known Brooklyn restaurant and enter its men's room, whose door lets out on the main room. Then he'd look out the door and beckon to this or that cop official and they'd enter his office briefly for the payoff. In time, he was giving away $24,000 a week, and the list was growing.

And he was getting in deep. Being a gambler rather than a bookie, who is essentially a trader, he was branching out of the horse business, where his partners preferred to keep him. He would bet a big bettor on anything, including the prospects of Monday following Sunday. He blew something between $100,000 and $125,000, for instance, when the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Red Sox in the seventh game of the '47 series.

This had to come out of the share of his police partners, due them from his horse betting. To one of them he owed $30,000, and, when Gross couldn't pay, the guy gave him an inch-deep shiner. He owed another, his original partner, more than $100,000. So he lammed it for a couple of months, and when he came back he found that there were cop pals who were so wary of him that they took the $300 bonus for Christmas instead of the proferred television set, because the store would make a record of the TV purchase.

Then, without really knowing what it was all about, the former soda jerk got himself in the seamy middle of a fight between Brooklyn politicos—who knew what was going on—and Mayor Bill O'Dwyer. The Brooklyn group knew that the best way to discredit O'Dwyer was to knock down the police force he took such pride in, so the thing was called to the attention of honest prosecutors.

The mob report is that Gross has not squealed; that most of the leads have been supplied by lesser employees. Whatever the case, it is an arresting commentary on our times when a fellow who was a soda jerk ten short years ago can become the cause celebre in a case which will (because of O'Dwyer's appointment by Mr. Truman as ambassador to Mexico) be of national significance come November.

(Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.)

ent Republican candidate for the presidency in the midst of actual fighting that we love peace, he can figure that there is enough anti-war feeling in the United States so that he might risk trying to bang the living hell out of the American people.

It seems to me that, as a Republican, you ought to let Harry Truman be president of the United States and Dean Acheson, secretary of state — and let them make their own mistakes. They will do well in that direction, I am sure, without your aid.

Yours,
GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

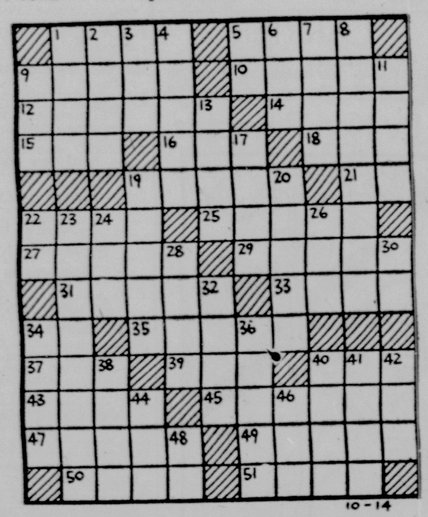
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

C R H O A J C T Q R D B X I I Y Q H H A R J Q I W Q R D H B Y Q S R J E I Q J B Y D R T — Q Y - E W D C W G.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote — NOR LET IT OCCUR TO YOU WHAT IT IS LAWFUL TO DO, BUT WHAT IT WILL BE RIGHT TO DO—CLAUDIAN.

Boy Chasing Dog Fatally Hurt By Trooper's Car

5-Year-Old Gilmore Lad Is Victim

A 5-year-old Gilmore boy was fatally injured yesterday afternoon when he ran on to the highway near his home while chasing a dog and was struck by a car driven by a Maryland State trooper on leave from his barracks at Frederick.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, said the lad, Richard Thomas Winner, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Winner, Gilmore, died enroute to Memorial Hospital here.

The accident, he reported, occurred on Route 36, about 100 yards south of Gilmore, at 2:10 p. m. when the child was struck by a car owned and operated by Trooper Maynard J. Whitney, Fairgo, who was enroute to Lonaconing while on leave from Barracks B, Frederick.

The unconscious child was taken to Lonaconing for first aid treatment.

Dr. Deming said he died enroute to the hospital and set the time of death at about 2:50 p. m.

State Police said the child was chasing a dog that ran across the highway from the east to the west.

They said the child ran from between two parked cars on to the highway and was struck by the oncoming car.

Ht said he was told the trooper did not see the child in time to avoid hitting him.

State Police said Trooper Whitney reported he was driving within the speed limit in the 50 mile zone.

Witnesses Accident

A mail carrier witnessed the accident, State Police said. They were unable immediately to identify the witness.

State Police said a hearing will be held at the State's Attorney's office today at 10 a. m.

Surviving, besides the boy's parents, are four brothers and two sisters, Delores, Judy, George, Jr., Larry, Michael and Raymond.

FATALLY INJURED — Richard Thomas Winner, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Winner, Gilmore, was fatally injured yesterday when he ran across the highway after a dog and was struck by a car police said was operated by State Trooper M. J. Whitney, on leave from Barracks B, Frederick.

Hundreds Pay City Taxes To Beat Deadline

Interest Charges To Start Tuesday

City Tax Collector George E Davis said Monday will be the last day that city taxes may be paid interest-free.

Starting Tuesday, one-half of one per cent monthly interest will be charged on tax bills, dating back to August 14, when the levy was passed.

Since it has been two months since the date of the levy, interest charges will amount to one per cent, Davis explained.

Davis explained that flat rate water bills are due Monday.

Ordinarily the interest-free deadline for city tax bills would have come today, October 14, two months after the levy.

However, the deadline was extended through Monday because City Hall is closed on Saturdays.

About 82 per cent of the total tax bills of $810,226 has been collected, with about $150,000 still outstanding, Davis said.

National Stores Permit Granted

The two-story frame building is owned by Frank Bennett, 52 Bedford Street. The company presently operates a store on Wineow Street. Philip E. Keller, secretary, obtained the permit.

Potomac River Flow Is High In September

The flow of the Potomac River above Cumberland was far above normal during the month of September but is below normal this month, according to a report released yesterday by the United States Department of Interior Geological Survey at College Park.

The mean daily flow of the North Branch of the Potomac River at Cumberland during September, the report states, was 797 cubic feet per second, 224 per cent of the normal flow.

The daily flow varied from 116 cubic feet per second on September 9 to 6,140 cubic feet per second on September 22. The flow at the end of the month was 335 cubic feet per second.

Total rainfall on the basin above Cumberland, according to the Weather Bureau, averaged about 6.23 inches or 3.14 inches above normal. The average daily temperature was about 61 degrees, which is about three degrees below September normal.

The outlook for October, the report indicates, would have the river averaging about 337 cubic feet per second which is about 53 per cent of normal. Under adverse conditions the remainder of the month, however, the report suggests, little or no rainfall over the basin the rest of the month might bring the North Branch to about 120 feet per second flow or 19 per cent of normal.

$2,783 Needed To Put Chest Drive Over Top

Campaign Extended Until Wednesday

All but $2,783 of the Red Feather campaign goal of $87,794 has been raised and a "victory report meeting" winding up the campaign will be held next Wednesday noon at Central YMCA.

Extension of the campaign was announced last night by Frederic W. Eiler, general chairman of the Community Chest effort, at a report meeting at the "Y".

Its goal was $4,500 and last night's reports brought the total to $4,603.

A total of $18,449 was needed to put the drive over the top on schedule last night.

$15,666 Reported

Of that amount, $15,666 was reported, bringing the total to date to $85,011.

Lynn C. Lashley, chairman of the Advance Gifts Section, reported an additional $4,661, bringing the total to $47,581. Goal is $49,000.

Reports from the Classified Section, headed by George M. Martin, amounted to $9,452 for a total to date of $32,828. Goal of the section is $34,294.

Commenting that "we are within striking distance of our goal," Eiler praised campaign leaders and workers for their efforts. He said the fact that the drive fell short last night was not the fault of the workers but was due to "apathy on the other end."

Eiler singled out the management and employes of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company for special praise. The group's goal was $1,500, twice as much as last year's, and $1,510 was raised.

Earl C. Robertson, president of the Cumberland Community Chest, expressed the gratitude of the nine member Chest agencies to the campaign workers for their "wholehearted effort and loyal support."

So long as that spirit of giving persists, Robertson said, "we need have no fear that communism will take root among our less fortunate people."

Hal Haylor, director of the campaign, told the 70 workers present that no business firm is too large to be resolicited if necessary to reach the goal.

Exceed Goals

Financial, George Caswell, leader, $1,824 of a goal of $1,790; railroads, Earl C. Robertson, $6,103 of a goal of $5,825; food, Lewis Ort, $2,748 of a goal of $2,600; educational, Charles L. Kopp, $1,947 of a goal of $1,700; and automotive, James E. Honeycutt, $3,596 of a goal of $3,310.

In the Residential Section, the following groups have gone over the top:

Heart Group Will Employ Home Nurse

Station Wagon Will Be Bought, Equipped

The Allegany County Rheumatic Fever and Heart Association board of directors last night reviewed applications from eight registered nurses, who applied for appointment to a full time position of home visiting nurse for the association

According to Thomas F. Conlon, chairman of the committee on applications, the board and committee decided to have Dr. Winter R Frantz and a representative from the Baltimore Heart Association interview the applicants individually, and recommend a selection to the committee.

The nature of the work is new in this area, since it deals with program planning for children and adults confined to their beds or homes because of rheumatic fever or other heart conditions. There are about 100 cases in the county, requiring either this type of assistance or nursing and medical care, association members explain.

Funds realized from the heart campaign held locally last February are used to operate a local heart clinic and to pay the salary and expenses of the visiting nurse. The clinic is now operated two days a month in conjunction with the Health Department, but the nurse to be employed on a full-time basis will make regular visits to all registered heart patients.

Prior to starting her duties here, the nurse employed, Conlon said, will go to Baltimore for several weeks for special training in this work.

The group last night also decided to purchase a station wagon for the use of the nurse and a committee will inspect several vehicles this morning.

The next meeting of the committee and board members will be held in the office of the postmaster November 6 at 8:30 p. m.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

GOOD BET IF YOU LOSE

"IT'S a good bet, even if you lose" is an expression you often hear around certain games of chance. The meaning is that what you stand to gain is more than what you stand to lose, or else that your chance of winning is greater than that of losing, or perhaps a combination of those. You will find those principles applying to many phases of bridge, but especially to the bidding. For instance, it pays in the long run to bid games when the odds are slightly against making them. And it also pays over the span to bid small slams when the chance to make them is approximately even or slightly better.

	♠ K 9 7 5 ♥ Q 9 7 4 2 ♦ K ♣ A 7 4
♠ Q 10 8 3 ♥ None ♦ A 10 7 3 2 ♣ 10 9 5 2	N W E S	♠ 4 ♥ 10 8 5 3 ♦ 8 6 4 ♣ K Q J 6 3
	♠ A J 6 2 ♥ A K J 6 ♦ Q J 9 5 ♣ 8

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	4 NT	Pass
5 ♥	Pass	6 ♥

Knowing from South's answer to the Blackwood 4-No Trumps that his side had all but one ace, North did what any good bidder would do when he put the contract into 6-Hearts. But, as it developed, every important break was against him and he failed to make it.

East led the club K, which North took with the A. He saw his two low clubs could be ruffed in the dummy, leaving him no losers except one in diamonds. Properly testing the trump situation first, he led to the heart A and was chagrined when West failed to follow suit. Now he saw that he could not ruff out his two clubs without using one of the top trumps, which were required to consume East's. It now was necessary to dispose of at least one of them on a diamond.

Proceeding toward that end, North led the diamond 5 toward his K. West came right in with the A and led the club 2 to the J, which was ruffed by the heart 6. The heart J and K were scored, then the diamond Q and J for discards of the last club and one spade, and the spade 2 led to the K. The heart Q now cleared out East's last trump and the contract could be made if the spade finesse would work. But when West overtook the J with the Q, the contract was down. Note that, if the trumps had been better divided, South could have discarded two losing spades and would not have needed the finesse.

Your Weekend Question

Sometimes your side's only chance for a game in a particular deal is in a major suit with only four cards in one hand opposite three in the other. When that is the case, what is the special danger against which you must protect yourself during the play?

Electronics Stocks Decline In Midst Of TV Color Row

Losses in that division ran to as much as $2 a share.

The remainder of the market was highly mixed with a few individual issues standing out on the upside because of corporate developments.

The radio-TV group headed lower from the start of the session on the strength of the decision Wednesday by the Federal Communications Commission that the television industry must adopt the color-TV system developed by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Distillers were higher. Hiram Walker closed up 1½ at 51¼.

Distillers Corp.-Seagrams was up 1⅛ at 24, National Distillers ½ at 26 and Schenley ⅜ at 33.

St. Regis Paper was up ⅝ at 11⅛, and International Paper gained 1½ at 46¾.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 20 cents at $83.90 with the industrial component off 30 cents, rails unchanged, and utilities off 10 cents.

The volume of trading was 2,030,000 shares as compared with 2,190,000 shares Wednesday.

Ralph R. Webster, principal of Allegany, will be in charge of the tests. The three-hour test, is open to boys between the ages of 17 and 21, providing they are high school seniors and not married. Boys attending college may also take the exam.

In addition, he will receive pay at the rate of $50 a month for the four-year period. Upon graduation, he may be commissioned as an officer in the Regular Navy or Marine Corps and will be required to serve on active duty for two years. At the end of this time he may apply for retention in the Regular Navy or Marine Corps, or transfer to the Reserve and return to civilian life.

The Navy expects to enter about 1,600 students into the program commencing with the fall term of college, 1951.

Boy Chasing Dog Fatally Hurt By Trooper's Car

5-Year-Old Gilmore Lad Is Victim

A 5-year-old Gilmore boy was fatally injured yesterday afternoon when he ran on to the highway near his home while chasing a dog and was struck by a car driven by a Maryland State trooper on leave from his barracks at Frederick.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, said the lad, Richard Thomas Winner, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Winner, Gilmore, died enroute to Memorial Hospital here.

The accident, he reported, occurred on Route 36, about 100 yards south of Gilmore, at 2:10 p. m. when the child was struck by a car owned and operated by Trooper Maynard J. Whitney, Fairgo, who was enroute to Lonaconing while on leave from Barracks B, Frederick.

The unconscious child was taken to Lonaconing for first aid treatment.

Dr. Deming said he died enroute to the hospital and set the time of death at about 2:50 p. m.

State Police said the child was chasing a dog that ran across the highway from the east to the west.

They said the child ran from between two parked cars on to the highway and was struck by the oncoming car.

Ht said he was told the trooper did not see the child in time to avoid hitting him.

State Police said Trooper Whitney reported he was driving within the speed limit in the 50 mile zone.

Witnesses Accident

A mail carrier witnessed the accident, State Police said. They were unable immediately to identify the witness.

State Police said a hearing will be held at the State's Attorney's office today at 10 a. m.

Surviving, besides the boy's parents, are four brothers and two sisters, Delores, Judy, George, Jr., Larry, Michael and Raymond.

FATALLY INJURED — Richard Thomas Winner, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Winner, Gilmore, was fatally injured yesterday when he ran across the highway after a dog and was struck by a car police said was operated by State Trooper M. J. Whitney, on leave from Barracks B, Frederick.

Hundreds Pay City Taxes To Beat Deadline

Interest Charges To Start Tuesday

City Tax Collector George E Davis said Monday will be the last day that city taxes may be paid interest-free.

Starting Tuesday, one-half of one per cent monthly interest will be charged on tax bills, dating back to August 14, when the levy was passed.

Since it has been two months since the date of the levy, interest charges will amount to one per cent, Davis explained.

A total of 1,100 tax and water bills were paid during the day, with the latter amounting to $1,631.

Davis explained that flat rate water bills are due Monday.

Ordinarily the interest-free deadline for city tax bills would have come today, October 14, two months after the levy.

However, the deadline was extended through Monday because City Hall is closed on Saturdays.

About 82 per cent of the total tax bills of $810,226 has been collected, with about $150,000 still outstanding, Davis said.

National Stores Permit Granted

The National Stores Company was granted a permit in the city engineer's office yesterday to open a new store at 501 Virginia Avenue in premises formerly occupied by a cleaning establishment.

The two-story frame building is owned by Frank Bennett, 52 Bedford Street. The company presently operates a store on Wineow Street. Philip E. Keller, secretary, obtained the permit.

Miss Darling Will Visit New England

Miss Ella Darling, Bedford Street, resident psychiatric social worker for the local Mental Hygiene Clinic, will leave today on a week's vacation in New England.

Miss Darling will visit her mother, Mrs. Jennie Darling, at Meredith, N. H., and also will visit Admiral and Mrs. E. C. Kalbfus at Newport, R. I.

Local Woman Enlists In Woman's Air Force

Enlisting in the Woman's Air Force for four years, Virginia B. Boyd, Route 3, Cumberland, left here Wednesday for Lackland Airfield, San Antonio, Texas, according to M. Sgt. Clarence Biehn, of the local Army recruiting office.

$2,783 Needed To Put Chest Drive Over Top

Campaign Extended Until Wednesday

All but $2,783 of the Red Feather campaign goal of $87,794 has been raised and a "victory report meeting" winding up the campaign will be held next Wednesday noon at Central YMCA.

Extension of the campaign was announced last night by Frederic W. Eiler, general chairman of the Community Chest effort, at a report meeting at the "Y".

One of the three sections of the campaign, the Residential Section of women workers headed by Mrs. H. W. Eliason, is already "over the top."

Its goal was $4,500 and last night's reports brought the total to $4,603.

A total of $18,449 was needed to put the drive over the top on schedule last night.

$15,666 Reported

Of that amount, $15,666 was reported, bringing the total to date to $85,011.

Lynn C. Lashley, chairman of the Advance Gifts Section, reported an additional $4,661, bringing the total to $47,581. Goal is $49,000.

Reports from the Classified Section, headed by George M. Martin, amounted to $9,452 for a total to date of $32,828. Goal of the section is $34,294.

Commenting that "we are within striking distance of our goal," Eiler praised campaign leaders and workers for their efforts. He said the fact that the drive fell short last night was not the fault of the workers but was due to "apathy on the other end."

Eiler singled out the management and employes of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company for special praise. The group's goal was $1,500, twice as much as last year's, and $1,510 was raised.

Earl C. Robertson, president of the Cumberland Community Chest, expressed the gratitude of the nine member Chest agencies to the campaign workers for their "wholehearted effort and loyal support."

So long as that spirit of giving persists, Robertson said, "we need have no fear that communism will take root among our less fortunate people."

Hal Haylor, director of the campaign, told the 70 workers present that no business firm is too large to be resolicited if necessary to reach the goal.

Rev. Lawrence J. Kilkenny, pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic Church, gave the invocation.

Exceed Goals

Financial, George Caswell, leader, $1,824 of a goal of $1,790; railroads, Earl C. Robertson, $6,103 of a goal of $5,825; food, Lewis Ort, $2,748 of a goal of $2,600; educational, Charles L. Kopp, $1,947 of a goal of $1,700; and automotive, James E. Honeycutt, $3,596 of a goal of $3,310.

In the Residential Section, the following groups have gone over the top:

Zone 1, District A, Mrs. John Daychak; District B, Mrs. E. F. Avers; District C, Mrs. J. C. Baldwin; District D, Mrs. Howard Frost; Zone 4, Mrs. Elizabeth Nave, Districts A and D .

Zone 5, District A, Mrs. A. Cioni; District B, Mrs. R. B. Matthews; District C. Mrs. C. R. Burkey; District D, Mrs. J. K. Rozum; Zone 7, District A, Mrs. Paul Fletcher; District C. Mrs. Frederic W. Eiler; Zones 8 and 9, Mrs. John S. Cook.

Automotive—dealers, George L. Spoerl; accessories, David E. Boyd; and garages, Joseph Luckawich.

Heart Group Will Employ Home Nurse

Station Wagon Will Be Bought, Equipped

The Allegany County Rheumatic Fever and Heart Association board of directors last night reviewed applications from eight registered nurses, who applied for appointment to a full time position of home visiting nurse for the association

According to Thomas F. Conlon, chairman of the committee on applications, the board and committee decided to have Dr. Winter R. Frantz and a representative from the Baltimore Heart Association interview the applicants individually, and recommend a selection to the committee.

The nature of the work is new in this area, since it deals with program planning for children and adults confined to their beds or homes because of rheumatic fever or other heart conditions. There are about 100 cases in the county, requiring either this type of assistance or nursing and medical care, association members explain.

Funds realized from the heart campaign held locally last February are used to operate a local heart clinic and to pay the salary and expenses of the visiting nurse. The clinic is now operated two days a month in conjunction with the Health Department, but the nurse to be employed on a full-time basis will make regular visits to all registered heart patients.

Prior to starting her duties here, the nurse employed, Conlon said, will go to Baltimore for several weeks for special training in this work.

The group last night also decided to purchase a station wagon for the use of the nurse and a committee will inspect several vehicles this morning.

The next meeting of the committee and board members will be held in the office of the postmaster November 6 at 8:30 p. m.

Police And Firemen To Meet Monday

The regular meeting of the Police and Firemen's Welfare Association will be held in the squad room of the public safety building on Monday at 4 p. m., Curtis M. Kime, secretary, has announced.

Firemen Plan Demonstration In Mt. Savage

Four schools in the Mt. Savage area held fire drills yesterday in connection with Fire Prevention Week.

This was reported last night by Chief Charles King of the Mt. Savage Volunteer Fire Company, who supervised the drills with Assistant Chief Paul Goetz.

King announced that movies and a demonstration will be held in Mt. Savage tomorrow afternoon at the Fire Hall, starting at 1:30 p. m. The public is invited.

The demonstration will feature use of "super fog" for fighting oil and gasoline fires and will be presented by the Mt. Savage and Frostburg Volunteer Fire Companies.

Refreshments will conclude the program.

Schools where fire drills were conducted were Mt. Savage Public School, where 375 pupils cleared the building in one minute 10 seconds; St. Patrick's School, 140 pupils cleared in 43 seconds; Barrelville School, 48 pupils cleared in 22 seconds; and Dutch Hollow School, where 25 pupils cleared the building in 19 seconds.

King and Goetz praised teachers and principals for training of the children and reported their inspection showed the buildings were in good condition.

Meanwhile, George M. Hitchcock, general chairman of the Maryland Land Use and Fire Prevention observance, yesterday concluded visits to local schools by addressing groups at St. Patrick's, LaSalle and Carver.

A total of 4,700 local school students have heard talks during the week on fire prevention and soil conservation, Hitchcock said.

Plans Are Set For Halloween Parade In City

Allegany Bands Join List Of Marchers

Final plans for the Cumberland Halloween celebration parade were announced yesterday by officials of Cumberland Voiture No. 164, Forty and Eight, which is sponsoring the Mardi Gras event here.

Thomas F. Conlon, Sr., parade marshal, said the 16-division parade will assemble in South Cumberland at 7 p. m. to be ready to march by 8 p. m.

He said the giant parade should reach Baltimore Street by 8:30 p. m.

The route will be from Fifth Street to Virginia Avenue, to Maryland Avenue, to Williams Street, to Park Street, to Baltimore Street, to Centre Street, up Centre Street to Market, then down Mechanic Street to Baltimore, to Liberty Street, to Harrison Street and disband at the Maryland State Armory.

Fred A. Puderbaugh will make awards to musical organizations at the State Armory.

Trucks, floats and vehicles will drop out of the parade at South Mechanic Street. Heyl Walker will be in charge of arrangements.

Thomas Blacklin will be stationed at Virginia Avenue and Second Street to direct those who join the parade from that point.

Benjamin Ryan will be at Arch and Second Streets to assist with units who join the parade there, and Roy Whitson will be at Second Street and Grand Avenue for similar duties.

John R. Kelly will be in charge of the reviewing stand at City Hall, while Isadore Kamens and Joseph Wolfe will be stationed at the Baltimore Street B. and O. crossing to direct the parade across that point.

Conlon said each of the 40 some units which have already accepted bids to participate are being notified where they shall join the parade.

Walkie-talkie radio operators will be furnished by the Maryland National Guard to keep the formation moving smoothly.

Word was received yesterday that the Allegany High School Senior and Junior Bands will join the line of march.

Also to furnish music for the Mardi Gras will be the Mt. Savage Band, the Junior Order Band of Mt. Savage; the Fort Hill High School Junior and Senior Band, and three drum and bugle corps.

Officials said they hope this year's parade, with 40 acceptances so far, will exceed last year's event, which had 54 units.

Gaming Charges Are Dismissed In Police Court

Appeals Filed By City Solicitor

City Solicitor W. Earle Cobey yesterday filed appeals in Police Court after charges against two men accused of booking horse races were dismissed by Magistrate Peter J. Carpenti.

Both of the men, Frankie Frantz, 117 Oak Street, and Richard Fox, 17 First Street, pleaded not guilty to the charge of violating a city ordinance prohibiting maintaining gaming devices in this city.

Fines of $100 posted when the men were arrested by Lt. James E. Van and Detective Ernest M. Powell on September 25 were refunded.

The appeal on the ruling will be held over until the January term of Circuit Court.

In the meantime, both men are slated to receive hearings in Circuit Court next week on indictments found by the Allegany County Grand Jury.

The state charges, outgrowth of the arrests by City Police September 25, include counts against both Fox and Frantz on charges of accepting bets on racing horses, maintaining places where bets on racing horses are taken and permitting bets to be taken on racing horses.

The chief testimony in yesterday's hearing was presented by two members of the Cumberland Police Force, Officers William R. Keating and Karl W. Frankfort, who testified they placed $2 bets at the Score Board Pool Room, 20 North Mechanic Street, and the Queen City Billiard Hall, 19 North Liberty Street.

The officers said one of them went to the Scoreboard and placed a $2 bet, with the proprietor writing the name of the horse, amount of the bet and his (the officer's) initials on a slip of paper. Similar action followed at the Queen City Billiard Hall. The other probationary officer testified he witnessed the action.

Attaches said the defense presented three witnesses who said they witnessed the action but testified that no bets were placed by the officers.

Sixty Enroll In U. Of Md. Courses

Sixty Allegany County teachers have enrolled in courses being offered here by the College of Special and Continuation Studies of the University of Maryland.

The courses in mental hygiene and comparative European education are being conducted at the Board of Education office on Monday nights.

Dr. Josef Kratzenstein, who received his doctor of philosophy degree in education and philosophy in Zurlich, Switzerland, is instructor of the courses which carry two hours of graduate or undergraduate credit.

Potomac River Flow Is High In September

The flow of the Potomac River above Cumberland was far above normal during the month of September but is below normal this month, according to a report released yesterday by the United States Department of Interior Geological Survey at College Park.

The mean daily flow of the North Branch of the Potomac River at Cumberland during September, the report states, was 797 cubic feet per second, 224 per cent of the normal flow.

The daily flow varied from 116 cubic feet per second on September 9 to 6,140 cubic feet per second on September 22. The flow at the end of the month was 335 cubic feet per second.

Total rainfall on the basin above Cumberland, according to the Weather Bureau, averaged about 6.23 inches or 3.14 inches above normal. The average daily temperature was about 61 degrees, which is about three degrees below September normal.

The outlook for October, the report indicates, would have the river averaging about 337 cubic feet per second which is about 53 per cent of normal. Under adverse conditions the remainder of the month, however, the report suggests, little or no rainfall over the basin the rest of the month might bring the North Branch to about 120 feet per second flow or 19 per cent of normal.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

GOOD BET IF YOU LOSE

"IT'S a good bet, even if you lose" is an expression you often hear around certain games of chance. The meaning is that what you stand to gain is more than what you stand to lose, or else that your chance of winning is greater than that of losing, or perhaps a combination of those. You will find those principles applying to many phases of bridge, but especially to the bidding. For instance, it pays in the long run to bid games when the odds are slightly against making them. And it also pays over the span to bid small slams when the chance to make them is approximately even or slightly better.

Knowing from South's answer to the Blackwood 4-No Trumps that his side had all but one ace, North did what any good bidder would do when he put the contract into 6-Hearts. But, as it developed, every important break was against him and he failed to make it.

East led the club K, which North took with the A. He saw his two low clubs could be ruffed in the dummy, leaving him no losers except one in diamonds. Properly testing the trump situation first, he led to the heart A and was chagrined when West failed to follow suit. Now he saw that he could not ruff out his two clubs without using one of the top trumps, which were required to consume East's. It now was necessary to dispose of at least one of them on a diamond.

Proceeding toward that end, North led the diamond 5 toward his K. West came right in with the A and led the club 2 to the J, which was ruffed by the heart 6. The heart J and K were scored, then the diamond Q and J for discards of the last club and one spade, and the spade 2 led to the K. The heart Q now cleared out East's last trump and the contract could be made if the spade finesse would work. But when West overtook the J with the Q, the contract was down. Note that, if the trumps had been better divided, South could have discarded two losing spades and would not have needed the finesse.

.. Your Weekend Question

Sometimes your side's only chance for a game in a particular deal is in a major suit with only four cards in one hand opposite three in the other. When that is the case, what is the special danger against which you must protect yourself during the play?

The remainder of the market was highly mixed with a few individual issues standing out on the upside because of corporate developments.

Distillers were higher. Hiram Walker closed up 1½ at 51¼.

Boy Chasing Dog Fatally Hurt By Trooper's Car

5-Year-Old Gilmore Lad Is Victim

A 5-year-old Gilmore boy was fatally injured yesterday afternoon when he ran on to the highway near his home while chasing a dog and was struck by a car driven by a Maryland State trooper on leave from his barracks at Frederick.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, said the lad, Richard Thomas Winner, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Winner, Gilmore, died enroute to Memorial Hospital here.

The accident, he reported, occurred on Route 36, about 100 yards south of Gilmore, at 2:10 p. m. when the child was struck by a car owned and operated by Trooper Maynard J. Whitney, Fairgo, who was enroute to Lonaconing while on leave from Barracks B, Frederick.

The unconscious child was taken to Lonaconing for first aid treatment.

Dr. Deming said he died enroute to the hospital and set the time of death at about 2:50 p. m.

State Police said the child was chasing a dog that ran across the highway from the east to the west.

They said the child ran from between two parked cars on to the highway and was struck by the oncoming car.

Ht said he was told the trooper did not see the child in time to avoid hitting him.

State Police said Trooper Whitney reported he was driving within the speed limit in the 50 mile zone.

Witnesses Accident

A mail carrier witnessed the accident, State Police said. They were unable immediately to identify the witness.

State Police said a hearing will be held at the State's Attorney's office today at 10 a. m.

Surviving, besides the boy's parents, are four brothers and two sisters, Delores, Judy, George, Jr., Larry, Michael and Raymond.

FATALLY INJURED — Richard Thomas Winner, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Winner, Gilmore, was fatally injured yesterday when he ran across the highway after a dog and was struck by a car police said was operated by State Trooper M. J. Whitney, on leave from Barracks B, Frederick.

Hundreds Pay City Taxes To Beat Deadline

Interest Charges To Start Tuesday

City Tax Collector George E Davis said Monday will be the last day that city taxes may be paid interest-free.

Starting Tuesday, one-half of one per cent monthly interest will be charged on tax bills, dating back to August 14, when the levy was passed.

Since it has been two months since the date of the levy, interest charges will amount to one per cent, Davis explained.

A total of 1,100 tax and water bills were paid during the day, with the latter amounting to $1,631.

Davis explained that flat rate water bills are due Monday.

Ordinarily the interest-free deadline for city tax bills would have come today, October 14, two months after the levy.

However, the deadline was extended through Monday because City Hall is closed on Saturdays.

About 82 per cent of the total tax bills of $810,226 has been collected, with about $150,000 still outstanding, Davis said.

Potomac River Flow Is High In September

The flow of the Potomac River above Cumberland was far above normal during the month of September but is below normal this month, according to a report released yesterday by the United States Department of Interior Geological Survey at College Park.

The mean daily flow of the North Branch of the Potomac River at Cumberland during September, the report states, was 797 cubic feet per second, 224 per cent of the normal flow.

The daily flow varied from 116 cubic feet per second on September 9 to 6,140 cubic feet per second on September 22. The flow at the end of the month was 335 cubic feet per second.

Total rainfall on the basin above Cumberland, according to the Weather Bureau, averaged about 6.23 inches or 3.14 inches above normal. The average daily temperature was about 61 degrees, which is about three degrees below September normal.

The outlook for October, the report indicates, would have the river averaging about 337 cubic feet per second which is about 53 per cent of normal. Under adverse conditions the remainder of the month, however, the report suggests, little or no rainfall over the basin the rest of the month might bring the North Branch to about 120 feet per second flow or 19 per cent of normal.

W. H. Hahn Presented 20-Year Service Pin

W. H. Hahn, Ellerslie, is among 33 men and women of the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company and affiliated system receiving service award pins in recognition of having completed from five to 20 years employment.

Hahn makes his headquarters at the company's State Line compressor station near Ellerslie and has completed 20 years service.

The initial five-year award pin from the Columbia Gas System of which the local company is a part is being presented to seven employes.

The 10-year pin is being presented to 13 men and women; the 15-year pin to two persons, and the 20-year emblem to Hahn.

All regular gas company employes who complete 25 years service are eligible for membership in a local chapter of a Quarter Century Club. A suitably engraved watch and a 25-year pin is presented at an annual meeting held each May.

$2,783 Needed To Put Chest Drive Over Top

Campaign Extended Until Wednesday

All but $2,783 of the Red Feather campaign goal of $87,794 has been raised and a "victory report meeting" winding up the campaign will be held next Wednesday noon at Central YMCA.

Extension of the campaign was announced last night by Frederic W. Eiler, general chairman of the Community Chest effort, at a report meeting at the "Y".

One of the three sections of the campaign, the Residential Section of women workers headed by Mrs. H. W. Eliason, is already "over the top."

Its goal was $4,500 and last night's reports brought the total to $4,603.

A total of $18,449 was needed to put the drive over the top on schedule last night.

$15,666 Reported

Of that amount, $15,666 was reported, bringing the total to date to $85,011.

Lynn C. Lashley, chairman of the Advance Gifts Section, reported an additional $4,661, bringing the total to $47,581. Goal is $49,000.

Reports from the Classified Section, headed by George M. Martin, amounted to $9,452 for a total to date of $32,828. Goal of the section is $34,294.

Commenting that "we are within striking distance of our goal," Eiler praised campaign leaders and workers for their efforts. He said the fact that the drive fell short last night was not the fault of the workers but was due to "apathy on the other end."

Eiler singled out the management and employes of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company for special praise. The group's goal was $1,500, twice as much as last year's, and $1,510 was raised.

Earl C. Robertson, president of the Cumberland Community Chest, expressed the gratitude of the nine member Chest agencies to the campaign workers for their "wholehearted effort and loyal support."

So long as that spirit of giving persists, Robertson said, "we need have no fear that communism will take root among our less fortunate people."

Hal Haylor, director of the campaign, told the 70 workers present that no business firm is too large to be resolicited if necessary to reach the goal.

Rev. Lawrence J. Kilkenny, pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic Church, gave the invocation.

Financial, George Caswell, leader, $1,824 of a goal of $1,790; railroads, Earl C. Robertson, $6,103 of a goal of $5,825; food, Lewis Ort, $2,748 of a goal of $2,600; educational, Charles L. Kopp, $1,947 of a goal of $1,700; and automotive, James E. Honeycutt, $3,596 of a goal of $3,310.

Heart Group Will Employ Home Nurse

Station Wagon Will Be Bought, Equipped

The Allegany County Rheumatic Fever and Heart Association board of directors last night reviewed applications from eight registered nurses, who applied for appointment to a full time position of home visiting nurse for the association

According to Thomas F. Conlon, chairman of the committee on applications, the board and committee decided to have Dr. Winter R Frantz and a representative from the Baltimore Heart Association interview the applicants individually, and recommend a selection to the committee.

The nature of the work is new in this area, since it deals with program planning for children and adults confined to their beds or homes because of rheumatic fever or other heart conditions. There are about 100 cases in the county, requiring either this type of assistance or nursing and medical care, association members explain.

Funds realized from the heart campaign held locally last February are used to operate a local heart clinic and to pay the salary and expenses of the visiting nurse. The clinic is now operated two days a month in conjunction with the Health Department, but the nurse to be employed on a full-time basis will make regular visits to all registered heart patients.

Prior to starting her duties here, the nurse employed, Conlon said, will go to Baltimore for several weeks for special training in this work.

The group last night also decided to purchase a station wagon for the use of the nurse and a committee will inspect several vehicles this morning.

The next meeting of the committee and board members will be held in the office of the postmaster November 6 at 8:30 p. m.

Gaming Charges Are Dismissed In Police Court

Appeals Filed By City Solicitor

City Solicitor W. Earle Cobey yesterday filed appeals in Police Court after charges against two men accused of booking horse races were dismissed by Magistrate Peter J. Carpenti.

Both of the men, Frankie Frantz, 117 Oak Street, and Richard Fox, 17 First Street, pleaded not guilty to the charge of violating a city ordinance prohibiting maintaining gaming devices in this city.

Fines of $100 posted when the men were arrested by Lt. James E. Van and Detective Ernest M. Powell on September 25 were refunded.

The appeal on the ruling will be held over until the January term of Circuit Court.

In the meantime, both men are slated to receive hearings in Circuit Court next week on indictments found by the Allegany County Grand Jury.

The state charges, outgrowth of the arrests by City Police September 25, include counts against both Fox and Frantz on charges of accepting bets on racing horses, maintaining places where bets on racing horses are taken and permitting bets to be taken on racing horses.

The chief testimony in yesterday's hearing was presented by two members of the Cumberland Police Force, Officers William R. Keating and Karl W. Frankfort, who testified they placed $2 bets at the Score Board Pool Room, 20 North Mechanic Street, and the Queen City Billiard Hall, 19 North Liberty Street.

The officers said one of them went to the Scoreboard and placed a $2 bet, with the proprietor writing the name of the horse, amount of the bet and his (the officer's) initials on a slip of paper. Similar action followed at the Queen City Billiard Hall. The other probationary officer testified he witnessed the action.

Attaches said the defense presented three witnesses who said they witnessed the action but testified that no bets were placed by the officers.

Attorney Thomas B. Finan represents the defendants.
